

Lancaster Intelligencer.

MONDAY EVENING, DEC. 24, 1883.

The Market House Accident.

The demolition of the Northern market house, through its contemplation a surprising event, was really one which could not have failed to happen at some time, if the original iron rods of the roof were permitted to remain. The calamity teaches us a valuable lesson as to the life of these rods. It is well known that iron railroad bridges are frequently examined to determine the condition of the iron, because of the distrust which engineers have as to their continued vitality under constant vibration and the contraction of heat and cold. We do not know what determination has been reached as to the safe life of bridge iron, but we are under the impression that it is not yet determined with definiteness, and that observation is acutely directed to the solution of the question. The destruction of this market house will doubtless be noted with great interest by those who are interested in the question of the duration of iron in structural works. The building was put up in 1872, and the roof was constructed under the supervision of William K. Beard, the able master carpenter of the Pennsylvania railroad here, whose capacity as a builder is very highly esteemed. It may be assumed that the work was well done, and that the fact that it has stood for eleven years is sufficient proof in itself of this fact. But for eleven years the iron rods have been contracting and expanding under the violent changes in the temperature of our climate, with the result that the iron had become crystalline and weak. There was, besides the eleven years strain upon it, the weight of the roof. It is well known that the most fibrous iron will be crystallized under a comparatively moderate degree of concussion. It will be crystallized even under the blows upon the chisel used to cut it. The strain of the roof and the frequent contraction and expansion, it is natural to believe, would have a like effect.

If it is true, as stated, that these rods have not been drawn up, after the brasses of the wooden arches, which they held together at their base, had become loose through the drying of the wood, there is another good reason furnished for the giving way of these arches under the unusual weight upon them. The snow fall was not as great as it has often been; but the few inches which fell last night being succeeded by sleet, were made very heavy and with the weight of the previous fall of snow, there was enough to try the strength of the roof severely. If the arches had been properly braced the iron stay rods might have stood; but certainly the lesson clearly taught by the fall of the roof is that one of such construction is not safe; for it will not do to put roofs on buildings which require that their supports shall be frequently examined and repaired or renewed. It may do where an engineer corps has such examination as its constant duty; but it will not do where there is not such constant intelligent supervision. We want no more market houses with trussed roofs. The new market houses have northern built on the same principle as the Northern market house, but with heavier stay rods. They will be safe for years, as it was; but that will hardly answer the public demand that a pavilion shall be a safe beyond a peradventure. The disaster to the Northern market might have been terrible. If the fall had happened while the market was being held no one would have got uninjured or alive. If it had happened when anyone was on the street, loss of life would have been sure. It was most fortunate in its time and circumstances. Even the adjoining house which it crushed in part was untenanted for that night. Let us be thankful for the great calamity escaped, and see to it that we use the warning to make a great catastrophe impossible in the future.

The forecast of Speaker Carlisle's committee that is made indicates that he has dealt fairly with the members and in no wise slighted those who opposed his election. His ways and means committee is headed, of course, with Morrison, who has a Democratic majority in sympathy with him, in accordance with the issue that was made in Mr. Carlisle's election; but the speaker himself will be consulted in all tariff legislation, and he is too shrewd and observant a man to let Mr. Hurd or Mr. Blackburn run away with the committee, as the Republicans hope they will be permitted to do. Especially complimentary to Pennsylvania and altogether grateful to the country, because of their illness, are the assignments of the appropriations and foreign affairs chairmanships to Mr. Randall and ex Governor Curtin respectively. Of Mr. Randall's appointment there was never any reasonable doubt; the happy thought seems to have occurred to the new speaker to settle the contest between Cox and Belmont by giving the place they scrambled for to the only ex minister at a first class foreign court on the Democratic side. As the place comes to Representative Curtin with dignity, he will fill it with ability and credit; and if anybody undertakes to build and operate a Panama canal except under the domination of the American flag, the eagle will be heard to scream. If Mr. Cox is assigned to naval affairs and Mr. Belmont to shipping, they ought to be satisfied. In the discharge of his first responsible duty it looks as if Mr. Carlisle had done very well.

