MEETING OF THE COUNTY SOCIETY.
Proposition to Hold a Farmers' Institute—
Premiums for Juvenile Corn Growers—
—Co-operative Associations—
—Hats, Caps, Furs, &c.

A stated meeting of the Lancaster agricultural and horticultural society was held in their room in city hall Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The president, J. G. Rush, being absent, Vice President Henry M. Engle was called to the chair.

The reading of the minutes of last meeting was dispensed with.

The following named members were present: Henry M. Engle, Marietta; John C. Linville, Gap; Johnson Miller, Warwick; Joseph F. Witmer, Paradise; M. D. Kendig, Crosswell; Dr. J. P. Wickersham, city; S. Leon Fry, Ephrata; F. R. Dufferin, city; R. Buckwalter, Salisbury; J. B. Hipple, city; J. M. Johnston, city; A. C. Baldwin, Salisbury; Levi S. Rost, Oregon; C. L. Hunsicker, Manheim; Dr. W. D. Bollinger, city; Peter S. Hest, Litz; Israel L. Landis, Landis; Eph. S. Hest, Manheim; Wm. L. Broas, Drumore; S. P. Eby, city.

J. R. Buckwalter, of Salisbury, was proposed and elected a member of the society.

A Farmers' Institute
Dr. J. P. Wickersham, from the committee appointed at last meeting to consider the advisability of holding a farmers' institute, presented the following report:

"The committee appointed to consider the advisability of holding a Farmers' institute respectfully report that it should be held in the city of Lancaster during the latter part of May, or early in June, and continue in session not less than two days.

"2. That the exercises should consist of essays and discussions by practical farmers, and of instructive lectures by leading agriculturists from abroad.

"3. That the subjects to be considered should be such as relate exclusively to the different branches of practical farming.

"4. That invitations to the institute should be extended to Governor Pattison, Dr. Loring, U. S. commissioner of agriculture; Thos. J. Edge, secretary of the state board of agriculture; President Atherton, of the state agricultural college; Rev. Dr. Calder, lecturer of the state Grange, and other prominent agriculturists from this and other states.

"5. That an executive committee of five be appointed to arrange the time and place for the meeting of the institute, to advise the same, to invite speakers, and to prepare the programme, and to conduct the proceedings."

Johnson Miller moved the adoption of the report and the appointment of the committee proposed therein.

Dr. Wickersham spoke at some length in favor of the institute. If properly managed at least five hundred Lancaster county farmers would attend it, and probably a much larger number, if Governor Pattison and the other distinguished agriculturists could be secured to attend. He would like to hear however from the farmers present, what they thought of the proposition. There are three important points to be considered. Will the institute be held, be well attended? Can enough money be raised to pay the expenses? Can an executive committee be found who will energetically push forward the enterprise and make it a success?

M. D. Kendig said the project met his views exactly, but he did not know how it would suit the people of his neighborhood. They have been rather slow heretofore in connecting themselves with any kind of societies or even attending agricultural meetings. He thought they would be apt to attend an institute such as proposed, as it is something new; it would be necessary, however, to have local committees appointed in each district to explain the character of the institute and work up a feeling in its favor.

Dr. Engle said that every member of the society present was in favor of the institute, but unfortunately there are not many of us. He was unwilling to believe, however, that ten progressive farmers in the district could not be found to take an active interest in the enterprise. The number ought to be much larger. Our farmers attend political meetings and others of less importance, and it would be a shame if they did not attend a farmers' institute in this, the golden age of the commonwealth.

It would be a shame to allow our agriculturists of half our agricultural resources to strip us in this direction. He believes the institute would be a success. The people would turn out to see the governor, if he were here.

Joseph F. Witmer said that if a political institute were proposed there would be a crowd in attendance, and it was a wonder to him why farmers did not take more interest in those things which were so important to them. One reason why they do not take more interest in the meetings of the Agricultural society is, that they go to church every Sunday morning, and after the service gather into squads, forming little Agricultural societies of their own, and take an active interest in such matters, but he had always failed. The farmers are, as a class, prejudiced against societies and what they call "book farming," and he much doubted whether they could be got interested in the proposition.

