Having Dissolved Partsership and petmanently closed the Chestnut Street Iron Works, I desire to inform my old parrons and the public generally, that I am still in the business, being located in the Penn Iron Company's Works, North Plum street, where I am making Iron and Brass Castings of every destription, and will be pleased to serve all who may favor me with their patronage. From 40 years experience in the business and using the best material and employing the best mechanics, I am satisfied I can guarantee entire satisfaction. Castings made from a mixture of iron and steel which are more reliable for strength and durability than the best cast iron known. V teeth roil pinions, rolls and rolling mill work a specialty. Castings made of very soft iron, and brass castings of every description. I have all the patters of the well and favorably known Mowrer Corn and Cob Crusher, refitted and improved. Also on hand, mills completely fitted up or in parts, to replace old ones which have been in use for years, guaranteeing them to give intetion.

THE CLOSE OF A PAMOUS CAREER.

LANCASTER, PA, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1884.

After a Short but Painful Irlness-A Sketch of the Life and Work of the Distingutshed Orstor.

In Boston on Saturday evening Wendell Phillips died of angina pectoris, peacefully and surrounded by the members of his family. He was much brighter, and apparently better in the early part of the day, but in the afternoon a change came over him, and it was evident to Dr. Thay er, who was in attendance, that death was near at hand. About 4 o'clock he was seized with a violent paroxysm of pain, and small quantities of ether were con-He was conscious to the last and was fully aware of the approach of death, but the terrible pain he suffered at intervals dur-ing the last four days had made him so feeble that conversation was necessarily restricted. There was no pain in the last moments, and Mrs. Phillips, his adopted daughter, and two or three other relatives who were present, could scarcely detect the moment when the breath left the body.

Mr Phillips, who was in his 73d year, leaves an invalid wife and adopted daughter, the wife of Dr. Blagden. His only sister, who married Dr. Reynolds, died suddenly of heart disease two or three Wendell Phillips was born in Boston November 29, 1811. His father, John Phillips, was the first mayor of Boston and was a man of wealth and influence.

Wendell was graduated at Harvard in 1831, being less than twenty years of age, and from the law school in 1823, being admitted to the bar of Suffolk county in the following year. He quickly achieved some prominence in his profession, display ing unusual powers of oratory at a very early age. It was, however, as a political agitator that he was to win his greatest renown. Although a member of the wealthy and cultured circles of his native city, his sympathies were early aroused by the persecution of the early Abolition-ists. This sympathy was intensified by the atrocities committed by the Boston mob during the anti slavery riot of Octo ber, 1835, and in the following year relin quished the law practice because he was not willing to act under an oath to the constitution of the United States.

The Abolitionists. At a meeting called i Fanenil hall, by Dr. Channing for the purpose of express-ing public condemnation of the murder of Elijah P. Lovejoy, at Alton, Illinois, which occurred on November 7, 1837, Mr. Philips by a single burst of impassioned oratory placed himself in the front ran' of the anti-slavery leaders, though at the time he was barely twenty six years of age. The pro slavery feeling was very streng in Boston at that period and a large number of the pro slavery adherents attended the meeting for the purpose of defeating its objects. They were led by Attorney General Austin, who made a speech denouncing Lovejoyand asking if he had not "died as the fool dieth." At the conclusion of his speech Phillips, who was in the audience, arose and in a burst of indignant and powerful eloquence denounced the cowardly and sordid spirit of men in places of power and wealth who sought to defend or excuse that great crime against the freedom of the press and condemnation were carried with a rush The " Compact With Hell." Mr. Philips was so thoroughly convinced that the constitution of the United States was an unrighteous compact between freedom and slavery that he refused to recognize its authority by voting or in any manner claiming privileges of a citizen. He advocated the dissolution of the Union as the only method of freeing the slaves. From this time until the close of the war which abolished slavery, Mr. Philips, by voice of abolition. He also espoused the cause of temperance and woman suffrage, and in addition found time to delight hundreds of intelligent and cultivated audiences with his admirable lectures on "The L st Arts" and "Thoussaint L'Ouverture." He was the close friend and associate of William Lloyd Garrison, who was seven years his senior, and succeeded the laster as president of the American agti slavery society in 1865, holding the position until the final dissolution of the society, April 9, 1870. He strenuously opposed the policy of President Hayes toward the fended the stalwart military policy of President Grant. Philips was the candidate of the tem erance and labor reform element for governor of Massachusetts in 1870, receiving nearly 20,000 votes. He espoused the Greenback cause in 1875 and made speeches in advocacy of the financial doc trines of the soft money theorists. He continued in the lecture field until 1881, when failing health incident to his declin ing years compelled him to retire.