It has been discovered that the door keeper of the last Republican House of Representatives in Washington carried on the pay roll fictitious names for which he drew salary and pocketed it; that he kept on the pay rolls the name of his partner in the paper mill in Tennessee, who never was in Washington, that he carried his wife and eleven year old boy, on the pay roll at $100 a month each, and paid his sister-in-law $20 a dozen for winter towels. The name of this door-keeper was Browland, he was a nephew of the famous "Parson," he is a candidate for postmaster of the Senate, and presumably a friend of John Sherman.

"Peace on Earth"

Christmas, with its tide of religious and kindly associations is again upon us, and the glad tidings proclaiming "peace on earth to men of good will" will be announced ere another morn, as it was to the wailing shepherds nearly nineteen hundred years ago. Peering back through the silent centuries at the scene in the stable at Bethlehem, when the Prince of Peace was born, believer and unbeliever alike must be thrilled with a supernatural wonder at the fruitage that has grown from the little seed then planted. Talk as men will of religious decadence, and ridicule as they may Christian dogmas that finite reason cannot comprehend, the song of the angel announcing the Saviour's birth will find a responsive echo in the hearts of the millions with which the world is peopled to day. To the well fed and clothed, as well as to the hungry and miserably clad, the Christmas message comes, and perhaps no better lesson is taught at this gracious season than the duties of the rich to the suffering poor.

The Christmas tidings of peace come with peculiar appropriateness to the United States, which, in contrast with other nations, is enjoying a period of the most profound tranquillity. Great Britain lives in daily dread of dynamite explosions, and its leading men go about carrying their lives in their hands; Russia is in the midst of a fierce anti-Semitic persecution; Germany has a discontented populace that are fast fleeing to other shores to escape the rule of the Iron Chancellor; Spain has her revolutionists; Portugal is threatened with an earthquake, and France has her hands full in the dispute over the Tonkin matter with China. A temporary dullness in trade is the only shadow that darkens the Christmas celebration in this country, and that cloud is fair to be soon lifted for the new year. The message of joy finds the nation at peace with itself and all nations, respected by all and "surpassed by none."

There is a special fitness in celebrating, at this season, commemorating of "peace on earth," the centennial of the return to its scabbard of the sword of Washington. Drawn in the cause of a people's liberty, as soon as that glad consummation was reached he returned the commission he bore, with the same dignity and pure patriotism that had marked all his previous career. He stands in singular contrast with the conquering heroes before his time and the lesson of his character was lost on a great many military chieftains who came after him. The wisest study of his unselfish example cannot fail to make a valuable impression upon the young mind of to day.

There is a special fitness in celebrating, at this season, commemorating of "peace on earth," the centennial of the return to its scabbard of the sword of Washington. Drawn in the cause of a people's liberty, as soon as that glad consummation was reached he returned the commission he bore, with the same dignity and pure patriotism that had marked all his previous career. He stands in singular contrast with the conquering heroes before his time and the lesson of his character was lost on a great many military chieftains who came after him. The wisest study of his unselfish example cannot fail to make a valuable impression upon the young mind of to day.

There is a special fitness in celebrating, at this season, commemorating of "peace on earth," the centennial of the return to its scabbard of the sword of Washington. Drawn in the cause of a people's liberty, as soon as that glad consummation was reached he returned the commission he bore, with the same dignity and pure patriotism that had marked all his previous career. He stands in singular contrast with the conquering heroes before his time and the lesson of his character was lost on a great many military chieftains who came after him. The wisest study of his unselfish example cannot fail to make a valuable impression upon the young mind of to day.

There is a special fitness in celebrating, at this season, commemorating of "peace on earth," the centennial of the return to its scabbard of the sword of Washington. Drawn in the cause of a people's liberty, as soon as that glad consummation was reached he returned the commission he bore, with the same dignity and pure patriotism that had marked all his previous career. He stands in singular contrast with the conquering heroes before his time and the lesson of his character was lost on a great many military chieftains who came after him. The wisest study of his unselfish example cannot fail to make a valuable impression upon the young mind of to day.

There is a special fitness in celebrating, at this season, commemorating of "peace on earth," the centennial of the return to its scabbard of the sword of Washington. Drawn in the cause of a people's liberty, as soon as that glad consummation was reached he returned the commission he bore, with the same dignity and pure patriotism that had marked all his previous career. He stands in singular contrast with the conquering heroes before his time and the lesson of his character was lost on a great many military chieftains who came after him. The wisest study of his unselfish example cannot fail to make a valuable impression upon the young mind of to day.

