and Women know ere this that of the many discusses and derangements of the body each has a separate cause or origin, and that each needs a different method of treatment in order to effect a care, and a moment's reflection must convince that any of the quack nostrums folsted upon the public claiming to cure all of a number of diametrically different diseases must prove failures, even if we do not call them humbugs.

and people of moderate means, and even people well-to-do or wealthy, find that the enormous charges of practising physicians are a serious burden to them, and also find that after paying themselves poor that no benefit has accrued to them, that in fact they have thrown their money away. To overcome these evils woofter Wheeler's No. 26 bure Remedies to the sick and suffering one Remedy for each discase, without for a moment chaining that one remedy will cure any other disease than the one claimed for it, and as these remedies have stood the test of years without a single fature, we agree to refund the money paid in every instance where a cure is not positively effected. The remedies are entirely vegetable, can do no harm, and will positively cure every disease for which they are prescribed.

RHEUMATISM.

Gout, Lameness of Joints, Sciatica and Neuralgia are relieved at once and positively cured by the use of Wheeler's No. 95 Rheumatic Remedy. We say boldly that in the worst of cases of no matter how long standing, how serious, or how painjul, we can not only give relief but positively cure for all time. SUFFERING WOMEN SUFFERING WOMEN.

Many a lady, endowed by nature with a pretty face, beautiful figure, faultiess complexion, as well as the sweetest of tempers and faultiess mental qualities grows prematurely old, gray and wrinkled, her form loses its perfect contour, the complexion becomes sallow, the brightness leaves the eye, a feeling of languor takes the place of the once buoyant spirits, an irritable nervous fractiousness makes life a burden, things that once were trifles worry her until life becomes unbearable. All this being caused by the physical derangements so common to women, which the innate modesty of feminine nature prevents their making known, and of which the tynorance of the modical profession prevents a cure. Lady Reader, pause and consider, 'Us a duty you owe yourself, your family and your God, that you should cure yourself of these troubles and once more feel the glow of perfect health and spirits that nature intended for you. Wheeler's No. & Prescriptions are pleasant and palatable to take, contain nothing of an injurious nature, and may be taken by all ages, at all times and in all congutions, without possibility of the effects, and will positively cure any of the peculiar diseases to which temales are subject. Falling to produce a perfect cure the proprietors will refund the money paid for the treatment. Protest Against Tree Butchering-The Corn and Other Crops-Something About the Chickens, ermantown Telegraph.

In a month or two more we will again see the tree butchers at work in chopping off about half of the shade trees, on the plea that it is high time for them to have a good trimming and let it start again on its way rejoicing! We think that if the owners of these trees knew the injury they are inflicting upon them, they would have none of it. In truth two or three of these butcherings will probably kill the trees outright; while one of these opera tions will do more mischief upon the beauty and symmetry of the trees than they will ever recover from. We ask them to look now at the trees thus butchered, not only last spring or winter, but two or three years ago, and note their hideous appearance. They are mere skeletons, as repulsive almost as those of the human body and stand in glaring denuded ranks directly in front of your dwellings, lawns, etc., for every one to criticise the knowledge and taste of the proprietor who either committed or permitted the butch ery.

Our Improved Corn and Other Crops. Every observing person must have taken note of the progress of farming in the cul vation of the corn crop within the last thirty or forty years, particularly in Eastern Penusylvania. So clearly was it ascertained by experimenting that clean cultivation was the salvation of the crop, and that it is now rare to see a badly cultivated field of corn. In nearly every instance it is kept as free of weeds as a vegetable garden, and in this care of the corn field it presents one of the most beautiful pictures. But it is not only in relation to the corn crop that this im-provement is perceptible, though the room for a change for the better has not been so great. It is to be noticed in all our grain crops. There is not a dock, a mullen stalk, a wild carrot, a thistle, or a weed of any kind among them. One cause of this may be that fence corners or lines of fences are no longer with good farmers allowed to be the hot beds of weeds which are easily destroyed by frequent cutting; and we now have every kind of imple ments with which to do it in cases of this kind as well as to use in the cleanly cultivation of the corn and other cereals, as well as all other crops of the farm. Feeding Fowls in Winter.

