

Lancaster Intelligencer.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEB. 6, 1884.

FRIDAY.

Oh, Gay is Love when Love in must call— In music calls.

Oh, bright is Love dancing through lighted halls. Through lighted halls.

Oh, sweet Love's kiss beneath the miter, and soft his words when fur wrapped slippers.

With tinkling bells across the moonlit snow. But said in Love beneath the joyless rains.

The pallid rains. When February to sad Earth comes. In mournful strains.

From the wet woods and late unhappy leaves. Rain rotting briars, and rank, rejected shoes.

Love gives his sweet averted eyes, and grieves. So my gray, bleak, life a tear he'll stray.

To my gray, bleak, life a tear he'll stray. You, though I pray.

To clasp his flower-sweet fingers for one day. He loves the May.

With bride-buds set and violets a-bloom; In the rose-crowned, scented month of June.

When rarest singing birds are all in tune. Oh, heart, thou wert a little traitor set—

A traitor set— Where fondlest hope and truest vows had met.

Thou art in debt To February's weeping love. One day.

One rain-cold day when all the sky was gray. He came with smiling face, and came to stay.

He dried with kisses all my tear-stained face; Ah, what sweet grace.

He made my dreary room a splendid place; He'll not be true.

Oh, doubt or gloom; he said, with clear kind eyes. Oh, Love may live beneath the cloudless skies.

But with pain of tears—he never dies." INDUCED TO LEAVE.

Old Josh Nuckleson's First Experience in a Theatre.

Arkansas Traveler. The other night old John Nuckleson went to see Emma Abbott in "Faust."

Before the curtain went up he remarked to a man sitting near that it cost a "rile smart" to get into a town school house, and that if he hadn't been "honery" for fun he wouldn't have come. After the orchestra had been playing about fifteen minutes the old fellow remarked:

"It takes them fellers a devilish long time to tune up their fiddles. They are not tuning up, they are playing," said the man in front of the critic.

"Is that the music?" "Yes." "Sounds like they're playin' for a paralyzed man to dance. It must be music here, but ain't where I live. They wouldn't call dogs with such a tune."

After the curtain went up he remained quiet for a long time, then leaned over and said:

"When does the show begin?" "It's going on now." "When will they do something to make a feller laugh?"

"There's no laugh in it." "Then it ain't no show. I come here to laugh. I ken see this sort o' thing any time. What I want is something to tickle me."

"People turned around and looked at him reproachfully. They seem sorter prised to see me here," he continued, "but if I'der knowed as much a hour ago as I do now I'der saved 'em the trouble o' twistin' round. They may call that a song, but I call it a squeal."

"Hush your mouth," said a man who did not want to lose a note of the music, but who secretly wished some one would break out with "Mary's Run Away Wid a Coon," or "Go Down Moses."

"What's the matter with you?" "I want you to hush." "An' I want you to hush. You're botherin' me as much as I am you. Wonder if they're 'goin' ter fetch around song books an' tickets for the concert, what be the best part of the show, an' so forth? Who's the feller with the red plaster on the back of his neck?"

"The devil, hush." "The devil, eh? Well, I'll wait a while longer, for there ought be a heap o' fun in the devil, but I'll quit down for a while and then said: "The devil has disappointed me. Dry as the upper west fork o' Buckhorn creek in August."

"Say, there," said a policeman, whose services had been called by the music loving people who sat near the disappointed man.

"Wall?" "Hush that noise or I'll put you out of here."

"Gimme my money back and I'll go out." "I will give it to you," said a gentle man. "Here," he said, and he handed the old fellow a dollar and a half.

"That hits me white," he said, as he stalked up the aisle. "Beat my way in an' an' paid to go out. It cost me nary much in favor o' my camp, but it makes my old jaws feel mighty comfortable."

When Howard went to find a pity lance upon his breast, the fellow had evidently cold and had not yet been informed that Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup was the only safe remedy.

Mr. Langley. And other famous women have won a reputation for facial beauty. A fine complexion makes one handsome, even though the face is not of perfect form.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.

The Hard-Working Man.

He was a hard working man and for a good many years he had been working twice as hard as any man ought to work.

He said he had a splendid constitution and that he could stand it. He forgot that as years passed on the waste of the system is much greater than in youth.

He became weak, debilitated, nervous and dependent. He regarded the future with dread, and said he had worked himself into an untimely grave.

But he was not taken to the cemetery at all. Instead of that, a good friend brought him some BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.

He began to pick up strength. That was what he wanted. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS enriched his fading blood and put new life into him.

He began to nourish him and do him good. Most heartily does he recommend BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.

THEY ARE QUICK AND SURE.—I use Benson's Caprine Potions constantly in my practice.—Dr. J. M. Wandell. Price 25 cents.

BENSON'S SKIN CURE. (From Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper.)

A LADY SAID. "Those Horrid Pimples! No, I Cannot do, Please Present My Excuses."

Probably two-thirds of the ladies in society and names of our land are afflicted with skin diseases of various kinds, to do away with which, if it could be done without injury, would be the happiest event of their lives.

Then she would have instead of a disfigured and marred countenance, one that would be handsome, or at least good looking, for any one with a clear, pure skin, no matter what the cut of her features are, has a certain amount of good looks which attract everybody.

As it is now, she imagines every one sends her looks about her neck, "those horrid pimples," and other blemishes with which she is afflicted, but this is true of either sex.

To improve this appearance, great risks are taken, arsenic, mercury, or high-sound tilled named articles containing these death-dealing drugs, are taken in hopes of getting rid of all these troubles. In many cases death is the result.
