A short time ago we bought a special bargain

very nice for the money they sold very quickly

and we have now received another large lot which we shall sell at the same price. They are fine goods and are sold at $1.75 for either

Undershirt or pair of Drawers, or $3.50 for the Suit. We also have the lower grades of Scarlet

Underwear, excellent qualities, for $1.25 aptece.

In Men's Fancy Grey Undershirt we sell the best in the city for 25 cents. Upon examining you will be astonished how good it really is for the money. Just to think, only 25c aptece or 50c, for the full Suit. No need of anyone being cold or catching colds when they can be c'ad so warmly for so low a price. We have also a full assortment of Men's White Merino gencer Reporter. The Pennsylvania railroad officials here have been informed that the annual in spection os the road will commence November 6 The inspecting party, in four small trains will closely follow one another leaving Pittsburg on that day. The road between the starting point and Altoona, will be inspected on the 6th, that between Altoona and Harrisburg on the 7th, be tween Harrisburg and Philadelphia on the 8th, and between the latter place and New York on the 9th, where the inspection of the main line ends. The inspecting party will consist of the general manager of the company, the general superintendent, assistant engineers and supervisors. It is believed, though no orders have yet been received here, that the Frederick division and Columbia branch will be inspected before the general inspection takes place. The officers making this inspection will be the superintendents of the Philadelphia and Frederick divisions, assistant engineers, supervisors and division foremen. Personal and Social.

Mr. Charles has returned from a few days visit to Harrisburg. George Wambaugh, an employe of the Herald, was given a surprise party at his home on Walnut street, last evening, by upwards of forty of his friends. The evening passed quickly away for the young folks in playing games usual to such affairs. Some good vocal and organ music was furnished by several of the guests, and the recipient of the evening's attention gave a very creditable cutertainment on the flute. The party broke up shortly before mid-

To morrow the excursion over the Read ing & Columbia railroad to Reading will be held. The attractions for the day in the city will be a bicycle parade through the streets by over a hundred ladies and gentlemen, followed by a bicycle race in the fair grounds, and the sessions of the teachers' institute of Berks county in the grand opera house.

A mysterious stranger, who promenades nightly on North Walnut street, and whose actions indicate that he is looking for some person, is causing some alarm among the feminine portion of the resi-dents of that part of town. He is always enveloped in a large overcoat and keeps his hat drawn down over his brow, so that it is impossible to sccure a view of his face. Who is he?

Interesting Items from the Oxford "Press. A large number of wild ducks were shot on the Susquehanna river, near Peach Bottom, last week. The shooting was particularly good on Saturday morning, and some canvasbacks, now rare in this section, fell victims to the sportsmen.

ass fishing in the Susquehanna at Fite's Eddy is now attracting the attention of anglers. About 150 fine fish were caught there on Saturday last. The river is getting in good condition and fine sport is expected for some weeks. The deep, still water of the Eddy seems to form a harbor into which the bass gather for winter quarters, and makes the late fishing espo-cially good at this place.

Joseph F. Myers, of Oak Hill, this 27th, 1883, at 2 p. m., in the museum. county, had a runaway accident in Oxford on Saturday last that might have been attended with very serious results. He had purchased a stove and loaded it into his wagon when the horse became terrifled and ran off. Mr. Myers held on as long as possible and when he let go was struck by the wagon, knocked down and severely injured in the back and legs. The wagon was upset and broken, while the stove was thrown out and shattered to pieces.

ORUSHED BY A DERRICK.

Frightful Accident to Jacob Feight on Tues day Morning.

Jacob Feight, of Wormleysburg, on the other side of the river, lost his life Tues day morning in a very frightful manner. For some time he has been employed as one of the stone masons who are at work putting up the new piers for the Cumber land valley railroad bridge. About eight o'clock the men began to raise one of the heavy stones by the aid of the derrick. When it had almost reached the height desired one of the guy ropes supporting the derrick broke, and in a moment the heavy piece of timber came tumbling down. Mr. Feight was directly in its path of descent, and was unable to got out of He was struck on the head and neck. His lower jaw was fractured and his neck broken. He died almost justantly. His body was at once taken to the ospital where Coroner Shindler held an inquest, the verdict being in accordance with the facts as stated. The deceased was from Lancaster, having only moved his family to Wormleysburg last week. He leaves a wife and two children.

The Pemocratic Outlook in this State In a letter to the New York Sun George D. Herbert writes: "Demogratic success will give to that party control of every department of the state government except the judiciary. Besides, both parties fully understand that it will determine the voice of the state in the presidential contest next year. While the leaders of the two Republican factions seem to be reconciled, it is an open secret that the rank and file of the Independents are not satisfied with the arrangement. Charles S. Wolfe, who organized the bolt in 1881 and received the largest vote ever polled for an independent candidate, is opposed to the ticket and he has many followers. There being no independent ticket to go to, these men will vote with the Democrats, and success to that party this time will make permanent the union now, without bargain or consideration, in process of formation, thus determining the future politics of the state in the hands of the Democrats until the abuses of power make them undeserving of success.

effect of the result in Ohio. In all parts of the state the hopefulness which Hoadly's victory has spread among the Democrats of Pennsylvania will be felt to their advantage. But this influence will be particularly noticed in the border counties, from Washington to Eric. Beaver, Mercer, the western part of Crawford and Eric are more identified in social and business relations with Ohio than with our own state. The Mahoning and Shenango valleys, separated by the ridge that divides the state, are particularly homogeneous in population and industry. The block coal, a simultaneous deposit exclusively found there, the blast furnaces and rolling mills, bring the business and laboring men constantly together, and the influences that worked political revolution in that the first the parts of the constantly together, and the influences that worked political revolution in that
