phia. The Larceny Cases

Benjamin Benedict, John Pitz and Harry Doebler, charged with the larceny of about $25 worth of muslin and curled hair from a stable used by J. W. Lowell, had a hearing before Alderman McCono my this morning. The muslin, which was in strips and had been carried by the boys to Shober's rag ware rooms and sold for rage, was fully identified by Mr. Lowell. In behalf of young Benedict it was shown that he was not with the other boys when the goods were stolen, but had accompan ied them to the warehouse, they having told him they had a right to the rage. The alderman held his case for further consideration. Pfitz entered bail to answer at court and Doebler in default of bail was committed for trial.

A Thief Held for Trial. This afternoon John Anderson, a tramp, had a hearing before Alderman A. F. Donnelly, on the charge of stealing an overcoat and $85 from Mr. Smith. He was committed for trial at court. It appears that on April 1st Smith was assisting a family to move at Millport, and while loading a wagon he hung up his overcoat containing the money. The coat was soon missed and Anderson was afterwards arrested on

Notable Enterprise

J. R. Smaling (above Locher's bank), has made arrangements with the great French house of A. Origet, and its branch in New York, to furnish by sample any of the many novelties in men's suttings imported by this famous firm. Their immense stock enables them to offer through Mr. Smaling here in Lancaster that variety of beautiful and stylish tab:ics for which so many of our cittzens have been going to New York and Philadelphia. Mr. Smaling proposes not only to obvi-ate this, but to furnish, if desired upon brief notice, London and Paris made clothing to mersure. This is a stroke of enterprise that deserves encouragement and is bound to at-patronage.

WINTER STILL LIVES.

March, the first month of Spring, has been here and is now entered upon the minutes of time as a bygone. April has been ushered in, and with it cold and uncomfortable weather, as a reminder, it would seem, that winter still lives, and that Spring, with all its glad tidings, is yet laggard and yet a thing of the future, all premontions of the weather-wise to the contrary notwithstanding.

Spring will surely come, however, and with it bring the mild weather which will necessitate a change of raiment—the laying aside of

posed to be Lost-Mid

Boston, April 5.-A special to the Herald, from Halifax, received late last night, says : The steamer Daniel Steinmann struck about 1 o'clock Thursday night on Nead rock shoal, about 200 yards distant from Sambio light during a terrifle gale and dense fog. She immediately backed off, and the next moment struck on Gardner shoal. An immense hole was knocked in her bottom. She speedily filled and within a few minutes went down. So far was launched, but how many it at first contained is not known. The Few Eursivors. About midnight the men at Sambio island observed a boat making for the shore and guided it with the help of torches around to Calm Cove, where occupants, seven in number, landed. They were five of the crew and two passengers. After daylight broke two persons could be made out clinging to the rigging of the sunken ship. A boat put out from the light house and rescued them from their perilous position. They proved to be Cap tain Schoonhaven and a boy passenger. The News sent to the Agents. About 9 o'clock Friday morning Chas Martin, pilot of boat No. 4, touched at Sambio island and received the above meagre facts and then proceeded to the mainland with the following message to Chapman Bros., agents of the White

Cross line in Halifax : "The Belgian steamer, Dau'l Steinmann was wrecked on the 3d of Apri', about 10 p. m., down upon the rocks off Sambio; drowned; 5 of the crew, 3 passengers and the captain were saved. "H, SCHOONHAVEN." [Signed.] HALIFAX, April 5.—The steamship Daniel Steinmann sank a few minutes after striking. The life boat from the ship landed seven persons, two passengers
