

Lancaster Intelligencer.

THURSDAY EVENING, OCT. 26, 1883.

Our local cotemporary, which takes a special charge of the Republican party in this county, is urgent upon the voters of its party, in double loaded invocations, to come out and vote. It asks them to appear now in view of the coming presidential election. Nothing less than a miracle, it declares, can elect Blaine, or any other Republican, next year if Pennsylvania is lost this year. This year's contest in Pennsylvania is magnified by the Examiner into the decisive struggle for the presidency. But we shall not expect to see our cotemporary folding its arms when the election is lost, as all the signs portend that it will be. It is not the habit of the party organ to sing the same song or draw the same deductions after the election as before. Hope eternal rises in the party editor's breast; or he pretends that it does. He sings a lively tune always, sometimes sweetly, sometimes hoarsely; but he is ever singing. The Examiner is a particularly bold bird, however, so he decidedly declares to its friends that it is now or never. It tells the truth, too, this time. We recommend its party friends to march out to the polls this time, if they want to save their bacon next year. They have been whipped too often lately to make it safe for them to lose any more battles, if they expect to come up smiling and confident next year.

Ohio was a fearful damper to their hopes. There they had to beat a man who was away off in Philadelphia, being doctored for malaria, and they had a candidate who made a speech, and good ones, too, in every hamlet in the state. And they got out the vote. They had an exciting election and cannot charge their defeat to the stay-at-homes. They were beaten because they did not have the votes.

The same trouble may reasonably be expected to cause their downfall in Pennsylvania; though their forces are brought to the polls they will still be found lacking. But if they come out they will have the conviction, to solve them, of a duty performed. All the Republicans in Lancaster county who have a desire to have a conscience void of offense, when the defeat of their party is recorded after the election day, will harken to their organ's appeal and come out to vote. The organ hopes that there are sixteen thousand such out of the twenty thousand Republican voters it claims to live and breathe and have their being in this county; and it confines its hope to a 16,000 poll. It must be said that it is in no way wild and extravagant in calling for sixteen out of twenty. If we were doing it we think we should call out the whole body. If this is the crucial contest for the presidency, our opponents ought to fetch out their whole army. They cannot afford to keep a fourth of it in reserve. We, of course, expect to see the Democrats turn out to a man. We do not ask them to come out this time to show what they can do next time, but we want to see them record their verdict upon the issues of the present campaign, which we conceive to be important enough to claim their verdict.

There are hardly twenty five per cent. of the Republican voters who are physically incapacitated to attend the polls; and we understand that their organ is summing only three-fourths of them to the election, considering that one fourth of them cannot be got out by the most touching sort of an appeal. It considers that it has that number of political sluggards in its ranks whom nothing less than a first-class political earthquake, or a direct presidential fund, can fetch to the polls. Having a poignant realization, from long and sad experience of the uselessness of wasting words of invocation upon this class of its voters, it leaves them to their ploughshares and husking gloves, and contents itself with a possible seventy five per cent. It is true and evident that in doing this the organ concedes that there are twenty-five per cent. of its voters who will not listen to or believe it; for the Republican continent that turns out only in presidential elections would come out in this one if it is persuaded that this is really the presidential contest, as the Examiner declares it to be. We suggest to our cotemporary that it make a thorough test of the confidence its followers entertain in its veracity and judgment by sending a marked copy of its declaration that this is the presidential fight to each one of the twenty thousand, if it can find them all; and then it will certainly find out how many of them are its true and faithful followers, with confidence in its truth and faith in its judgment. We hope, indeed, that our cotemporary may not find as many as four out of twenty to use it despitefully, for so large a percentage of rebels in an army argues something wrong in men or leaders.

OUR Utah there is a lively war between the Union Pacific and the Denver & Rio Grande railroads regarding freight charges. The latter company lowered its rates recently and the Union Pacific, for obvious reasons, has cut its prices also. Perhaps the companies will not make much out of the condition of affairs, but the merchants seem to be taking full advantage of the cheapness in charges, and are ordering goods by telegraph. It is not, however, likely that this situation will long continue, since the reduction is very great and even the monied railroad companies find it necessary to be favored with returns which are profitable to them.

