As to the medium grades, he says, they will be bought, but at such prices as they can be used for shipping goods. On the other hand, many growers whom we have met, from widely different sec tions of the county, declare that a comparatively small proportion of the crop has been purchased; and that while some of the tobacco is inferior, as is the case every year, and while there has been more tip mould than usual, the crop as a whole is a good one and there is "any quantity" of first class wrappers to be had by any who wish to buy them at fair prices. They profess to believe that the backwardness of buyers in taking up the crop is b:cause they made mistakes in buying some former crops on the field or the poles, and were resolved not to buy the present crop until it was stripped and in condition for casing, and this condition could not be attained this year because of the unusual-ly unfavorable weather. It was calmer in our market this week and sales were mostly confined to alleged superior grades. Holders of '80 and '51 Pennsylvania have become somewhat haughty in their demeasor since the re-cording of the previous week's heavy transactions, and it is now very difficult to purchase any such goods at "bargain" figures. The unfortunate first holders of '80 and '81 Penusylvania, while considering every advance or every show of one a most acceptable blessing, nevertheless cannot suppress a sigh of regret whenever they effect a sale of their stock. In fact a sale under the present circumstances is nothing but a profit on their losses. A prominent dealer and holder of '81 Ponu sylvania said: "I am offered 20 cents for my wrappers. Figure interest, storage and expenses, they stand me 45 cents." It is, therefore, natural that as soon as the market shows any activity in this tobacco holders are inclined to ask higher prices than the stock is quoted at; hence the reaction of the market" dividing it from the United States, it is taken for granted that custom regulations cannot be enforced. There never was a more mistaken idea. The Mexican cus-toms service may be dishonest and im-duties. The authorities might wink at the loss of duties due to others, but be sure they are zealous in collecting what is lue to them. Now there is a very high duty on all tobacco which is brought into Mexico. Moreover the law forbids it to be re-exported. When tobacco comes into Mexico it comes to stay. This is stated upon the authority of Mexican Consul Navarro, who, in a recent published inter view with a reporter of the U.S. Tobacco Journal, also pronounced the averment that Havana or Sumatra tobacco could be brought into the United States by way of Mexico, to be a ridiculous statement without color of truth. The real danger, duty added. There is no doubt that the growth of Mexican tobacco will be greatly stimula-ted by the Mexican treaty. It is said that Americans have largely invested in Mexican plantations in the expectation that the treaty would be ratified, and that the growing of Mexican tobacco for the United tates market would prove to be a profit able enterprise. The value of the Mexican tobacco crop of 1883 was $2,006,130. With a remarkably fertile soil of almost limitless extent, with conditions of climate of peculiar favor, there is no telling to what extent the culture of tobacco in Mexico may be extended. Of course, everybody in the trade knows nonsensical s the talk of Senator Riddleberger in the United States Senate and other doctrin-aires that Mexican tobacco competes with Virginia, or to use a trade term, hogshead The only use for which Mexican tobacco is fit is the manufacture of cigars. It is shown by statistics that while Mexico

It will be remembered how an attempt was made a year ago to boom Mexican cigars and how General Grant lent himself to the movement by unqualifiedly praising the goodness of Mexican eigars sent to him by Mexicau Minister Romero. It is now asserted that Mexican tobacco is superior to anything grown in the island of Cuba with the exception of a small quantity grown in the Vuelta Abajo. Mexican Consul Nav-arro asserts that Mexican tobacco is largely exported to Spain and then re exported to Cuba free of duty. Poverty and suffering.

"I was drazged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bits for doctoring. I twas completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my patter, I commenced using Hop Bitters and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you store at $1.70, $2.00, $2.00, $2.50, $2.50, $2.50, $2.50, $3.00, $4.50, $5.00, $6.00