There is a special fitness in celebrating, at this season, commemorating of "peace on earth," the centennial of the return to its scabbard of the sword of Washington. Drawn in the cause of a people's liberty, as soon as that glad consummation was reached he returned the commission he bore, with the same dignity and pure patriotism that had marked all his previous career. He stands in singular contrast with the conquering heroes before his time and the lesson of his character was lost on a great many military chieftains who came after him. The wisest study of his unselfish example cannot fail to make a valuable impression upon the young mind of to day.

Huntington county recently proposals were received for filling two clerical offices; and the son of an commissioner and the son-in-law of another were installed as salaries far higher than that of other applicants for the positions who were admitted to be equally efficient. Evidently there is need at the present time of several effective baits of lightning to purify the political atmosphere of Republican Huntington.

Then peered the hills, more red and deep, And 'neath the hills, more red and deep, The Wrong shall fall, the Right prevail. With peace on earth, good will to men.

PERSONAL.

"POOR CAROLITA" is 42 and convalesces. BRECHER is richer, fatter and stouter than ever. WATSON is color blind except in the bright sunlight. TAYLOR is fat, eccentric, a Tory and a millionaire. JOHN SHERMAN overtakes the presidency of the Senate. THEO. TILTON supports his wife, his daughters are married. JOHN BROWN'S daughter, married, has taken the stamp to female suffrage. SWANSON has taken a poet. MORRIS Farnham and Browning, Methodists. SENATOR JOHNSON likes the "fat pulpit" joke roasted with "sweet taters." GOV. WILKINSON of Illinois, has a "smarm" habit—a handy aid to a Western politician. HEPBURN has abated the terrors of Annam in favor of Kienpau, a lot of 42 years ago. SWEENEY B. ANTHONY is 63 and looks 47. GEORGE BLANCHARD's wife is so beautiful and accomplished. MRS. CARLISLE is officially the first lady of the land—Arthur and Anthony being widowers. CONGRESSMAN LEAKE POLANSKI, wife is the nearest fool among the Washington society ladies. HENRY J. JACKSON is miserably contented by a wide western party as one of the booby brothers. LOTT has made his debut in London. Her act is liked better than the plays in which she appears. BELWICK never knew and never enjoyed what year he was born in, because he has found out it was in 1833. JAMES W. BOSTER used to plank down his check to the Republican national committee for $10,000 at a time. JOHN MORRISSETT, when in Congress, was asked that he be put at the tail of the least important committee. GOV. PROCTOR KNOTT is embarrassed at the scramble of forty handsome widows for the office of state land agent. FUGLE REMES "has stirred up a new controversy by asserting that the position of governor did not play the baby. MARY ANDERSON'S reported engagement to the Duke of Portland is generally regarded as a new advertising dodge. JIM KERNE is unhappy; his $7,000 salary is reduced by a $10,000 one deposited by Curtis in "Samuel of Posen".

ROBERT G. MCCARTHY, the oldest practicing member of the Albany county bar, died Saturday morning from pneumonia. GEO. W. KELAN is in his book of reminiscences speaks of Thaddeus Stevens in terms of great admiration for his ability. MISS LUCIA M. ADRIAN—50—says she has fallen in love with many pretty girls, but never the least bit with any man. GOV. BELLEVILLE of Michigan, elected on an anti-corporation ticket, has been killed politically by his greed for free railroad passes. ROBERT BRENSHAW has returned to England from Venice. He has instructed his publisher to issue a cheap edition of his works. NAST draws his salary and sends his picture regularly to Harper, but they never appear. They do not exist with the editorial staff.

