A DETECTIVE'S EXPERIENCE.

His Successful Undertaking and Escape from an Impending Fate.

(Buffalo, N. Y. News)

One morning several years ago, just as the full gray light was beginning to show itself in the east, a small band of men might have been seen deployed about a house on Ferry street, Buffalo. There was nothing special either in the dress or appearance of the men to indicate their intention, but it was plain that they had business in that house on Ferry street, and indeed, a man appeared at one of the windows, took the situation at a glance and, swinging himself out with wonderful quickness, seized the roof of the house. This man was Tom Barr, the notorious counterfeiter, and, at once, the teeth of the law were upon him. He defied justice and the office below him, and the officers, knowing the desperate character of the man, proposed to shoot him until he was killed, but one of the number promptly protested that if his brother officers would assist him to ascend he would capture the man. Accordingly, the men began the difficult and dangerous task of grounding in bringing his prisoner to the ground in front of the house.

The man who accomplished this task was Mr.

Thomas Curtis, the present superintendent of the city police of Buffalo, N. Y. He is a man who is known by every prominent detective and policeman in America, and he stands prominently in the front rank of his profession. Quiet and gentlemanly in appearance and manner, and of a pleasant and agreeable disposition, he is a man of great energy and marked physical powers, and he has the reputation of being a man of great nerve and courage. It is not surprising that he has been so successful in his profession. In relating his experience to the public, he says: "I was on duty I would feel an insupportable weariness and lack of energy. My appetite was also gone, and my head seemed dull and heavy. I did not fully understand these troubles, but supposed to be the result of the fact that I was from Buffalo. I tried to throw off the feeling, but without success. I tried to sleep, but I was unable to do so. I tried to eat, but I was unable to do so.

I tried to walk, but I was unable to do so.

I tried to sit, but I was unable to do so.

OHIO'S CONTEST.

A GRAND POLITICAL CONTEST.

Both Parties Claiming Success--The Great

Protestant of the Prohibition on "Vote-ment--Everything at Sea.

Col. McClure telegraphed Monday night to to-day's Philadelphia Times from Cincinnati, Ohio:

There is generally admitted uncertainty as to the result of the Ohio election of Monday evening. The Prohibitionists claim to have secured a majority of the vote, and the elements of doubt have diminished during the last week. The Republicans are much the more confident, but the Democrats are hopeful, and not entirely without reason. They know that they will largely profit by the popular interest tomorrow and they hope that the Prohibitionists will throw away 15,000 or more votes on their own state ticket, which would pretty certainly elect Hoody.

The liquor interest that is to give the Democrats a chance of success is a factor that can be estimated; at least, there is a certain limit beyond which it can't go. But the Prohibition movement has become a craze. Its last vote will be polled, as there is a direct vote on a prohibitory constitutional amendment, and it is waiting around so silently that none can tell whether Foraker may lose five, ten, fifteen or twenty thousand Republican Prohibitionists.

The power of the liquor element in Ohio politics may be appreciated by a glance at the revolution it wrought in two years in the great centres of Cincinnati, Cleveland, Toledo and Columbus. Hamilton county (Cincinnati) gave a Republican majority of 5,001 in 1880 and a Democratic majority of 1,050 in 1882. Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) gave 6,995 Republican majority in 1880 and 2,541 Democratic majority in 1882. Lucas county (Toledo) gave 1,172 Republican majority in 1880 and 961 Democratic majority in 1882. Franklin county (Columbus) increased her Democratic majority of 425 in 1880 to 1,589 in 1882. Hamilton thus made a change of 15,770. Cuyahoga changed 9,754. Lucas changed 2,133 and Franklin changed 1,164, making a total change in favor of the Democrats of 28,911. While the 1,172 of 1880 is a Republican stronghold of the state. It is not claimed that the revolution will be repeated in like proportions to day in Hamilton, Cuyahoga and Lucas, but Hoody will certainly carry them by 10,000.
