BARBED WIRE.

Modes by Which Many of Its Dangers May Be Avoided.

Country Gentleman.

In recent discussions, both at the East and in the Western states, on the use of barbed wire for farm barriers, much was said by some of the speakers on the danger to domestic animals, and especially to young horses, with which the use of this wire is attended, and cases were described where horses were badly lacerated and bled to death. Yet, notwithstanding these formidable drawbacks, so great is the saving in expense and so efficient and durable are fences made of barbed wire, that they cannot be prohibited, and farmers would not submit to any attempt to suppress their use.

The question, therefore, comes up: Is there any way to remove the objection, and to prevent the harm which barbed wire causes? We answer decidedly in the affirmative, and are surprised at the slow progress which a knowledge of the modes of prevention has made. We have used the wire for years and never found the least difficulty or danger. There are several modes. For smooth, nearly level fields, plow a deep furrow on each side of the wire fence, or rather plow several furrows, so as to make one broad and deep one on either side, throwing as much earth with the plow as practicable towards the line of posts, and finishing the work by cleaning out by hand the ditches thus made. This work is performed at comparatively little cost, and has the three advantages of draining the line, banking against the posts so that they need not be set so deep, and making a visible barrier which will induce horses to check their speed and stop before they reach the fence. They will not pitch heedlessly into a ditch and against a bank. They are always brought up before they reach the line. Another advantage is that the ditch and bank combined are as good as two bottom boards, and a smaller number of wires are needed to complete the fence above.

Another mode, where there are plenty of scattered or cobble stone over the adjacent fields, is to make with them a low flat wall, say about two feet high; set the posts in the line of this wall, and attach the barbed wire to them. The wall becomes a visible barrier, and will repel the approach of animals, for they have a special dislike to step on a mass of small stones.

A third mode is to place two or three wires inside of a hedge, the branches and stems of which will hold the wires in place as the hedge increases in growth. A poor, thin hedge, of small growers, is thus made into an efficient barrier, and the hedge is sufficiently visible. Strong growing hedge plants are not wanted for this purpose, for it would require too much labor to keep them cut into proper shape. There are other modes for removing the danger, but some of the preceding may be employed in nearly all cases, and the fences will be comparatively cheap in construction.

Marrying a Deceased Wife's Sister.

Pall Mall Gazette.

The absurdity of the existing English marriage law is well illustrated, by a piece of persecution about which a question was asked in the House of Commons a few days ago. A parishioner at Epping and his wife were refused the Holy Communion by the vicar on the ground that the woman was the man's deceased wife's sister. The husband was 82 years old, and the wife 77, and they had been married fifty years; but Dr. Claughton, the bishop of the diocese, apparently held that they both came within the definition of "notorious evil livers," and sustained the vicar in his action. The attorney-general, however, has now pointed out that the marriage, having been contracted before Lord Lyndhurst's act, is strictly valid, and the vicar has been advised by the bishop that the two parishioners "cannot legally be repelled from the Holy Communion." "Had this view of the law been present to my mind," adds Dr Claughton in a letter to the parishioners, "I should have been spared the pain—no less to myself than to yourselves—of ordering the said repulse."

Concentrate Vitality.

All excitants, to radically cure, must be innocent. The art consists in continuing their use until matters in the system contrary to health are removed. Health finds happiness in the mere sense of existence.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS stimulate the blood so as to enable nature to throw off all morbid humors, and cure disease, no matter by what name they are called.

The secret of recruiting the vital principle is discovered in BRANDRETH'S PILLS, because they remove what holds it in check. It is believed they possess these elements of vitality. Heat, healthy animal warmth, is certainly increased by the use of this wonderful medicine. Provided the great organs are not irreparably injured, there is no disease BRANDRETH'S PILLS will not cure. The true art of healing is to assist nature to throw off disease—to concentrate, as it were, the whole vitality of the system to eject that has fastened on a part.

GET BRADRETH'S PILLS. Be put off with none other And follow the printed directions, and health will surely bless you.

Keep Your Horses Healthy.—For heaves, distemper, founder, and worms use D. Y's Horse and Cattle Powder. It clears the blood, improves digestion, and gives new life and energy to the dispirited animal. Price twenty-five cents per package of one pound, full weight.

If you are sick and want help get a reputable remedy of established merit. The curative virtues of Burdock Blood Bitters have never been questioned. For an enfeebled circulation or a weak stomach they are splendid. For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen street.

Polishing the Wrong End

Many men daily polish their boots who never give a thought to the condition of their hair, except to harrow it casually with brush and comb, or submit it to the paralyzing attention of the average barber. What happens? Why, this: From neglect, mental anxiety, or any of a score of causes, the hair turns prematurely gray and begins to fall out. Parker's Hair Balsam will at once stop the latter process and restore the original color. An elegant dressing, free from grease. m4-lyd5&eow,w
