Sumatra, seed Leaf and Barans - The Market for Last Week-Secretary Folger's Decision.

The decision, or more properly speaking the indec sion of the secretary of the treas ury regarding the Sumatra tobacco importation does not find much favor with the tobacco journals of New York. The Leaf and Journal alike regard it as temporizing with the matter and as likely to involve both the department and importer in diffi direct harm to persons engaged in the leaf trade, either as growers, dealers, or man ufacturers, his last one will, if made per and will make the importation of tobacco an extremely hazardous business enter prise." The reason of this, the Journal explains, is that the secretary ignores the 85 per cent. clause and directs the appraiser to losist upon the payment of a an extremely hazardous business enter fitness for the purpose and provided one hundred leaves or more of such will weigh a pound. This means that bale of Havana that arrives, to examine them as wrappers. How else can the appraiser judge and pass no invoice of tobuc-co? If he relies upon the represen tations of the owner of an importation of davana tobacco who claims to have imported nothing but fillers, he will not do his duty. He is appointed judge

Now, then, about the hundred leaves to a pound. How many bales of fillers are 40,000 cases of Havana seed the coming there in existence which do not contain a season, and she can drive all competition bundred leaves or more fit for wrapping out of the market; can supply our home purpose, and which, when weighed to demand at high prices and export the balgether, will not make a pound? Therefore, it is clear that nothing but a strict examination of each bale and each carrot and the picking out of wrappers is be duty of the appraiser. How do the importers of Havana regard this prospect? Will they rely upon the good or bad humor of the appraisers?

Do they wish, in future, to do business subject to his whims and spleen ?
The Leaf concludes that "the upshot of the whole thing will be an effort to levy seventy-five cents per pound duty on all wrapper classes of imported tobacco, and of seed, sufficien thirty five cents per pound on filler leaf, $1 per package. which, of course, will prove ineffectual, because impracticable. "In the interest of growers, dealers and manufacturers, Congress should be appealed to amend the present law so that the existing uncertainty respecting interng pretation shall be immediately dispelled." Lust Week's New York Market.

. S. Tobacco Journal. While business was not exceedingly brisk, the market is gradually settling down to the fact that there is very littletoo little-good seed leaf tobacco in the there was a good deal of inspecting, a good many bids and a good many "strictly private" arrangements, but the curious public heard of very few bona fide transactions.

The supposed final decision of the secretary also tended to make the feeling in the market an exceedingly exaberant one. every holder of trashy seed leaf imagining himself to be the passessor of a Nevada gold mine. We claim as we have claimed before, that the decision of the secretary never had and never will have any effect on the seed leaf market as long as the nature of the tobaccos offered in the market remains unchanged. Would a cigar manufacturer refuse to pay $2 a pound for Sumatra because spongy Ohio or wild '82 Connecticut wrappers could be continued in health, and of his inability to care her jokingly said: 'Try Hop Bitters' bought for 25 cents? Samatra never was a competitor to poor tobacco, though unfortunate holders of such imagine such to be the case. If our market was overstocked with good and serviceable tobacco it cost him a good patient. Sumatra at a 35 cent rate of duty certainly would prove a powerful competitor. As it is the insignificant amount of fine '83 seed leaf on hand will sell at good profit to present holders of such, whether Sumatra pays 35 or 75 couts duty. With the prospects of the missing 83 crops before as, our manufacturers cannot do without Sumatra, even should the duty be a dollar and a half a pound. What are they going to do? It becomes more apparent day after day that the '81 crop is, as a whole, a failure. The Havana seed alone of the various states makes au at least promising appearance, but so lit tle native seed seems better than cultivated cabbage, that it our markets wore not governed so largely by notions and so little by facts Sumatra should sell to day at $2 to $2 50 per pound and time '82 seed

A great deal of the seed, both from Wisconsin and New York, has already been secured, great care being taken to get it from plants that have become thoroughly acclimated and suited to our soil. Those of our farmers who grew Havana seed last year, will have a supply of their own seed for this year's planting. Those who did not, can purchase package of seed, sufficient to plant four acres, at