There is no end to the advices as to the season. That corn is a staple food for fowls in all its forms, is well known and is adopted by every experienced raiser. Some make the meal into mush; some will save much suffering. Some make the meal into mush; some soak the whole grains and place it where the fowls can obtain it at all times; and some again burn or char the corn on the cobs and throw it into the poultry house at the same time keeps them well in flesh. In fact, if one expects profit from hens in winter, when eggs generally sell at two prices, they must provide good, comfortable houses, exposed to the southwest, good laying boxes, plenty of roosting poles, sand, or soft soil to scratch in access to lumps of pounded bones, salt, fresh water twice a day that freezing up may not interfere injuriously against a supply of water whenever needed. Corn being the food most relied on, there should at all times be a trough of it of the whole grain in order that the fowls may help themselves whenever in want.

Leander Richardson in Swinton's Paper.

Vanderbilt is crazy on the subject of fast driving. I have never seen such a man. The fact that he was recently thrown out of his buggy and nearly killed does not seem to have produced the slightest effect upon him. I was driving up the road the other day behind the pair of trotters which belonged to another man, when we heard a shout and the clatter of hoofs behind us. Already our horses were going about as fast as I ever knew them to, and I have ridden behind them in 2.31 by the watch. "It's Vanderbilt," exclaimed the other man, turning his head slightly and laying the braid across his trotters, sending them out for all they were worth. I took hold of the side of the buggy and held on. The pace was pretty hot, and I had a sort of vague feeling of uncertainty as to how far we should be thrown if either animal were to strike a stone. Pretty soon it occurred to me to look around at the face of the man who was trying to get past us. What an expression! The eyes were fixed in their sockets, looking straight at the flanks of the horses, the thick, coarse lips were tightly drawn, the deep lines on either side of the nose were sunken and powerfully marked, the temples were intersected with swollen veins, the brow was corrugated in an anxious frown, and I never in my life saw such another picture of low, brutal excitement. It was the tension of the engineer who crowds on the steam and no longer cares whether the boiler bursts or not. Vanderbilt would have driven past us that day if he had mashed his horses, his buggy and himself to smithercens in doing it. Fortunately for him he was able to out trot us without any such result. But one of these days he will take too big a contract, and go over a fence on his head, Then what becomes of our billionaire?

EXPRESSMEN LIABLE MR. A. S. MERKILL, the popular expressman of Erunswick, Me., writes us on May 15, 1883, for the fowls to help themselves whenever their health may need it. In cold weather it is a common practice with chicken claus, I suffers with distressing pains in my raisers to give the fowls in the morning a back, and retention of urine, caused by soft, warm feed, say of corn meal mush, stoppage of the neck of the bladder, and a accompanied with an onion chopped up complication of other diseases, I was hardly as a preventive of disease. Grease, in the able to a tend to my business, and at times way of drippings, mixed with the mush is would be completly prestrated. I was also excellent, and causes the bens to lay and affected with incontinence of urine to an alarming degree; indeed, it demanded my at-tention fifteen or twenty times per night, and at times it would seem impossible for me to ride down to the depot on my wagon, for every jar from the wagon would almost seem to take my life. Having falled to obtain relief from my doctor, I fically consulted our druggist, Dr Merryman, of Brunswick, and re quested him to furnish me with the most reitable and speedy cure for such stekness, for 1 was suffering too much for human nature to endure long. The doctor recommended me to use Hunt's Remody, as it had been used with e markable success in a good many cases in Brunswick and vicinity. I purchased a bottle, and received such great relief that I continued, and had not used two bottles before I began to improve beyond my expectations. The pains in my kidneys and loins disappeard, I gain d strength and my water began to pass naturally, and I was able to sleep soundand obtain the greatly needed rest which tor a long time I could not. I am fully re stered to health, and can attend to my busiprepared a joint resolution, which he will ness. Thanks to Hunt's Remedy for my resintroduce in the House of Representatives toration, and I highly recommend it to all who are troubled with kidney complaints.

After giving it a fair trial, I began to improve, and can now truly say it was a 'Godsend to me,' as I am now able to do my household work and enjoy the best of ealth. I have recommended Hunt's Remedy to two of my neighbors, who have been great ly benefited by it.
