THE TARIFF.

SOME DEMOCRATIC VIEWS OF IT.

to Ohio Congressman's Exposition and D Approved in Virginia, New Jersey and Pennsylvania Gen. A. J. Warner, of the Demogratic delegation in Congress from Ohio, writes as follows to the New York Sun in defense of the tariff plank adopted by the Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia and New Jersey Democracy in 1883 and for the incorpora tion of which in the national platform. there will be a contest in the next Demo cratic national convention

I feel myself compelled to controvert the statement that as regards the tariff the platform of the Ohio Democrats in 1883 is vague "and may bear a double construc-

The Ohio platform, in the first place, limits the tariff to the "necessities of the government economically administered." There is certainly no vagueness there Next, it explicitly lays down the princip that, in the application of the tariff, it shall be so adjusted as to "encourage productive industries at home but not to create or foster monopolies." Is there any ground for a double interpretation here? The difference between encouraging home industries and fostering monopolies is very distinct. To illustrate: Suppose the actual difference in the cost of producing steel rails in this country and in England, as labor and other things now stand ad justed, to be $10 a ton. Then a tariff of $10 a ton, by putting our own steel indus tries on a plane of equality in competing in our market with the foreign product, be more encouragement, and it can be shown that when the tariff is but wiightly above the difference in cost of production, the importer, in order to get into our market, will cut down his own profits, and to that extent he, and not the consumer.

pays the duty.

Now, if the tarlif is not carried above, or much above the line that marks the difference in cost of production, there can be no monopoly This, I think, is evident enough to anybody. But if the actual difference in cost of production is but $10. and the tariff were made $30 a too, then i would enable the Amalgamated steel asso-ciation to combine and put the price of steel rails to a point just under the importing price. That would be creating and fostering a monopoly; in other words, lending the aid of legislation to enable one class to levy charges upon another. It can be shown, too, that up to the point I have indicated, labor would derive the larger tariff. But, above that point, capital alone would be benefited. Hence, in the Ohio platform the differ eroe in the cost of producing commodities as things at any given time stand adjusted is made the datum line from which to work in the adjustment of the tariff, and the guiding principle laid down is encouragement of "productive industries at home, but not to create or foster mon-opolies." This principle differs funda-mentally from that of "a tariff for rev enue only" as it does from the "maximum revenue principle," in the Walker tariff share of the benefit arising from such a advocated, stated together are : I. "A tariff for revenue only;" that is, a tariff levied with a view to revenue only, and without regard to consequences, only that the required revenue be produced. Such a tariff may, I think, be fitly designated as a tariff without intelligence, in asmuch as it calls for no intelligence, and admits of none in the application of a tariff, except what is necessary to bring in the required amount of revenue. II. The maximum revenue principle. The tariff to be levied on nothing above the point that will bring the greatest revenue. This is known as the Walker

III. A tariff so adjusted in its application as to encourage productive industries at home, but not to create monopolies. IV. A tariff for protection, without re-