PROF. E. O. LEELE has been returning to our teachers' institutes in the confidence and is highly commended by the newspapers of this section. MISS HENRY VILLARD, who was daughter of William Lloyd Garrison, is hospitable and mistral and graciously shows ladies in her own rooms. SWANBURNE the poet, desires that he be at present any intention of visiting the United States. He says he has an offer of an engagement to lecture in this country, but has postponed his acceptance of it. ROBERT H. BANCROFT, the Pacific coast historian is visiting the literary news of Monday morning from guests, books and manuscripts to his library from that country. H. W. WEBSTER FLEMING the gentleman who electrified the Chicago convention by asking "What are we here for?" has gone to Washington, and the inquiry arises "What is he there for?" JAMES F. BROWN convicted of complicity with Plattsburgh, in the Philadelphia, also had his house business was on Saturday sentenced to one year from the date of his commitment, January 23rd last. The prisoner will be entitled to one month reduction of sentence for good behavior.

There's a song in the air, there's a star in the sky, There's a mother's deep prayer and a baby's low cry; And the stars flash as fire within the beautiful sky, And the mother of Bethlehem cradles a King! —J. G. Holtend.

UNION WALES WRITH.

Returning to speak to his wife for Ten Years because she was not a Christian. Utah Wales had been a member of the Free Christian church of Coalton, Pa., for nearly thirty years and was a class leader and exhorter. His wife was not a unit member, and frequently ridiculed her husband's enthusiasm in his religion. Ten years ago he told her that he would not speak to her again until she saw her error and experienced religion. He kept his word, and the couple never acknowledged a word until last week. All communication between them was conducted through a son. Early in the present month a revival of religion began in the church, Mrs. Wales was converted. Her husband, on Thursday evening arose in church and said that he had been a widower for ten years, but that "now he thanked God he had a wife." Mrs. Wales created a sensation by being in her seat and saying that she did not believe a man who was truly religious could deliberately ignore his wife for ten years, and asked that special prayers be offered for the conversion of her husband. When she turned to him and said: "Utah, get on your knees, ask for forgiveness for your sins, and be awakened to the error of your ways. I will lead you to the Lord myself." She walked toward the seat where he was sitting. He arose hurriedly and went out of the church. Since then he has not been seen, and no trace of him can be found.

The night that erst no name had worn, To its happy name is given; For to a nameless babe, the name of the famous "Parson," he is a candidate for postmaster of the Senate, and presumably a friend of John Sherman.

The night that erst no name had worn, To its happy name is given; For to a nameless babe, the name of the famous "Parson," he is a candidate for postmaster of the Senate, and presumably a friend of John Sherman.

The night that erst no name had worn, To its happy name is given; For to a nameless babe, the name of the famous "Parson," he is a candidate for postmaster of the Senate, and presumably a friend of John Sherman.

The night that erst no name had worn, To its happy name is given; For to a nameless babe, the name of the famous "Parson," he is a candidate for postmaster of the Senate, and presumably a friend of John Sherman.

The night that erst no name had worn, To its happy name is given; For to a nameless babe, the name of the famous "Parson," he is a candidate for postmaster of the Senate, and presumably a friend of John Sherman.

The night that erst no name had worn, To its happy name is given; For to a nameless babe, the name of the famous "Parson," he is a candidate for postmaster of the Senate, and presumably a friend of John Sherman.

The night that erst no name had worn, To its happy name is given; For to a nameless babe, the name of the famous "Parson," he is a candidate for postmaster of the Senate, and presumably a friend of John Sherman.

LATE NEWS.

A Westchester Socialist and the Society. Westchester Socialist and the Society. Westchester Socialist and the Society. Westchester Socialist and the Society.

The day of rest. The day of rest. The day of rest. The day of rest. The day of rest. The day of rest. The day of rest. The day of rest.

With his turkey stuffed an' roastin' an' so many good things come. An' will money 'a' buy orders of a settin' place was found?

With his turkey stuffed an' roastin' an' so many good things come. An' will money 'a' buy orders of a settin' place was found?

With his turkey stuffed an' roastin' an' so many good things come. An' will money 'a' buy orders of a settin' place was found?

With his turkey stuffed an' roastin' an' so many good things come. An' will money 'a' buy orders of a settin' place was found?

With his turkey stuffed an' roastin' an' so many good things come. An' will money 'a' buy orders of a settin' place was found?

With his turkey stuffed an' roastin' an' so many good things come. An' will money 'a' buy orders of a settin' place was found?

With his turkey stuffed an' roastin' an' so many good things come. An' will money 'a' buy orders of a settin' place was found?

