REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE. Hadget of Recent Happenings in the River Town-Personal Points-Co. U's Seventh Anniversary.

Shad fishing is still poor. The tailoring establishment of the late William Hiteshue has passed into possession of J. F. Smith. Mr. W. E. Madden on Saturday drew the first of the watches awarded by Yer gey's watch club. The watch is a hand some gold one. To night the following meetings will be held: Susquehanna Lodge, No. 80, I. O. of O. F.; Conestoga Lodge, Knights of Pythias, and Riverside Home, No. 27, H.

On Thursday the examinations will begin at the primary schools. They should be well attended by the parents of the children, both as an encouragement to teachers and pupils. This part of the county has had several bands of gypsies in it recently. A band which passed through this place but a short time ago had handsome wagons and good horses, and appeared with none of the wretched accompaniments so often seen with these people.

large number of members of Gen. Welsh post, G. A. R., attended the special services held for them at St. John's Lutheran church, last evening. The Rev. Yingling hand d his subject, "The Cause," in a most able manner.

Personal. Mr. James Wilson, of Reading, is in town for a few days. Mr. F. A. Bennett entertained his brother, C. E. Bennett, of Philadelphia, over the Sabbath. Mrs. Rosanna Sheidecker, aged 74 years, died at her late home on Cherry street early this morning, of general debility.

On Monday next the new Second ward justice of the peace, Samuel Evans, will enter upon the duties of office. The 'squire has fitted up a room at his residence on Locust street as a dispensary of justice.

Next Saturday evening a large ball will be held at Wertz's hotel, in Washington borough by the young men of that place. A good Lancaster orchestra has been secured to furnish the music.

A large surprise party was given to Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson at their resi dence on 4th street on Sa urday evening by about fifty of their friends. It was a delightful affair.

Kate Jones and Aun Smith, better known as Ann Dunmore, were arrested yesterday by Officers Gilbert and Willick for being disorderly. 'Squire Young ment them both to jail for short terms

A meloe took place on Fifth street, last evening, between a party of Columbia and Marietta negroes. The latter were chased out of town by the Tow Hillers. Stones and pistols were freely used, but no person was hurt.

Mr. John Hoffman has a geranium plant which contains 29 full blown tlowers and seven buds. So thickly are all clustered together that they appear as a single flower. It is something of a curiosity and a view of it will repay the trouble of a walk to the north end of Locust street, where the owner resides

Co. U's Seventh Anniversary.

Λ cordial invitation is extended by Co C to the public to witness its full dress inspection and drill at the armory to-night, beginning at 8 o'clock. After it is over the company will march to Warren's restaurant, where the members will celebrate the seventh anniversary of the or, anization of the company by partaking of an elegant banquet.

hitoself in a fit of despondency on Saturday morning, Raiph Colwell, an eleven year old boy, has mysteriously disappeared from Car. liste, and his unexplained absence causes no little excitement in the town. On Saturday afternoon Philip Weber, York baker, made an unsuccessful attempt to kill his wife by shooting her with pistol. Weber had been drinking.

Max Michael, an insane man living at 645 Leithgow street, Philadelphia, set five on Sanday night to the bed in which himself and his one year old child were lying and both were burned to death.

Edwin J. Schaum, who killed Isaac Sch bert with a base ball bat in a dispate about a woman, which occurred at Schaum's hotel, at Lebanou, was found not guilty Saturday night. The trial last ed two days.

General Sheridan has notified Maj General Hartranft that he will visit to encampment of the Pennsylvania nation I guard at Gettysburg in August next, and nat he will remain for at least three day. He will have cavalry escort of at least one company.

Interlocking Switches

The new system of interlocking railroad switches, was put in operation on the Pennsylvania railroad at Dillersville, this morning, and is said to work finely. The switches are of the same kind as those used at the Broad street depot, Philadelphia They control all the tracks of the Reading as well as of the Pennsylvania railroad, being operated by a series of levers in a telegraph tower erected spe-cially for the purpose. John Doyle will have charge of the levers by day, and Aaron Mchaffy by night. J. K. Bartley is the day telegraph operator and A. S. Denlinger the night operator. By the new system it is impossible for trains to run off the track and impossible for collisions to occur at this rather dangerous crossing, if the signals are properly observed. The officers in the new tower have control of all trains on the Pennsylvania railroad as far east as Witmer station and as far west as Landisville and Mountville, respectively.

TAREN TO PHILADELPHIA.