His Personality. In personal appearance Mr. Phillips was a man of fine and commanding presence and of graceful and courtly bearing. He was the most complete and polished orator on the American platform. Although wealthy and the associate of the cultured and aristocratic, he was a man of the simplest habits and without the least ostentation. He lived for forty years in a modest two story house, built by himself at the head of Harrison avenue, a house in which nobody else ever lived and which he vacated most unwillingly May 12, 1882, in obedience to an ordinance requiring its demolition in order to extend the avenue, at the head of which it stood. The house was furnished with the most studious plainness, the dwelling of many a clerk being furnished far more estentatiously. It was rich, however, in its treasures of books, letters and papers, among which its owner delighted to dwell. These accumulations will doubtless furnish the materials of much future history, for Mr. Phillips was the familiar and honored associate of the men and women who made the history of the century in which he

In the death of Mr. Phillips the little band of surviving original aboltionists loses its most beroic and striking figure. Dr. Furness and Robert Purves, the veteran poet, Whittier, of Massachusetts, and a few others of less note still survive to mourn the death of their silver tongued eader.

Explosion on a Mississeppt Steamer On Sunday morning, when the steamer Natchez was 4 miles above New Orleans, M ss., the main steam pipe on the star board side, owing to a defect, exploded, tearing up the floors of two state rooms and the gangway, forcing off the doors of the barber shop and filling the cabin with escaping steam. The passengers rushed hither and thither in wild confusion, but the pilot headed for shore and landed all. The only person killed was a colored boy employed in the pantry room, who stepped on the gangway just before the explosion.

The only passenger injured was R. W.

Adams, of Louisville, who was terribly scalded on the face and hands. He was just in the act of stepping out of the state room when the explosion occurred. Capt. B. L. Leathers states that the fires were cleaned out at Baton Rouge, and that the vessel was running one hundred and twenty five pounds of steam when the explosion occurred.

Nothing is ever lost by being pleasant and agreeable, which accounts for the remarkable sale of the great national remedy, Dr. Buil's Cough Syrup, a sale, pleasant, and successful cure for coughs and colds. Price only 25 cents a bottle.

RAILROAD EMPLOYEES.

The leading business men of Providence, R. I., compose the Hunt's Remedy Co., and tinually administered until death occurred. | they guarantee all testimonials published by them to be genuine. The following dated May 4, 1883, from Mr. W. H. Blanchard, Lowell, Mass., is but one of the thousand remarkable cures that are being made by this wonderful medicine. Mr. B anchard says: " I have been greatly troubled for over six years with acute hidney disease, with severe pain in my back and hips. I was formerly employed on the Boston and Lowell Railroad, but was obliged, owing to the constant jar, to give up the ratiroad business, as many others have been obliged to do, on account of kidney disease I have tried many medicines, but received no permanent reitef. A friend recommended me to use Hunt's Remedy. I purchase i a l'ottle of one of our druggists in Lowell, and commenced to improve at once and after using two bottles I was entirely free from all pain and consider myself cured, and I cheerfully recommend this wonderful medicine, Hunt's Kemedy, to all the suffers from kidney and liver disease."

AT LIBERTY. For a number of years I was afflicted with kidney and gravel disease, and suffered with pairs in my limbs and back at times so severely that it seemed that I could not endure it. I used several so-called cures recommended for these diseases, but they did me no good. A friend of mine that had used Hunt's Remedy, and pronounced it the best in use, urged me to try it, and I purchased a bottle at George E. Hali's drug store in Manchester, and before I had used one bettle I began to teel much better, the pains in the bladder and kidneys were reduced a good deal, and after using five bottles I found that Hunt's Remedy addone all that it was recommended to do. It had removed all the pain, my appetite improved, and I gained several pounds in a few weeks I have renewed vigor and strengh for one of my years (51), and I can only thank the proprietors of Hunt's Remedy for my good health of to day, and you are at liberty to publish this, that it may be the means of some ne being cared by the use of your truly won-W.
