SHOT DEAD.

IS HE THE SALUNGA MAN'S PARTNER?

The Man who was Shot at Myerstown—The Tragic Fate of a Tramp—The Victim Not Identified.

For sometime past the Lebanon Valley has suffered considerably from the depredations of burglars, and at 1 o'clock Saturday morning two desperate and unknown men entered the residence of Captain J. H. Bossler, of Myerstown.
They crawled up to the sill of a rear lower window of a sitting room, adjoining the bedroom of Captain Bossler and wife, who occupy rooms on the first floor. Apparently this fact was known to the thieves, who tried to force the door of the sitting room, and began raising the window, on the inside of which was a lattice shutter.
The noise awakened Mr. Bossler, who aroused his wife. The captain produced his pistol and went toward the window. Through the lattice he saw the outlines of two men, one of whom was gently raising the window. The captain opened the lattice, with his revolver cocked and drawn, and just as he did so the disengaged burglar pulled a pistol. The captain noticed the movement, and in a moment and quick as a flash and at close quarters fired. The burglar nearest to him groaned and dropped to the ground, while the second burglar pulled and discharged a pistol at the captain, the ball whistling past his ear.

The burglar then jumped back and the captain fired again. The burglar bent low and raised up his wounded companion and made a desperate effort to shoulder and carry him away. The wounded man staggered to his feet and told his friend to run for his life, as it was all up with him. The wounded man staggered a short distance when his companion bade him farewell and disappeared in the dark. The firing aroused the neighbors, and they together with the captain, found the thief hiding from a terrible wound in his abdomen. He was closely questioned, but, notwithstanding his supposed near approach to death, he doggedly refused to say anything, saying he intended to die game. Constable Moyer took the wounded man to a sleigh to the Lebanon jail, and was unable to identify him. He told the officers his name was Miller and that he came from Philadelphia. On searching his clothing nothing was found but a small pocket looking glass, a purse and a box of matches. Captain Bossler communicated with the 14th regiment Pennsylvania Bucktails during the war and was a brave officer. He stood the fire Friday night as well as he did in 1892 '63.
It is believed that the two thieves were those remaining of the band of three who recently visited Lehigh, Lancaster and where one was shot dead in a scuffle with Mr. Stauffer while attempting to rob his cigar factory. The others tramped across the country and undertook to rob Captain Bossler.

SIX PERSONS SHOT.

Outcome of a Dimercy About a Gambling House at Hot Springs, Ark.

A terrible tragedy was enacted on the main street of Hot Springs, Ark., Saturday morning at about 11 o'clock. Three brothers named Frank, Jack and William Flynn were proceeding home in a hack, when a party armed with double barrel shot guns and Winchester rifles stepped out from the door of a saloon and opened fire. The Flynns were armed, but the attack was totally unexpected.

Jack Flynn was shot through the forehead by a ball from a Winchester rifle and died in a few minutes.

Wm. Flynn was shot through the breast and the wound will probably prove fatal.

Frank Flynn received a shot through the breast and the hand, inflicting a slight wound.

Robert Hargrave, a bystander, was shot through the breast, and will probably die.

J. H. Craig, a prominent lumberman, received a charge of buckshot through the back, and his condition is considered precarious.

The difficulty originated some weeks ago in the effort of Frank Flynn to prevent one Doran from opening a gambling house. It culminated at the time in Doran making a cowardly attempt to assault Frank, falling in which he fled the city. He returned for the night, aged, but Flynn was unaware of his presence in the city until the fatal volley was opened on him.

The seven men who did the shooting were arrested and are now in jail. They are S. A. Doran, the two Fruit brothers, a man named Howell and three others.
The citizens are loud in their condemnation of the murderous and cowardly act.
Judge Wood has been telegraphed to by leading citizens requesting him to adjourn the court at Malvern and return and hold a special session to try the murderers. If he consents the law will probably be allowed to take its course; if not, the citizens boldly threaten to burn the jail and hang the prisoners.

WAS IT A DREAM?

