CUTICULAR REMEDIES are the greatest medicine on earth. Had the worst case of Salt Rheum in this country. My mother had it twenty years, and it did not leave her. I believe CUTICULAR REMEDIES have saved my life. My scars, breast and neck were covered for five years, which not only relieved me, but I could use CUTICULAR REMEDIES internally and CUTICULAR CREAM externally.

J. W. ADAMS, Newark, O.

GREAT BLOOD MEDICINE.

The half has not been told as to the great curative powers of the CUTICULAR REMEDIES. Have paid hundreds of dollars for medicines to cure diseases of the blood and skin, and never found anything to equal the CUTICULAR REMEDIES.

FRANKLIN, R. I. CHAS. A. WILLIAMS.

CURE IN EVERY CASE.

Your CUTICULAR REMEDIES outdid all other medicines I ever used for skin diseases. My humors and patients say that they have never before in any instance, where other remedies have failed.

AFTER 1,700 YEARS.

"THE TEACHINGS OF THE APOSTLES."

A Christian Manual, second to the New Testament, Recovered in the Original Greek.

Among the many remarkable recoveries of long lost ancient documents which this century has witnessed, there is none which has awakened a more immediate and more wide spread popular interest than the discovery of the "Teachings of the Apostles," a catechetical treatise of the early church, known to us hitherto chiefly through the references to it by Clement of Alexandria, and such later writers as Eusebius and Athanasius. Clement, who flourished about the end of the second century, cites the teaching as scripture, but it is expressly excluded from the canon by later writers. The fortunate discovery of this document is the learned Bishop Bryennios, of Nicomedia, in Asia Minor, and the place of discovery was Constantinople. The Greek text was recently published with full polemical notes in modern Greek, by Bishop Bryennios, and the Independent, which was the first of American journals to announce the publication, gave a translation of chapters VII to XVI. This translation lacked somewhat in exactness, however, being made (owing to the necessities of the case) from the German version of Harnack, rather than from the original Greek. The latest and best translation from the original has been made by the Sunday School Times, and is here given in full. The date of the original document is commonly set between 120 and 160 A. D., which makes it the earliest Christian manual of church polity extant, outside of the New Testament itself.

CHAPTER I.

Two ways there are, one of life and one of death, but a wide difference between the two ways. The way of life, then, is this: First, thou shalt love God who made thee; second, thy neighbor as thyself; and all things whatsoever thou wilt do, should not occur to thee, then also to another do not do. And of these sayings the teaching is this: Bless them that curse you, and pray for your enemies and fast for them that persecute you. For who shall not love his neighbor, who shall not love you? Do not also the Gentiles do the same? But do ye love them that hate you: and ye shall not have an enemy. Abstain thou from fleshly and worldly lusts. If one give thee a blow upon thy right cheek, turn to him the other also, and that shalt be perfect. If one imprison thee for one mile, go with him two. If one take away thy cloak, give him also thy coat. If one take from thee thy own, ask it back, for indeed, thou art not able to give to every man that asketh, and ask it not back; for to all the Father willeth should be bestowed of his own free gifts. Happy [is] he that liveth according to commandment, for he is a guideless. Woe to him that receiveth; for if one have a gift, and do not give it, he shall be like that which receiveth, but not having need shall pay the penalty, why he received and for what, and coming into straits (condemnation) he shall be examined concerning the things which he hath done, and he shall not escape, neither shall he be able to last farthing. But also now concerning this it hath been said, Let those sweat in their hands until they know to whom they should give.

CHAPTER II.

And the second commandment of the teaching: Thou shalt not commit murder, thou shalt not covet, thou shalt not commit fornication, thou shalt not steal, thou shalt not practice magic, thou shalt not practice witchcraft, thou shalt not murder a child by abortion nor kill that which is born, and become one with it. Thou shalt not give thyself to be a witness, thou shalt not speak evil, thou shalt bear no grudge. Thou shalt not be double minded nor double tongued, for to him that speaketh, he shall be held to the last farthing. But also now concerning this it hath been said, Let those sweat in their hands until they know to whom they should give.

CHAPTER III.

My child, flee from every evil thing, and from every likeness of it. Be not prone to anger, for anger leadeth the way to murder; neither jealous, nor quarrelsome, but give to every man that asketh, and some thou shalt pray, and some thou shalt love more than thy own life.

"THE TEACHINGS OF THE APOSTLES."

A Christian Manual, second to the New Testament, Recovered in the Original Greek.

Among the many remarkable recoveries of long lost ancient documents which this century has witnessed, there is none which has awakened a more immediate and more wide spread popular interest than the discovery of the "Teachings of the Apostles," a catechetical treatise of the early church, known to us hitherto chiefly through the references to it by Clement of Alexandria, and such later writers as Eusebius and Athanasius. Clement, who flourished about the end of the second century, cites the teaching as scripture, but it is expressly excluded from the canon by later writers. The fortunate discovery of this document is the learned Bishop Bryennios, of Nicomedia, in Asia Minor, and the place of discovery was Constantinople.
