THE TOBACCO MARKET. OUR OWN AND OTHER MARKETS.

Sales of Old and New Crop Seed

Lenf-Comments of the Tobacco Journale-Local Market. Although there seems to be quite a quantity of tobacco being brought to the warehouses in this city, sales are not numerous, and buyers claim that it is nearly all of their early purchases. Of course there are some few lots being bought but it is not by any means on a large scale; but when there can be an extra fine crop bought it is readily taken. Buyers claim there are too few of them. Both the grower and the buyer thus far are doing considerable "squealing;" the former because he is docked, and the latter for the reason that the crops are not cleaned properly.

The crop may be a hard one to haudle, owing to its many defects, and wrappers may be fewer than growers would like to have ; but most of our growers know what first class wrappers are, and they should be sure they have them before they try to sell them, not only for their own reputation, but because it is square.

More trouble has arisen from mouldy tips than from any other cause; some handlers have nicely trimmed off the mouldy ends, and if the leaves are long enough put them among the wrappers. This the buyers will not allow, as they claim that a leaf must have a perfect tip to make a good wrapper. Besides, packers who have been experimenting say that if the mouldy tip is cut off, and the tobacco gets warm in the bulk, the mould will return and spoil the whole leaf. Following are some recent sales of the 83 crop : Jacob Ahment, Peach Bottom, has sold to H. Brush, of Washington borough, 2 acres at 19½, 6, 3.

Alfred M. Brown, of Fulton, sold to Skiles & Frey, 1 acre, 16, 8, 4, 2 Daniel Eberly, of Drumore, delivered to R H. Brubaker, on Saturday, 2 acres, at 20,110, 5, 3. James Collins, of Colerain, delivered to Jacob Shirk, 4 acres, at 20, 16, 6, 3; and W. Shoemaker, of Fulton, 4 acres, 22, 16, John Long and S. Martin, delivered their Havana to Skiles & Frey last week, and the same firm bought Day Wood's, in Fulton. All these parties intend plant-ng it largely this season. Indeed, from all sections of the county some reports that the farmers intend planting Havana seed, both of the Wisconsin and New York varieties, and it is safe to say that over half the crop grown in Lancaster county the coming season will be of these varieties.

Sales of Old Tobacco. During the past week between 300 and 400 cases of old tobacco have been sold in our local market, the prices remaining firm and in some instances slightly ad-

Of seed leaf 1,300 cases are reported sold, which shows a fair demand, and a greater activity is anticipated, provided the weather is such as to admit buyers getting into the market. The United States Tobacco Journal prints the following comments on the trade in general and the New York market in particular : "With the exception of one or two large holders of '82 tobaccos, nobody cares to lend zest to the market by making reports of sales or pronouncing business as being good. The great majority of those in the market are now interested in pre-profits, and the only care that besets the market is how to replace such goods. The '83 crop in general is of such an uncertain growth and yield that an invest-ment at high figures is extremely risky, If there existed a general scarcity of tobacco the condition of the new crop would not play such an important role, and an investment even at high figures would be correspondingly safe. But the country is flooded with poor tobaccos, and only in tine stock is there a scarcity. This makes the purchases of the new crop by packers not alone a most bazardous undertaking, but also one unusually difficult to accomplish. The grower wants the highest prices quoted, and as most every grower considers his tobacco the best, worth just as much as anybody else's, the great difference in prices existing in the market for good and poor tobaccos has for him no argumentative power, nor do they influence him in demands. Therefore, the general desire in our market to keep transactions private and not to divulge prices is, from a commercial standpoint, to be called very proper.

As far as could be ascertained without navigator and said : "Climb in." resorting to edious inquiries into private in what?" transactions, the sales for the four days of up." How Senators Est and Drink Correspondence of the Troy Times.

I was talking with John Francis the other day. He is the colored man to whom Mr. Edmunds gave the restaurant, with $6,000 or $7,000 a year. "Do the senators generally spend much money with you!" I asked him. "No," he went "as a rule they come down here and eat crackers and milk. My milk is almost cream, and they like it. Most of them are here each day, although a few have their lunch sent to a committee room. Senator Morrill always eats crackers and milk, as do Senators Hoar and Ingalis Mr. Platt always drinks tea. Senator Vest likes to stand up to the oyster counter and take a dezen on the shell with some ale, Perry Belmont is often here eating raw General Logan is very abstemi-Mr. Aldrich generally eats a steak. When they went out together the Senate blinked sympathetically. Don Cameron invariably took wine with his nice little lunch, served daintily in his private room. Frye and Blair are the only tectotalers in the upper house. But drunkenness is never seen in these days. It is now in "bad form." Ten years ago, wine bibbing was very common. Old Willard Saulsbury of Delaware, brother venting prices from being quoted high in to the present senator, was a heavy drinker public. Privately, everyone holding good and was obliged to give way to his brother . tobaccos would like to see the figures for He and "Jim" Nye of Nevada were boon such stock gallop upward. Nye died in an insane asylum, there will be, for a great while to come no difficulty in disposing of anything good at, we may venture to say, extravagant of California, who drank himself to death. I suppose he was one of the brightest men who ever came to Washington. Why, he helped survey the Albany and Schenectad y railroad before he was eighteen years old, and was attorney general of Lilinois at twenty four. Many of his bright remarks are still treasured. Notably, one night he was unable to reach home. Some friends bappening along found him in the gutter. "What, is this you, Yates?" they said. "No o," was the prompt answer, "I I am Seward." McDongall was in the Senate with Yates, who ruined himself with rum. Yates reformed time and again, only to tall still lower. The tendency is growing better. Newspapers and the sharp public opinion against much drinking are doing their work In the Senate to day there is not a man who can be termed a hard drinker to the detriment of his public duties.

Whether over eating or drinking are made harmless by using Hop Bitters freely, giving elegant appetite and enjoyment by using them before and removing all duliness, pains and distress atterwards, leaving the head cicar, nerves steady and all the feelings buoyant, elastic and more happy than before. New York Witness, August 15, 1880, I find that in addition to the pure spirite contained in their composition, they contain the extract of hops and other well known and highly approved medicinal roots, leaves and tinctures in quantities sufficient to render the article what the makers claim it to be, to wit, a medicinal preparation and not a bever-age—unfit and unsafe to be used except as a

CLOTHING,

BUSY!

Preparations for Spring Trade are rapidly progressing at UENTRE HALL. All our employees are as busy as they can well be. Our lables and sherves already bear evidence of the care and pains taken to make our stock of CLOTHING the beat yet shown here, and in these FOUR POINTS mean to be ahead of all competitors: Point No. 1-THE STYLE. Point No. 2-THE HIT. Point No. 3-THE QUALITY. Point No. 4-THE PRICE. It is yet early to speak of Clothing for spring wear. It is not too early, however, to advise you that we wish to be considered as competing in the race for the trade that will soon be here to the end that when you contemplate purchasing you will stop in to see us, and look over the stock that we shall then have, confident that when you bring your best experience to bear in making comparison, both as to quality and price, you'll stay long enough to buy such clothing as you will think necessary to meet spring requirements. SPRING OVEH. COATS. Here you will find a well-selected lot of Spring Overcoats, in all the new shades of Corkscrews, made to suit a fashionable trade, with soft roll and medium length.