The first and fourth principles are, one The difference between the second and confounded, but the difference is never-The maximum revenue that can be derived from any imported article is the greatest product obtainable by multiplying the quantity imported by the tariff rate. But this rule will always, and necessarily, require a tariff below the protective or encouragement point. Thus if time to core all diseases, from whooping. $10 a ton is the difference in the se uni cost of producing steel rails here and abroad, then nothing under $10 a ten own steel industries on a footing of equality in competing for the home market. But this is not the point of maximum revenue. With a tariff of $10, on the supposition that this covers fally the difference in cost, half or more of the home consumption would be supplied from the home product. If the whole annual consumption is 2,000,000 tons, and say early one fourth of this comes in at a foreign product and pays the duty of $10, then the revenue derived would be $5,000,000. But if the tariff were lowered to $7.50, and under this tariff a million tons came in, the revenue would be $7,500,000; and it is tariff of $5 a ton would give to the foreign manufacturer the entire market here and 2,000,000 tons should then name in, the revenue would be $10,000,000 Thus It plain that the point of maximum a revenue is always, and necessarily below the protective point. The Ohio platform squarely salepte the principle of encouragement to home in dustries, but so guarded as not to build up monopolies as the true principle, and makes the difference in the cost of production, as things may stand adjusted at any given time, the datum line to work from in the adjustment of the tariff. Nor is this platform fairly open to any other the tariff at least up to the line that marks the difference in cost of production. whether that difference arises from better paid labor or other legitimate cover, unless in specific cases there is good tensor for going below that line. There is no him nopoly in that, and it is thoroughly sound in principle. It is a tariff with intel protection, not merely incidental. A far-iff with incidental protection is the sense of "as it may happen" is but little better than a tariff for revenue only. What is wanted is a tariff for revenue sufficient only for the conomical administration of government, but adjusted on the principle of intelligent or reasonable protection and encouragement to productive industries at home. Tariff reform on this principle, whenever it is possible, will be welcomed by the country, and that is the principle of the Ohio platform. A Great Change in the South. Commercial Advertiser. A statement which is published in the Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore today contains the reason why so many of the leading Southern papers have come out against a tariff for revenue only. It shows there are now 314 cotton mills in the South, having 1,276,422 spindles and 24,873 looms, while at the time the cen-sus was taken in 1880 the South had only 180 mills, with 713,989 spindles and 15,222 looms. The largest increase in the num-ber of mills was made in North Carolina. where a gain of 43 mills and 110,595 spindles is exhibited, while Georgia made an increase of 139,156 spindles and 22 In 1880 the value of the manufactured cotton produced at the South was a little over $21,000,000, while in 1883 the value had arisen to between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000. The Record figures up that during the last three years and a half about $20,000,000 has been invested by new and old Southern cotton mills in machinery, the bulk of which has been paid to Northern and Western machinery manufacturers. This goes to confirm the opinion heretofore advanced by the Commercial Advertiser to the effect that the South is likely to imitate New England's action in 1826, and demand more protec-tion. Up to 1824 that section of the country had been for free trade, but after that it began to foster manufactures, and within few months it clamored for more otection than the existing tariff afforded. In the South that history is about to repeat itself, and when the South tures on the free traders, where are they to obtain comfort and satisfaction?

The question of feuce or no fence was Richmond county, Ga. The majority for abolishing fences will be about 600. This is an important question and public sentiwould encourage the production of steel ment in Georgia is growing in favor of rails at home. Twelve dollars a ton would dolog away with fences on farms and in favor of fenning in cattle and other stock. ---

Mr. S. S. Hodgen, Jr., of No. 147 Park street, Lowiston, Me., relates the following personal narrative, May 14, 1883 : "About fifteen months kinds of medicine recommended by my friends, but found they did not improve my condition. I was induced to try Hunt's Remedy, which has been used with such great viable reputation of being a most reliable edicine. I purchased one bottle, and can data my improved health from the time I commenced using it, and my progress continual very rapidly; I gained in strength, and experienced less pain in my back, my appolite increased, and after using (3) bottles v pains were all gone, and my health entirely restored, and I can most heartily recom-mend flunt's flumely to any who may need a true remedy for debility, kidney or urinary

A GROD MECHANIC. Mr. L. J. Jones, of No. 1) Charles Street, Portland, Me., writes us these convincing facts, May 11, 1883; "I have for several years gestion, and have suffered at times terrible distress, and have tried many different cures, so called, that have been recommended from tun- to time. I one day noticed in one of our papers the testimonial of a person that had use : Hunt's Remedy and been cured of discases similar to mine. I purchased a bottle of one of our drug stores in Portland, and before I had used the first bottle found that I was improving beyond my expectation; have used in all six bottles, and I have no trouble from indigestion, no distress or pain in back cured my wife has used it for kidney trouble It mus curred her. We can both say that Hunt's Remedy is a blessing to any that are troubled with kidney or fiver diseasers, or indigestion. We gladly recommend it to our triends or to any sufferers from liver or kidney diseases, and you can use this letter as you may choose or the best interest of suffering humanity.

R. E. Fahnestock,

LANCASTER, PA. MACHINERY.

HAVING DISSOLVED PARTNERSHIP and petumently closed the Chestnut street Iron Works, idesire to fnform my old patrons and the public generally, that I am still in the basiness, being located in the Penn Iron Company's Works, North Pinn street, where I am making Iron and Bruss Castings of every de dription, and will be pleased to serve all who may favor me with their patronage. From 40 years experience in the basiness and using the best material and employing the best mechanics, I am sati-fied I can guarantee entire satisfaction. Castings mave from a mixture of iron and steel which are more reliable for strength and durability than the best cast iron known. V teeth roil pintons, rolls and rolling mill work a specialty. Castings of every description. I have all the patters af the well and favorably known Mowrer Corn and Cob Crusher, refitted and improved.
Also on hand, mills completely fitted up or in parts, to replace old ones which have been in use for years, guaranteeing them to give satisfaction.