A Singular Vision Which Appeared to Dr.
D. Walter Bruce, of Miami, Fla., recently had a very singular revelation made to him in a way that is hard to explain.
He is a native of Virginia, where he married Miss Stribling, of Fauquier co., some years ago, and soon afterwards removed to Florida, where he is now engaged in planting, and has ever since been actively engaged in that business. He is well known as a man of sound judgment, high standing and of the most practical ideas, and is as far from being a believer in any of the popular "isms" of the day as appropriate.

Late on the night of Friday, Dec. 28, his house was in a sound sleep at this house in by so strong a feeling that there was some mysterious presence in his room that he got up and lighted a lamp and looked all over the house, but, finding nothing unusual, he returned to bed and apparently fell into a light sleep in which there appeared to him a vision of his wife's brother, R. M. Stribling, in a deadly conflict, which he had his throat cut in a horrible manner, and was removed to a store near by, where he was placed on a counter, and after the apparent lapse of time he died from the effects of the wound.

The vision was so real that Dr. Bruce could sleep no more, and when morning dawned he went out, but could not rid himself of the very strong impression it had made upon him. He related the dream, as he called it, to several of his friends, and later in the day visited a well known Spiritualist in Gainesville, who told him that some awful calamity must have befallen young Stribling. And, sure enough, the next mail from Virginia brought Dr. Bruce a letter announcing the death of his brother-in-law in the exact manner he had seen in the very hour that he had appeared to him in his vision.

A sister of the murdered man, visiting resides in Kentucky at the time of his death, had a similar dream, and while relating it at the breakfast table, was

SAID TIMES IN ENGLAND.

An Eccentric and Unpopular Ministry.

Cable dispatch to N. Y. Sun.

The English ministry is in the last stage of imbecility, irresolution, and division. Mr. Gladstone, feeble in body, feeble in brain, cannot be got to make up his mind on anything, refuses to talk politics, leaves his colleagues to do as they till the last moment, and in the house sits pale, mournful and abstracted.

Young and energetic men like Chamberlain and Dilke, in vain demanding strong measures and a straightforward policy, rage impotently, while the aristocrat, who wants the old man away, and does not care much what happens, sulks silently.
Harcourt, barked and discredited, looks a weary of the world, and the Liberals generally sit in dumb bewilderment.

The collapse of the Egyptian debate on the first night of the session, the miserable personal recriminations and the obstructive motions for adjournment which followed, the entire derangement of business and the loss of head by everybody, exhibit the English Parliament in impotence and disarray at the moment when the agony of a national crisis demands business, union and resolution.

The chorus of disapproval against the Egyptian policy of Gladstone is unbroken, save by the tiny voice of a hack partisan journalist, while the stanchly radical Field Mall Gazette, the humanitarian Spectator, and the intensely Gladstonian provincial press swell the denunciations of the conservative organs.

General anger is felt that the whole prestige of England as a nation should be saddled by left dependent on Gordon Pasha, a fanatical soldier, attended by one aide de camp and a drunken young sultan, and armed with a blackthorn stick. If he be killed, as seems likely, there will be a complete national fury. If he is captured, an army must be sent to rescue him; and in the midst of all this cataclysmic gloom, Gladstone sits metaphysically quibbles; declares Gordon one day an English general and the next an English governor, and denies an English general to be a governor, and a governor to be a general, and war ships and landing bag jackets at Sea-king, he will not dispatch them to Sinkat, thirty miles off, where the garrison is eating leaves and thousands of women and children hourly expect massacre.

A Literary Queen.

Victoria's new book "Life in the "Highlands," will be out in two or three days. The dedication is couched in the following words: "To my loyal Highlanders, and especially to the memory of my devoted personal attendant and faithful friend, John Brown, these records of my life in the Highlands are gratefully dedicated, Victoria R." In her opening chapters the Queen devotes a number of pages to the immortal Brown.
She tells how Brown became the favorite of Prince Albert, and gives her own records of trusting him. She minutely describes the functions that Brown fulfilled in the royal household. Other details of the court are mentioned in kindly terms.

MEDICAL ETHICS.

Revolt of the medieval Doctors.