With his turkey stuffed an' roastin' an' so many good things come. An' will money 'a' buy orders of a settin' place was found?

With his turkey stuffed an' roastin' an' so many good things come. An' will money 'a' buy orders of a settin' place was found?

With his turkey stuffed an' roastin' an' so many good things come. An' will money 'a' buy orders of a settin' place was found?

With his turkey stuffed an' roastin' an' so many good things come. An' will money 'a' buy orders of a settin' place was found?

With his turkey stuffed an' roastin' an' so many good things come. An' will money 'a' buy orders of a settin' place was found?

With his turkey stuffed an' roastin' an' so many good things come. An' will money 'a' buy orders of a settin' place was found?

ENTRAIT.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah. From a Christmas Station by Rev. Isaiah.

A TOTAL WRECK.

NORTHERN MARKET HOUSE FALLS. The roof, horse down by an immense weight of snow, Paris Street looking Everything in its Path.

The Farmers' Northern market house in ruins. A violent earthquake could not have wrecked more completely. At a quarter before eleven this morning residents in the vicinity were startled by a terrible, rumbling rattling noise as if the falling of immense walls, the clattering of heavy timbers and the swaying and crashing of iron rods, was being heard.

The Farmers' Northern market house in ruins. A violent earthquake could not have wrecked more completely. At a quarter before eleven this morning residents in the vicinity were startled by a terrible, rumbling rattling noise as if the falling of immense walls, the clattering of heavy timbers and the swaying and crashing of iron rods, was being heard.

The Farmers' Northern market house in ruins. A violent earthquake could not have wrecked more completely. At a quarter before eleven this morning residents in the vicinity were startled by a terrible, rumbling rattling noise as if the falling of immense walls, the clattering of heavy timbers and the swaying and crashing of iron rods, was being heard.

The Farmers' Northern market house in ruins. A violent earthquake could not have wrecked more completely. At a quarter before eleven this morning residents in the vicinity were startled by a terrible, rumbling rattling noise as if the falling of immense walls, the clattering of heavy timbers and the swaying and crashing of iron rods, was being heard.

The Farmers' Northern market house in ruins. A violent earthquake could not have wrecked more completely. At a quarter before eleven this morning residents in the vicinity were startled by a terrible, rumbling rattling noise as if the falling of immense walls, the clattering of heavy timbers and the swaying and crashing of iron rods, was being heard.

The Farmers' Northern market house in ruins. A violent earthquake could not have wrecked more completely. At a quarter before eleven this morning residents in the vicinity were startled by a terrible, rumbling rattling noise as if the falling of immense walls, the clattering of heavy timbers and the swaying and crashing of iron rods, was being heard.

The Farmers' Northern market house in ruins. A violent earthquake could not have wrecked more completely. At a quarter before eleven this morning residents in the vicinity were startled by a terrible, rumbling rattling noise as if the falling of immense walls, the clattering of heavy timbers and the swaying and crashing of iron rods, was being heard.

The Farmers' Northern market house in ruins. A violent earthquake could not have wrecked more completely. At a quarter before eleven this morning residents in the vicinity were startled by a terrible, rumbling rattling noise as if the falling of immense walls, the clattering of heavy timbers and the swaying and crashing of iron rods, was being heard.

The Farmers' Northern market house in ruins. A violent earthquake could not have wrecked more completely. At a quarter before eleven this morning residents in the vicinity were startled by a terrible, rumbling rattling noise as if the falling of immense walls, the clattering of heavy timbers and the swaying and crashing of iron rods, was being heard.

The Farmers' Northern market house in ruins. A violent earthquake could not have wrecked more completely. At a quarter before eleven this morning residents in the vicinity were startled by a terrible, rumbling rattling noise as if the falling of immense walls, the clattering of heavy timbers and the swaying and crashing of iron rods, was being heard.

The Farmers' Northern market house in ruins. A violent earthquake could not have wrecked more completely. At a quarter before eleven this morning residents in the vicinity were startled by a terrible, rumbling rattling noise as if the falling of immense walls, the clattering of heavy timbers and the swaying and crashing of iron rods, was being heard.

