

COLUMBIA NEWS.

FOR REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE. Events Along the Susquehanna—Items of Interest in and Around the Borough Picked up by the intelligent Reporter.

Union lodge of Old Fellows will hold a meeting to-night. Haverly's minstrels have been billed for February 6, at the opera house.

The Herald of this week contains an article headed "The Saucy" in which quite a number of the large "hoys" about town are touched up.

Messrs. H. H. Heise and John Forgy contemplate a race between their crack horses about early date, which is to take place on the river.

The Democratic primaries here will be held on the evening of February 9. The places at which they will be held have not yet been determined upon.

The particulars of the late conference between the committees appointed by the Army association and Company C to settle the agitated question of the army rifle have not yet been learned.

The funeral of the late Sawdon Moller was held this morning at 10 o'clock. The funeral services were held at the residence of a brother-in-law of deceased—Mr. William Faig—the remains being interred in Mt. Bethel cemetery.

The ladies interested in the fair to be held by the Columbia Fair Association, last evening in the band room to prepare for that affair. If the citizens do as much for the band as those ladies are doing, it will surely be a success.

Religious Matters. The amount of interest manifested to-night in the services of the Presbyterian church will decide whether they will be continued.

Probably the largest crowd that has attended the Methodist revival this winter was that of last night. The services were of a decidedly interesting character.

Gliding over the snow. The reformed church congregation, or at least a number of them, will make a sleighing trip to York to-day.

The sleighing party which went to Mt. Joy on Monday evening last was a very pleasant affair.

Fast sleds seem to create considerable rivalry among their owners here. Another trip was made from the Catholic cemetery to the vicinity of the stone works by a sleigh on 14th street, this time by Jno. Makster's sled.

The Jolly club, composed almost entirely of married ladies, made a sleighing trip to Lancaster yesterday afternoon.

They were accompanied by several lady friends of the club, and all enjoyed themselves to the fullest. The club made a similar excursion last year and met with some amusing adventures, but this time the jaunt was attended by no adventures of any startling kind.

DEAD BEATS. A family of Impetigo that hoodwinked kind hearted citizens.

A German family, consisting of husband and wife, six grown up and two small children, arrived in this city yesterday.

One of the women from the West. The woman was in tears and the man almost crazed with grief, and both of them wished they were dead. They told pitiful stories of their poverty and sufferings and created a great deal of sympathy among people in and about the Pennsylvania railroad depot.

Officer Roy was deeply affected and promised himself in their behalf collecting provisions to stay their stomachs, and money to enable them to reach their friends and gave them comfortable quarters for the night in the gentlemen's waiting room; but still they were insomniac and wept louder than ever this morning, and received aims from many tenderhearted people to whom they declared their troubles.

Unfortunately for them, their stories did not tally, one of the stories being to the effect that they left Sunbury, Pa., for Newark, N. J., where they had relatives; and another story being that they had been brought by military authority to Harrisburg and thence to Lancaster, and wanted to get back to Sunbury. When the Harrisburg express train for Philadelphia reached this city this morning they boarded it.

The conductor, a tender hearted officer Roy, took their tickets, and with tears in their eyes and anguish depicted in their countenances they told him they had no tickets.

"Money, then," said the conductor, "but they vowed they had no money. "You must get off this train," said the conductor, and he stopped the train to let them off. Instantly they dried their tears and the eldest son, unbuckling his coat, pulled out a roll of notes that would have gladdened the eyes of a bearded bank president and selected a few of the bills, notes paid the fare of the party to Philadelphia. They were simply a family of dead beats, who had worked their way east as far as Lancaster, by exciting the sympathy of tender hearted officials and others like Officer Roy.

A BROKEN RAIL. Narrow Escape From a Railroad Accident. This morning at 9:30, as the mail train No. 2 was coming into the passenger depot, the engineer, conductor and others aboard, felt a jolting of the cars just east of the Duke street crossing. When the train stopped the conductor sent a man back to see what was the matter, and he discovered that one of the rails was broken, about eighteen inches being broken entirely off. It is not known what caused this accident, but it was not discovered in time, but had it been discovered in time, as there is a deep rocky cut at that point in the road.

Runaway Accident. This morning about 9 o'clock Mr. M. L. Overholser, of Safe Harbor, hitched his horse, which was attached to a market wagon, in front of the postoffice. The horse slipped his bridle, enabling him to see the top of the wagon. He took fright and ran along North Queen street to O'Connell and Orange to Christian, where coming in contact with a telegraph pole the top of the wagon was broken off and wrecked. With the running gears still hanging to him, he ran through Christian street to East King, where he was caught. The running gears also were damaged, but the horse escaped unhurt.

The Poultry Show. The exhibition of the Lancaster Poultry association closed this evening. Those who have not seen it should attend as it may be a long time before they will have another chance of seeing so fine a display of chickens and pigeons of all varieties. Every visitor to the show to-night, as well as those who visited yesterday, will have a chance to win a breeding pair Black Cochins or a pair of fancy pigeons.

Snit for Damages. Mary A. Brinser, John Brinser and Geo. W. Brinser, by their mother, Mary A. Brinser, have brought a suit for $5,000 damages against S. M. Eppler. It appears that some time ago a brother of the Brinsers was killed by a boiler explosion aboard Elizabethtown. The boiler was owned by Eppler, and it is claimed that he knew it was defective, and failed to have it inspected.

Mayor's Only Two Lodgers to Dismiss this Morning. He told them to "light out."

Lights Out. Two electric lamps and eleven gasoline lamps failed last night to shed their effulgence on the midnight gloom.

RAILROADS REWARDED.

The result of the official inspection of the Pennsylvania railroad has been made public. James Pyle, foreman of the section between the Big and Little Conestoga, was awarded a premium of $50 for having the second best section of the road; Charles Hury was also awarded a second premium of $50 for his section east of the Conestoga, and M. Barkley was awarded a first premium of $50 for the Lancaster cut-off and switches at Dillerville.

Amusements. Rice's Travestie Party.—E. E. Rice's Travestie party will appear in the opera house this evening, in "Fun on the Bristol." The Pittsburgh Leader says: "Rice's 'Fun on the Bristol' is filling the house. Last night standing room could hardly be obtained by those who had not secured seats in advance. Rice's party, consisting of Mark Sullivan, as Widow O'Brien, and Bobby Newcomb, as Stewart, are good cards. The music, singing, dancing and jokes of the play rank it to first class comedy."