There is a great rumour among the New York doctors over the "new code" and the "old code." The new code, adopted by the state medical society, allows a physician to consult with any lawful practitioner, whatever his particular school.
Over this, whose views may be less great fight, but the new code has once more won, and its opponents, defeated in a last desperate effort to displace it, have gone off by themselves and formed a new trade union of their own upon the old basis.
They are doubtless a most respectable body of strict conservatives, but they can hardly expect to get much sympathy from the outside public, in whose opinion their narrow rules of ethics are just what the majority of their professional brethren are ready to think from a relic of antiquity.
To speak colloquially, the old code men are left.

The question involved here really is not one of ethics at all. Professional ethics are important and valuable to the public as well as to the profession. Gentlemen do not commonly need to have their rule of personal conduct laid down by law, but since there may be men in any given profession who are not gentlemen, a written code of ethics is sometimes a desirable thing. It does not get its claims to respect from its enactment by a convention, but from its embodiment of recognized ethical principles, which concern the dealings of an individual with his professional associates. When it ceases to command respect it is time for it to go.

That a physician should be free to receive a professional associate one whose theory and practice and whole mode of thought were logically irreconcilable with his own, is something that concerns mainly himself; when he goes further than this and undertakes to abolish every other profession, whose views may be less great
won, and its opponents, defeated in a last
union of their own upon the old basis.

It is certain that the longer a speech, the weaker it is, but not so with a cold, the longer it runs, the worse it becomes. Every cold, be it ever so recent, at the moment it should be checked in its early stages. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is the "rain of heaven" that millions say is divine in its origin.

How Much Will It Do?

How much of Thomas' Electric Oil is required to cure? Only a very little. A few drops will cure any kind of an ache; and but a few more are needed for sprains and lameness. Rheumatism is not so readily affected; an ounce and sometimes two ounces are required. No medicine, however, is so sure to cure with the same number of applications.
For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen Street.

I Wish Everybody to Know.

Rev. George H. Tuoyser, an old citizen of this vicinity known to every one as a most intelligent citizen and christian minister of the E. church, at the moment stopped in our store to say, "I wish everybody to know that I consider that both myself and my wife are cured of Shulz's Corn Cure." It is having a tremendous sale over our counters and giving perfect satisfaction in all cases of Corns, Bunions, etc., as nothing else has done. Dis. MATCHETT & FRANGE, HAINE MEN.

From Bath, Me., we have received, under date of May 15, 1883, the following statement of Geo. W. HARRISON, the popular proprietor of "The Restaurant": "A few years since I was troubled severely with kidney and bladder affection that there was brick-dust deposits in my urine, and continual desire to urinate, with severe, darting, sharp pains through my bladder and side, and again, dull, heavy pressure, very tedious to endure. I consulted one of our resident physicians, but I received no benefit from the treatment, and feeling that my symptoms indicated "Bright's Disease," the most dreadful of all diseases, I made up my mind that I must obtain relief speedily or I would be past cure. I consulted my druggist, Mr. Webber, and after ascertaining my symptoms, he recommended the use of Hant's Remedy, as he knew of many successful cures effected by that medicine in similar cases here in Bath. I purchased a bottle, and before I had used the first bottle I found I had received a great benefit, as I suffered less pain, my water became more natural, and I began to improve so much that the second bottle effected a complete cure, and I do not think are due to Hant's Remedy for restored health, and I cheerfully recommend this most valuable and reliable medicine to my friends, as I consider it a duty as well as a pleasure to do so.

"Being well acquainted with Mr. George W.
Harrison at the time of his sickness, referred to in the foregoing testimonial, I can certify to the correctness of the statement made by him."
"W. G. WEBBER, Druggist, BATH, ME., May 15, 1883.

BLAUKSMITH'S TROUBLE.

Having had occasion to use a remedy for kidney troubles, I noticed an advertisement in one of the papers of the remarkable cures that Hant's Remedy had made all over the country. I purchased a bottle at one of our druggists here in Lancaster, and after using it for a short time found it was helping me wonderfully, and one bottle has cured me completely—have no indigestion, and am healthy and hearty for one of my years (65), and can truly say that Hant's Remedy is a medicine that has real merit, and I do not hesitate to recommend it to the public in general."
