THE WORTHINGTON PUMP

Return of the Visitors from Bracklyn. Mayor MacGonigle and a portion of the water committee, have returned from Brooklyn whither they went to inspect the new 6,000,000 gallon Worthington being manufactured for our city water works. They say they had a rather rough time in reaching Brooklyn, being detained by wrecks on the Jersey railroad, and fog on the North river, which rendered it very difficult and dangerous for terrying. They crossed the East river on the great bridge, and were most cordially received and hospitably entertained by the Worthingtons. They inspected the new pump, which is of the same general pattern as that now in our water works, but much larger with some few improve ments in its details. It was sat up in the Worthington works, (an immense series of buildings covering two blocks), and will be ready for shipment to Lancuster in about three weeks, and on its arrival here will be immediately put into place, the foundation for its reception in the water works being completed. While in the Worthington works the committee had an opportunity of witnessing the casting of a cylinder that required eleven tons of molten iron to fashion it. The easting was made without the slightest difficulty and apparently with as much case as a small foundry would cast a stove lifter. During their stay in New York the committee visited Castle Garden, the Brokers' exchange on Wall street, Trinity