THE Democratic ticket was successful in Baltimore after an animated contest. As this result was anticipated, notwithstanding there were good grounds of complaint against the Democratic administration, such as are to be expected when one party long dominates municipal affairs, the result is an evidence that the general Democratic vitality is strong. It is in harmony with the Ohio teaching of the drift of political sentiment, and another sign of the coming Democratic ascendancy in the country at large.

DEMOCRATIC economy in the present house out of 23 office holders and effected a saving in salaries of $17,700.

Among all intelligent and unbiased thinking people there will be doubtless a general desire to see and hear Mr. Arnold who has just arrived on our shores. His unassuming nature bespeaks for him the success which he deserves.

PERHAPS John Stewart had not heard of ex-Governor Pollock's removal when he said in his Monday evening's speech that "in twelve months there has not been a single removal from public office in Pennsylvania for political reasons."

CRIME in England, Wales and Scotland, according to recent statistics, costs the annual sum of $30,000,000. This is a pretty heavy tax for the worst classes of society to impose upon the law abiding citizens.

WAR or mediation can now only settle the Franco-Chinese dispute on the Tonquin question. The publication of the Yellow Book shows that the most exhaustive negotiations looking to a peaceable settlement have taken place with no avail, and none can now predict the outcome.

COMPTROLLER of the Treasury Knox has been laughed out of court for his suggestion of British consols and French rentes as a basis of the United States national bank circulation. Better the rottenness of the safe bonds as a basis, than these securities which will rise and fall with the slightest breath of a war on the continent.

THE steady stream of contributions to have been used to flow into the Republics from the office holders of the party is fast drying up. Hopful Cooper thinks big game where all heretofore was liberalism. The department clerks are astute enough to perceive that money can no longer bolster up "the grand old party" and that its doom is inevitably sealed.

IT is useless to attempt an embargo on Chinese immigration to this country. The almost equal foreigners are coming into the San Francisco port in droves, each a man with the necessary trader's certificate, which under the United States treaty entitles them to land. Their appearance shows them to be laborers, while the answers given to troublesome questions by the customs inspectors indicates that they have been well educated as to what to reply concerning their occupations. All of which goes to show that "for ways that are dark and tricks that are vain, the heathen Chinese is peculiar."

THE study of the full returns from Ohio shows that Headly not only has a majority of 12,529 over Forsaker, but he has a majority of 1,288 over his Republican, Greenback and Prohibition opponents combined. This magnificent result happened notwithstanding the fact that the Republican vote exhibits an increase of 39,000 over that of last fall. Garfield's majority in that state over Hancock was 31,227. The total vote this year was only 3,503 less than that cast in the presidential contest three years ago. Granting that all of these would have been cast for the Republicans the Democrats would still have a plurality of more than 9,000. Put the twenty-three votes of Ohio in the Democratic column.

A FATHER'S CRIME.

A FAMILY HORRIBLY MURDERED.

After a man had been shot in the back of the head, the bullet striking the brain, and the man dying in a few minutes, the coroner's jury returned a verdict of manslaughter.

NEWCOMERSTOWN, Ohio, is now laboring under the most intense excitement over the discovery, Tuesday night, of one of the most shocking and revolting crimes of the modern age ever occurring in that section of Ohio.

FRIZER, who had murdered his three children and his wife, and then killed himself. From information secured on the ground it seems that Tuesday night about eight o'clock Mr. J. Neisbaum, brother-in-law of Mr. Frizer, came along the road past the Frizer's house and noticed that the Frizer's horse was carrying a man to the stable.

THE venerable William Penn house, a perfect picture of the old time cottage, despite the partial renovation necessitated by its removal from Letitia street to West Fairmount park, was fully prepared for the celebration of the centennial of the birth of Alexander W. C. Frizer, who called the meeting to order, presented a letter from John Welsh, upon which the duty of accepting the building for the commission was to have been devolved.

THE venerable William Penn house, a perfect picture of the old time cottage, despite the partial renovation necessitated by its removal from Letitia street to West Fairmount park, was fully prepared for the celebration of the centennial of the birth of Alexander W. C. Frizer, who called the meeting to order, presented a letter from John Welsh, upon which the duty of accepting the building for the commission was to have been devolved.

THE venerable William Penn house, a perfect picture of the old time cottage, despite the partial renovation necessitated by its removal from Letitia street to West Fairmount park, was fully prepared for the celebration of the centennial of the birth of Alexander W. C. Frizer, who called the meeting to order, presented a letter from John Welsh, upon which the duty of accepting the building for the commission was to have been devolved.