Jos. R. Strickier Arraigned There and Held in $5,000 Bail. Joseph R. Strickler, of Mount Joy, was and taken to the latter city. Strickle is charged with being an accessory before the fact to the death of Hattle Scholl, who died from the result of malpractice. His bondsman having surrendered him, Strickler was taken to Philadelphia and locked up in the Central station.

A dispatch to the INTELLIGENCER from Philadelphia this afternoon says:

'Joseph Strickler, of Mt. Joy, charged with being accessory before the fact in procuring a criminal operation on Harriet Scholl, which resulted in her death, was arraigned before a magistrate this morning, waived a hearing and was held in $5,000 bail for trial."

A Long Journey to Meet Her Lover.

Miss Maria Maljinak arrived in Reading from the northern part of Russia to meet her affianced, who has been working along the line of the new railroad, and, traveled about a thousand miles by rail before she reached the seashore to sail for America. She arrived in Reading to the seash of the the new railroad on Saturday, inquiring for her betrothed, Janos Jurov, until she finally found him near Gibraltar, six miles below Reading.

MENNONITES AT WORSHIP

Their Peculiar Religious Observance De-Rev. John Kohr, of this county, con-ducted a Mennonite service on Sunday at the church of that denomination, corner of Gay and Exeter streets, Baltimore. The Baltimore Sun thus describes the unique solemnity:

solemnity:

Before him (Rev. Kohr) on a plain table, in a pure white napkin lay a dozen pieces of wheaten bread of large size and tempting freshness. Alongside of it stood a glass decanter full of wine, and near by two large drinking cups. After a brief prayer of thanksgiving the minister took the topmost slice of bread, broke off a piece, put it into his mouth and ate it. Then he went to every one of the brothren and sisters, breaking for each an ample piece. His little flock was ranged on the benches aside of his platform, a dozen men on his left and about twenty women on his right. The men all wore suits of black or gray, with tightly fitting coats buttoning up to the throat, and with small standing collars. All were brown, hearty and perfectly clean shaven. The women had on pretty white caps over hair which was parted in the centre and plainly brushed back. Most of them were black, though a few of them had on gray gowns, and one younger sister wore blue. The dresses were plainly made, consisting of a loose bodice and wide skirt, while a neat little shawl or cape was folded demurely over shoulders and After the bread and wine was distributed a hymn was sung, and then the washing of the feet took place. An elder brought to the platform two tin basins containing clear water. A number of fresh towels and two large linen aprons were also brought. The minister took off his coat and girded ou a large apron. The elder nearest him had meanwhile re-moved his long boots and woolen stockings. The pastor knelt before him, the right foot was placed in the basin, the pastor took it in his hand, rubbed the water over the sole, the instep and the ankle, and then gently dried it on the towel. The same was done with the left foot, after which the paster shook the elder's hand cordially, giving him at the same time a hearty kiss on the lips. Then he went to the next, and then the first older, having replaced his stockings and boots, took off his coat, knelt before the pastor and washed his feet. A stalwart elder had also taken a basin, towels and apron over to the sisters. The sisters sat around in a circle with the basin on the floor in the Several stooped forward, and then nothing more could be seen from the male (or left) side of the house. Then on both sides all were busy, either washing or being washed When the feet washing was over, after another hymn, there was a prayer, amelading with the Lord's

Captain John Traynor, who left Bath, Me., on April 3th in the dory Harold T. Bibber to row to New York, arrived at Whitestone on Saturday morning. He was repeatedly forced to land by storms ; otherwise he would have rowed the 400 miles in less than 20 days. He started with a cat as his companion, but it was washed overboard when he had been three daysout. The Mary Stowe, which left Bath for New York when he did, has not yet been heard from. Although he reached Martha's Viceyard on Easter Sunday he did not enter the Sound until last Sunday and it took him five days to reach White-

Captain Traynor, who left in the summer of 1881 crossed the ocean in the smallest sail boat which ever made the passage will set out in Jone to row across the Atlantic in his dory. He says he can row fifty miles a day in favorable weather and he expects to reach Bristol, England, in about three months. He wil get a fresh cat to accompany him and his provisions will consist of canned food. His boat is thirteen feet keel, five feet beam and twenty-two inches deep.

Quotations by Reed, McGrann & Co. The fire was the work of an incendiary. The alarm was slow in being given as the miscreants had out the bell rope. Many robberies were committed during the confusion.

Alraiguing Changler.

Washington, April 28.—In the House, Hewitt, of New York, in a personal explanation as to the speech made by him last Friday on the naval appropriation bill, reiterated his charge that the secretary of the navy had violated the law in not covering into the treasury the proceeds of the sale of condemned vessels. He did not charge "that the secretary acted dishonestly, but illegally."