Henry M. Engle thought Mr. Rost was inclined to look at the dark side of the picture. We should not judge of the future by the past; we are progressing in almost every branch of farming and although some still cling to old habits and old methods, there are many others who readily avail themselves of all modern inventions and improvements, and give ear to the suggestions of scientific farmers. He believed the institute could be made a success.

Johnson Miller was so well satisfied that it would be a success that he would take upon himself to guarantee that at least ten farmers from Warwick would attend, and he would guarantee at least $10 as Warwick's share of the expenses.

Mr. Engle said he would guarantee as large an attendance and as much money from Donegal.

J. F. Witmer thought there need be no uneasiness about the financial part of the enterprise. The society has $140 in the treasury and the county owes it a year's appropriation. If the distinguished speakers named by Dr. Wickersham can be secured he had no doubt the institute would be largely attended.

C. L. Hunsicker said the object proposed met his approbation. If farmers did not attend it, the fault and the loss would be theirs, not ours. Though this society has been very poorly sustained, and some newspaper men have poked fun at it, he believed it had done much good. It is not always the largest numbers that accomplish the most; nations have sometimes been saved by a very few patriots.

J. R. Buckwalter believed that Salisbury would send to the institute at least twenty live farmers and thought there need be no financial difficulty, especially if there was a good lecture on the horse.

Mr. Linville moved that the present committee be continued, with instructions to carry into effect the plan of institute as outlined in their report, as above.

M. D. Kendig moved to amend by adding the secretary (Mr. Linville) to the committee. The amendment was adopted and the motion as amended unanimously agreed to.

Premiums for Hops.
Mr. Linville, from the committee appointed at a former meeting to arrange a list of premiums for juvenile corn planters, presented the following report:

"The committee's arrangement of list of premiums to boys for the best crop of corn on one eighth of an acre, give leave to report the following list of premiums: For the best crop of corn $15; for the second best $10; for the third best $5; for the fourth best $3. The length of the plot cultivated to be not more than four times its width, and the measurement outside the rows must not exceed one half the distance between the rows. The contestants, who must not be over fifteen years of age, must enter their names with the secretary on or before the 1st of June. The reports of the proceeds must give the kind and preparation of the soil, variety of seed and what fertilizers were used. The crops to be shelled, weighed and the return made to the secretary, to be accompanied by affidavit of contestant or other voucher, not later than the 15th of November."

The report was unanimously adopted.

Crop Reports.
Mr. Engle said he would like to make a correction of his last month's report relative to the prospects of the peach crop. He had then said that all the peach lauds were killed by the frost. He now noticed that there were a good many buds on the upper branches of the trees.

Johnson Miller said the wheat crop promised well, but much of the rye is frozen out; the grass looks well except in some fields where the old grass was heavy and which have been badly damaged by the late frosts. The rye has been pretty well frozen out, the mercury having been down to 13 below zero.

Co-operative Associations.
"Is there any advantage in farmers' co-operative associations?" was discussed at some length by J. C. Linville, Joseph F. Witmer, Dr. J. P. Wickersham and H. M. Engle, all of whom argued that co-operation was a good thing and that farmers stood in their own light by not forming them and availing themselves of their advantages.

Essays Promised.
C. L. Hunsicker promised to read an essay before the society at its next meeting; and Dr. Wickersham promised to prepare one for some future meeting or for the institute which is proposed to hold.

Hat Hatter.
Mr. Engle wanted to know if the complaints frequently heard that Lancaster county farmers cannot make good butter was true. It is well known that our butter does not command so high a price as that made in other counties.

Mr. Landis proposed a general discussion at the next meeting the question: "Do the farmers of Lancaster county make good butter? If not, why not?"