THE venerable William Penn house, a perfect picture of the old time cottage, despite the partial renovation necessitated by its removal from Letitia street to West Fairmount park, was fully prepared for the celebration of the centennial of the birth of Alexander W. C. Frizer, who called the meeting to order, presented a letter from John Welsh, upon which the duty of accepting the building for the commission was to have been devolved.

THE venerable William Penn house, a perfect picture of the old time cottage, despite the partial renovation necessitated by its removal from Letitia street to West Fairmount park, was fully prepared for the celebration of the centennial of the birth of Alexander W. C. Frizer, who called the meeting to order, presented a letter from John Welsh, upon which the duty of accepting the building for the commission was to have been devolved.

COURT.

A CASE CONCERNING a Public Road in Conesburg Township.

WEDNESDAY Afternoon—Court by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

THE case was argued by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

THE case was argued by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

THE case was argued by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

THE case was argued by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

THE case was argued by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

THE case was argued by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

THE case was argued by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

COURT.

A CASE CONCERNING a Public Road in Conesburg Township.

WEDNESDAY Afternoon—Court by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

THE case was argued by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

THE case was argued by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

THE case was argued by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

THE case was argued by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

THE case was argued by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

THE case was argued by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

THE case was argued by Daniel R. Shuck and Daniel Eckman. The defendants are supervisors of Conestoga township and were charged with neglect or duty in failing to keep in proper repair the road that leads from Slackwater to the fair at Lancaster.

COLUMBIA NEWS.

Events Along the Susquehanna—Items of Interest in and about theorough.

A pleasant social gathering assembled at the residence of Mr. Thomas P. Lundy, Tuesday evening, last, for the purpose of celebrating the anniversary of his wife's birthday.

Samuel Smith, colored, was held in bonds by Squire Frank for assault and battery and surety of the peace, the plaintiff being his wife, Annie Smith. The first case will be returned to court.

Squires Young and Patton each had a drunk and disorderly case before them last evening. Both were discharged on payment of costs.

James Trout, Elmer Youngers and Wm. Hickey, three small boys, were before Squire Frank last evening charged, by Ernest Witters, a bill poster, with defacing posted bills. Hickey was discharged for want of evidence against him, but the others were sentenced to pay a fine and the costs of suit.

Councilman George Tilla was victimized yesterday with a pair of devil ducks, or fisher ducks, which his joking friends sent him, telling him they were canvas backs. He had one of them roasted for his dinner to day, and now he declares that he won't accept ducks as a present again.

Mrs. Nicholas Gilman and daughter, Mrs. H. A. Weaver, and Mrs. George H. Haggart, returned from a trip to Hagerstown, Md., last evening.

Mr. A. M. Rambo of the Chesapeake, is home from a trip to Fall River and Boston, Mass.

John Brown and Joseph Fisher bagged together 71 wild ducks yesterday and the day previous.

COLUMBIA NEWS.

Events Along the Susquehanna—Items of Interest in and about theorough.

A pleasant social gathering assembled at the residence of Mr. Thomas P. Lundy, Tuesday evening, last, for the purpose of celebrating the anniversary of his wife's birthday.

Samuel Smith, colored, was held in bonds by Squire Frank for assault and battery and surety of the peace, the plaintiff being his wife, Annie Smith. The first case will be returned to court.

Squires Young and Patton each had a drunk and disorderly case before them last evening. Both were discharged on payment of costs.

James Trout, Elmer Youngers and Wm. Hickey, three small boys, were before Squire Frank last evening charged, by Ernest Witters, a bill poster, with defacing posted bills. Hickey was discharged for want of evidence against him, but the others were sentenced to pay a fine and the costs of suit.

Councilman George Tilla was victimized yesterday with a pair of devil ducks, or fisher ducks, which his joking friends sent him, telling him they were canvas backs. He had one of them roasted for his dinner to day, and now he declares that he won't accept ducks as a present again.

Mrs. Nicholas Gilman and daughter, Mrs. H. A. Weaver, and Mrs. George H. Haggart, returned from a trip to Hagerstown, Md., last evening.

Mr. A. M. Rambo of the Chesapeake, is home from a trip to Fall River and Boston, Mass.

John Brown and Joseph Fisher bagged together 71 wild ducks yesterday and the day previous.