

THE MORRISON BILL.

ITS DISCUSSION IN THE HOUSE.

Mr. Randall's Very Weighty Opposition to the Bill—The Honorable Member's Speech—

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 6.—Great interest centers in the action of the House to-day on the Morrison tariff bill, and the galleries were pretty well filled with spectators.

Mr. Randall (Pa.) spoke in favor of protection of the tariff bill, and the galleries were pretty well filled with spectators.

Townsend (Ill.) quoted from the various platforms of the Democratic party to support his arguments that that party was always in favor of tariff reform, and always declared for a revenue tariff.

Mr. Randall (Pa.) then took the floor and spoke in opposition to the bill. He pointed out, first, how quickly capital takes alarm at adverse criticisms.

Mr. Randall said further that England had tried to ruin this country in 1812 and 1860.

The California members of the House held a conference this morning to consider the vote on the proposed motion to strike out the existing clause of the tariff bill.

Representative Anderson, of Kansas, who voted for the consideration of the tariff bill, has decided to support the motion to strike out the existing clause.

The services attendant on the dedication of St. Mary's orphanage and schools which was held for Sunday, May 18, will be preceded by an elaborate address by Rt. Rev. Bishop Shanahan, of Harrisburg. In order to give everyone an opportunity to hear the distinguished lecturer and witness the interesting ceremonies, a diagram of the church has been prepared and seats may be reserved without extra charge at the parsonage of the church after the final morning service next Sunday.

Surprised on his Birthday. Yesterday John W. Andrew, who resides on South Queen street, opposite the Woodward Hill cemetery, was thirty seven years of age. In the evening about forty of his friends, both ladies and gentlemen, surprised him by marching to his house on North Duke street, where they gathered. The evening was spent in dancing at other amusements and all partook of an excellent supper.

City Board Vote. The fair was well attended last night. Flower baskets, of which Ella H. Foster, of Philadelphia, was the donor, were presented by Philip Hough; pin cushion, by Samuel Dorwart; doll, by B. Washington; box of cigars, by W. H. Weller. This evening several valuable articles will be changed.

James Barrett, charged with a burglary at Union Bridge, Md., arrested in Columbia five days ago and placed in the county jail, was taken by Sheriff Wasson, of Carroll county, Md., to York on Saturday night, where he was committed to the workhouse and Monday morning, when he was taken to Maryland.

Another brother, Eliast Johnston, was in the United States navy, and now resides on the Eastern shore of Maryland. Thomas Johnston, the other brother, married Miss Celeste, daughter of the famous danseuse, and lives in Cuba.

In memory of their children, M. and Mrs. Johnston recently endowed two halls in Philadelphia, one which is called the Harriet Lane Johnston hospital for girls. The other is for training nurses.

Both institutions were incorporated by the session of Henry D. Johnston, the latter windows to the dead boys were placed in St. Paul's E. Church, Baltimore, by the four parents. The remains of Mr. Johnston were taken to Baltimore to-day for burial.

From Our Regular Correspondent. Two drafts of cars coming down two inclined sidings in the east yards of the Pennsylvania railroad company here, this morning at 5 o'clock, met at the point where the sidings join the main track in front of the dispatcher's office. The result was the bad wrecking of nine cars. The track was blocked until 9 o'clock. A tramp who was in one of the wrecked cars narrowly escaped death in the wreck. When the cars began leaving the track the employes in the dispatcher's office beat a hasty retreat to a place of greater security. Large crowds of townspeople viewed the wreck.

The New School House. Messrs. Baughman & Ferry have secured the contract for building the new first ward school house, their bid being $7,200. The other bids are Jacob Smith, $8,400; Kramer & Pauls, $8,571; Wm. Hugen, $8,600; C. C. Ferguson, $9,961; E. N. Smith, $9,970; W. W. Upp, $9,995. The bids were read last evening in the office of Wm. B. Owen, 184.

The structure to be a handsome two story building, and will contain four school rooms and several ante-rooms. It will be finished before next September.

Several Cases Tried and Disposed of BEFORE JUDGE LIVINGSTON. Edward Bookmyer vs. Isaac Diller. In this case the plaintiff claimed that he was employed by the defendant to paint the outside of St. John's Episcopal church, in this city, and that the spirit in such an employe. He was also directed by defendant to do work not in the contract, and to recover pay for that suit's brought.

The defense was that Diller did not direct plaintiff to do any extra work, that the cross was painted by the defendant in an unworkmanlike manner, that moat had to be brought here from Philadelphia to put it up right and that plaintiff is now in the debt of defendant for goods sold and delivered.

In the case of Maria Hostetter and David B. Hostetter, her husband, in right of said Maria Hostetter vs. E. C. Steigerwalt was settled.

BEFORE JUDGE PATTERSON. Mary S. H. Shenk, executrix of R. W. Shenk, deceased, vs. Amos Groff. This was an action to recover the amount of a note, which it was claimed the defendant, as sheriff, received and failed to pay over. In 1874 Hair & Shenk held a note signed by Thomas J. Nealy, which was retained. Suit was brought, judgment was entered and execution issued. The record in the sheriff's office shows that the execution is endorsed "debt, interest and costs paid."

The defense was that one day R. W. Shenk came into the sheriff's office and paid the cost in this matter; he directed the sheriff to make the debt, interest and costs as having been paid by Thomas S. Nealy, son of the man who signed the note; that it was so marked and no money was ever received by the sheriff. The jury found for the defense.

J. P. Stornoff vs. Raphael Teller owner or reputed owner, and A. C. Welohans. This is a suit on a mechanic's lien to recover for material furnished by plaintiff in the construction of a tobacco warehouse on North Prince street, this city.

The testimony for the plaintiff was in the court granted a non suit on the ground that the claim did not amount to $50.

OBITUARY.

Sudden Death of Henry M. Johnston. A private telegram received in this city yesterday announces the death, at the Fifth Avenue hotel, New York, from a sudden and severe attack of pneumonia, of Mr. Henry E. Johnston, of Baltimore, well known in this city. Mr. Johnston was a member of an old Baltimore family, conspicuous in the financial and social circles of that city, and was for many years a member of the banking firm of Johnston Bros., which carried on the business transmitted from their father, and was only recently dissolved on account of Mr. Johnston's failing health.

Some eighteen years ago Mr. Johnston was married to Harriet Lane, the accomplished and beautiful niece of President Lincoln, the mother of his last son, Wheatland and lady of the White House during his presidency. Their union was blessed with two bright and handsome boys, James B. and Harry, both of whom it will be remembered, died within the past few years. Mr. Johnston was a successful business operator. He had a magnificent home in Baltimore, where his large business interests centered, and until the death of his beloved boys spent the summer at Wheatland. He was, under the reorganization of the Northern Electric road, and was a member of the Commercial and was widely known in the commercial world.

Mr. Johnston was a man of fine culture, a graduate of Harvard, a courteous and hospitable host to his children, a successful business operator. He had a magnificent home in Baltimore, where his large business interests centered, and until the death of his beloved boys spent the summer at Wheatland. He was, under the reorganization of the Northern Electric road, and was a member of the Commercial and was widely known in the commercial world.
