Important Temperance Points.

The temperance advocates claim that the prohibition amendment has been carried in Ohio, though it seems to have been defeated by a narrow majority...

It is within the legitimate province of government to regulate the consumption of liquor, or of tobacco, or anything else, so that it may be done in an objectionable way.

Field Marshall Cooper is engaged in the melancholy business of whistling to keep his courage up. It is not an agreeable part of the duty of a political showman...

West Chester papers are making merry over the flight of the jail birds. The Eastern Express predicts a craze for salvation army methods in the politics of the future.

The Chambersburg Valley Spirit thinks some cheap papers are kept running by having morals as low as their price. The Altoona Tribune believes that the men who attack the public school system are not wise in their generation.

The Seranton Republican was somewhat "previous" in publishing a cut of Foraker as governor elect, the day after the Ohio election.

The Philadelphia North American remarks that the fact that nine millions of currency has disappeared from the channels of circulation in as many months remains a fact to be accounted for.

The Titusville Herald would foresee that the next presidential contest will be the most earnest and exciting in proportion to the ardor of the hopes of the Democracy, and the intensity and desperation of the party in power to retain its supremacy.

The annual time table convention in Chicago will recommend the adoption of the plan termed the "hour system."

The United States supreme court sadly needs some reconstruction to enable it to do its work. The delay in its judgments does great injustice to the people.

DUELLING IN A STREET.

A DISCUSSION ENDS IN BLOODSHED.

James Hays, fatally wounded by William Hays, - First of a Terrifying Man and His Death.

James B. Hays, Democratic ward rough and leader of the lowest type, but a man who had political influence enough in Baltimore to carry the Seventh ward in the last election, was shot and fatally wounded in front of the City Hall in that city on Thursday.

The death of Hays, and the fact that the affair has caused some excitement there, has caused some excitement there, has caused some excitement there.

When he reached the North Street pavement he met several Democratic friends, and began talking over the details of the day's events.

His coat was torn, his hat had been hit, and he was bleeding from the head with the butt of his weapon. In the meantime Hays was holding him with both hands by the lapels of his coat.

Hays was also taken to the station house, and was found lying on a stretcher in the ambulance, once in the left side, and twice in the left arm.

There has been a long feud between these men, which originated in a political quarrel some ten or twelve years ago, and was further intensified by the election of William McKewen as mayor of Baltimore.

Hays is the brother of Billy Carroll, the prize fighter, who once had a mill with Sam Collier. Carroll changed his name from Dusey when his mother married the second time.

The charges of the ex-President's Disloyalty Related by Him.

Joseph Holt, who was postmaster general and afterwards secretary of war under President Buchanan, has written a four column letter which the Washington National Intelligencer has just published in certain statements recently made in an interview with a newspaper correspondent by Jacob Thompson, who was also a member of President Buchanan's cabinet.

The letter as a whole deals with questions of personal rather than public interest, and is a reply to Holt's "six" scurrilous charges" affecting his reputation. It closes with the following defence of the loyalty of President Buchanan:

"I cannot close this communication without bearing emphatic testimony to the loyalty of President Buchanan throughout the troubled and trying season which marked the last months of his administration. With measureless responsibilities pressing him, and badgered by traitors and by the department of government, which denied him sympathy and loyal support, and standing as he did on the brink of the great national calamity the imminence of which was darkening all hearts, he was often cast down but never unfaithful to his duties.

At Boston, the marriage Thursday of John P. Andrew, son of the war governor and Miss Harriet Thayer, daughter of the late Nathaniel Thayer, was the event of the season. Trinity church was thronged at noon.

TRISON LITERATURE.

Reminiscences of Lancaster's Latest Jail Situation.

The quiet and respectable old city of Lancaster is fast becoming a paradise for criminals. A few months ago it was greatly disturbed by a long series of moonlight raids, which nothing but an over-extended patrol from the surrounding towns could have kept the peace.

More complete returns from Tuesday's election indicate an increase in the Democratic majority, which will be considerably over 12,000.

At Cincinnati, Thursday, Judge Hays spent several hours in his office, where he was visited by a large number of his constituents, who were anxious to see him in person.

Government telegraphs from Cincinnati to the New York World are as follows: "My mind is without me from the current of opinion that my judgment must be largely discounted."
