HOSEMER'S GREAT RACE.
At 1:40 Friday Elliott, Hoamer, Ten Eek and Friddy, the contestants in the fourth trial heat, professional race at Hitt, City, Pa. were called to start. A dispute was made Elliott and Hoamer had a dispute which created great excitement. The word "go" was given at 1:50, all getting away in good style. Hoamer and Ten Eek and Friddy passed each other. When the three horses were abreast, Ten Eek was still in the lead. A minute later Elliott crossed the bow of Hoamer's boat, and both stopped rowing and turned back. Ten Eek maintained the lead and came in first in 21 minutes and 29 seconds. The judges announced that the best work had to be done over, and Elliott, who had the judges and referee believed fouled Hoamer intentionally, was barred from all races in the regatta. Subsequently when the heat was rowed off Hoamer shot ahead, with Friddy second and Ten Eek in the rear. Hoamer retained the lead, and at the three-quarter was a length ahead of Friddy, who was closely followed by Ten Eek. Here Ten Eek spatted and passed Friddy, and began to make Hoamer pull. At the three-quarter Hoamer was two lengths ahead of Ten Eek and Friddy continued to close in on him, but could not catch him, and Hoamer crossed the line winner by a length, in the extraordinary time of 20:03, beating all previous records. ## CAREY'S SLAYER.

O'DONNELL IN COURT IN LONDON.

He Maintains a Cool Demeanor--Evidence of the Informer's Wife--The Prisoner.

O'Donnell was brought to the Bow street court in London, Friday, under a strong guard. The court room was crowded. Among those present were J. C. O'Connor, M. P. for Wicklow, and Arthur O'Connor, M. P. for Queen's county. Mr. Sullivan, a cool demeanor throughout the examination James Parish, a servant on the steamer Melrose, and Thomas Jones, the boatman, but elicited from them nothing new. When the latter repeated O'Donnell's expression to Mrs. Carey, "I did not do it," the prisoner, who maintained a cool demeanor throughout the examination, smiled as if the expression amused him. Parish testified that he saw no evidence of passion on the part of O'Donnell during the shooting. Both Parrish and Boatman Jones testified that they saw O'Donnell with O'Donnell and Carey.

The son of Carey was also cross examined. He stated that O'Donnell was sitting when he fired the first shot at his father and that his father did not grapple with O'Donnell. He admitted that he might have testified under examination at Cape Town that O'Donnell said to Mrs. Carey: "I had to do it" or "I did it." The witness maintained, however, that his statement on Tuesday was correct, namely, that O'Donnell said the words, "I was sent to do it" until he was closely pressed by his cross-examination, when he said that he was not quite clear what the words used by O'Donnell really were.

Mrs. Carey, the widow of the murdered informant, who she appeared deeply in deep mourning and excited, the special interest of the spectators in the court room and several murmurs of sympathy were heard.

In giving her testimony she recounted the incidents of the voyage, collaborating the other witnesses regarding the circumstances of the murder, except that she swore that after her husband was shot she said to O'Donnell: "You shot my husband," O'Donnell replied, she said: "Don't blame me; I was sent to do it." Whereupon the woman who was with him said: "Don't mind, O'Donnell, you are an informer."

The cross-examination of Mrs. Carey by Mr. Sullivan failed to shake her testimony. She denied that she had talked to her son about his evidence.

Magistrate Flowers asked O'Donnell if he had anything to say in answer to the charge of murdering Carey. O'Donnell replied: "Not at present." The prisoner was then ordered to stand committed for trial at the next session of the central criminal court.

At New York, on Friday, a report having been circulated to the effect that Judge William Fullerton and General Roger A. Pryor had been retained as American counsel for the defense of O'Donnell, the latter's lawyer, a reporter called upon Judge Fullerton and was told by him that the report was true. As to the conduct of the case, or the part which he expected the American counsel would take, Judge Fullerton would say nothing.

LOSS AND GAIN.
CHAPTER I.
"I was taken sick a year ago
with cholera, and I was very ill, and I got sick again, with terrible pains in my back and sides, and got so bad I could not move."
I struck
From 225 to 125 I had been doctoring for my liver, but it did me no good. I did not expect to live more than three months. I began to use Hop Bitters. Directly my appetite returned, my pains left me, my entire system seemed renewed as if by magic, and after using several bottles I am not only as good as cured, but I feel better than I did before I used Hop Bitters. I feel better than I did before I used Hop Bitters.

"I was taken sick a year ago
I struck
From 225 to 125 I had been doctoring for my liver, but it did me no good. I did not expect to live more than three months. I began to use Hop Bitters. Directly my appetite returned, my pains left me, my entire system seemed renewed as if by magic, and after using several bottles I am not only as good as cured, but I feel better than I did before I used Hop Bitters. I feel better than I did before I used Hop Bitters.