The Farmers' Northern market house in ruins. A violent earthquake could not have wrecked more completely. At a quarter before eleven this morning residents in the vicinity were startled by a terrible, rumbling rattling noise as if the falling of immense walls, the clattering of heavy timbers and the swaying and crashing of iron rods, was being heard.

The Farmers' Northern market house in ruins. A violent earthquake could not have wrecked more completely. At a quarter before eleven this morning residents in the vicinity were startled by a terrible, rumbling rattling noise as if the falling of immense walls, the clattering of heavy timbers and the swaying and crashing of iron rods, was being heard.

The Farmers' Northern market house in ruins. A violent earthquake could not have wrecked more completely. At a quarter before eleven this morning residents in the vicinity were startled by a terrible, rumbling rattling noise as if the falling of immense walls, the clattering of heavy timbers and the swaying and crashing of iron rods, was being heard.

arrange companies take risks on this sort of accident. Miss Maggie Lutz, the sister of Mrs. Wm. Blockenderfer, was at the residence of the latter last evening, and owing to the snow storm that was prevailing Mr. Blockenderfer started out to his work early this morning. He was almost persuaded to do so, but thought she had better go home and finally did so. Had she remained she would have slept in a bed in a second story back room, which is now a messy and cluttered room, but every other article of furniture in the room being broken to pieces. One corner of the bed and the pillows may now be seen crushed beneath tons of brick and lumber, while the heavy headboard of the bedstead was thrust bodily through the shattered wall of the building and lies among the debris in the yard below.

Mr. Blockenderfer's horses were in the stable at the time the wall of the market-house fell, and owing to the weight of the animals, though surrounded by debris and imprisoned in the wreck, escaped injury, and after several hours work were safely taken out.

When the front wall of the market house fell it carried down with it the telegraph, telephone and electric wires, all of which were buried beneath the ruins. The electric lamp in front of the markethouse was carried almost to the ground, but fortunately the electric wire did not break and the house, as it was, remained brightly as ever. Had the wire broken all of the lamps in the northwestern section of the city would have instantly gone out.

It is said that the shock of the falling building was heard a distance of two miles in the country, and was supposed to be the result of an earthquake.

When the market people began to assemble this morning there was universal amazement at the scene of desolation where they had worked week for years, been in the habit of assembling. Then they started to look at the wreckage, and might have been followed by exclamations of thankfulness and praise for the marvelous escapes they had made—many of them thinking God that the building had fallen before they got into it.

It is not known how any loss of life or any serious injury to anyone resulted, but there are some dark hints that a tramp or two may be buried beneath the ruins. It is well known that the doorways and recesses of the building were often crowded as sleeping quarters by this class of people, but it is hoped the bitter cold weather of last night drove them to some more comfortable quarters.

Many of the market men who had in mind to erect a building were often crowded as sleeping quarters by this class of people, but it is hoped the bitter cold weather of last night drove them to some more comfortable quarters.

Many of the market men who had in mind to erect a building were often crowded as sleeping quarters by this class of people, but it is hoped the bitter cold weather of last night drove them to some more comfortable quarters.

Many of the market men who had in mind to erect a building were often crowded as sleeping quarters by this class of people, but it is hoped the bitter cold weather of last night drove them to some more comfortable quarters.

Many of the market men who had in mind to erect a building were often crowded as sleeping quarters by this class of people, but it is hoped the bitter cold weather of last night drove them to some more comfortable quarters.

Many of the market men who had in mind to erect a building were often crowded as sleeping quarters by this class of people, but it is hoped the bitter cold weather of last night drove them to some more comfortable quarters.

Many of the market men who had in mind to erect a building were often crowded as sleeping quarters by this class of people, but it is hoped the bitter cold weather of last night drove them to some more comfortable quarters.

Many of the market men who had in mind to erect a building were often crowded as sleeping quarters by this class of people, but it is hoped the bitter cold weather of last night drove them to some more comfortable quarters.

Many of the market men who had in mind to erect a building were often crowded as sleeping quarters by this class of people, but it is hoped the bitter cold weather of last night drove them to some more comfortable quarters.

Many of the market men who had in mind to erect a building were often crowded as sleeping quarters by this class of people, but it is hoped the bitter cold weather of last night drove them to some more comfortable quarters.