FARM NOTES.

More About the Shoeless Horse.

Germantown Telegraph.

If the practice which is said to have been adopted some time ago by one or two persons in Boston as well as in that vicinity, of discarding shoes for their horses, subjecting their hoofs to the hardest pavements and finding that they are just as well without shoes is continued and is as successful as it was claimed to have been—why is it that we hear nothing farther about it? Surely if there was any solid merit in it we should have heard of it from the increased following which this highly economical system must have produced. But if there has been any such increased popularity in the discovery—for discovery it assuredly must be called—we have not heard of it, and we have seen nothing of it in the many agricultural publications which were so ready to give it a send off five or six years ago. The fact is we believe it to be that like so many new fangled schemes, it has quietly died out. All horsemen know that after the shoes are removed and a horse is turned to grass, that the hoofs wear very much the first month, so as to leave the shell very thin and tender; and they also know that if the pasturing is continued two or three months, the hoof grows again so as to become thick and hard. This is the normal condition of the hoof. But with all this hardness few horsemen are aware or will believe that the shoe can be dispensed with even in the ordinary work on the farm, much less in dragging heavy loads over the hardest pavements of our cities. We regard it as next to an impossibility, for, with all our experience and information of horses, we have never seen or known of a single instance. It is also to be assumed that if shoeing could be discarded as has been declared by certain parties in Massachusetts that it can be, and has been by them, how speedily would such an important fact be spread over the world, where our horses exist, and millions upon millions of dollars be annually saved?

Timely Hints for Husbandmen.

A famer of Cass township, Huntingdon county, Pa., wanted to borrow a gun from a neighbor for the purpose of killing some crows in his field of corn which were eating the seed. His neighbor declined to loan the gun, for he thought the crows useful. In order to satisfy his curiosity he shot one of them, opened its craw, and found in it twenty one cut worms and four grains of corn.

Self Milking Cows—The old device of a neck rack which prevents the turning of the head to the side, is perhaps the best preventive known. This consists of two square frames placed around the neck and connected with each other at the four corners by light sticks, which keep them about a foot apart. Bossy's appearance is not improved by such a fixture, but the bad habit may be broken in time.

Food for Young Turkeys—Not so many young turkeys would die, if greater attention was devoted to their food. For the first week equal quantities of hard boiled eggs chopped fine, and good wheat bread will suit them. This may be followed by curd made from sour milk and bread made of coarse flour or wheat shorts. If confined some chopped roots or dandelions as well as some clean sharp sand should also be furnished. Beyond six weeks old, screenings or small wheat may constitute a large part of their food. Young turkeys need frequent feeding and pure water.

A Great Waste.—A golden stream of grain running to waste through a leak in the granary, aggregating many bushels every year, would not equal the loss suffered in open sight on many farms by the waste of golden streams of liquid manure. Farmers are too often grossly neglectful of their interest in this matter. A first step toward improvement would be to arrest water from flowing in the yard, and leaching by putting eave troughs on all barns and sheds that have none, and provide for their emptying into drains or capacious cisterns. These latter might serve to supply water to the live stock. The yard ought to be shaped to slope toward its centre from all sides, and if the soil is gravelly or open it should be overlayed with stiff clay to prevent the escape of liquids. The stable doors should be drained towards the yard basin, in a way to lead all the urine to this place. Then the accumulations would be charged with moisture and if not pumped too hard, decomposition would take place to the best advantage.

Chickens in the Orchard.

We have reason to believe, as it is frequently asserted, that the keeping of fowls in an apple orchard has a good influence in securing a fair crop of fruit and as a consequence tends to give health and vigor to the trees. The insects of various kinds—indeed multitudinous in number—have more to do with weakening the trees and emasculating the fruit than many have the least idea of. Just think of the havoc the little red spider makes upon stalwart evergreens as well as the plants in the greenhouse, and some estimate may be formed of the effects of the many insects that infest the apple tree and its fruit. All these insects more or less inhabit the ground, and hence in all stages they are subjected to the searching eyes of the fowls and are thus destroyed before they are capable of attacking the trees. The droppings of the fowls, too, have a most enriching effect upon the land and can do no injury by its peculiar influence, from the fact that it is scattered so thinly over it.

OF GREAT VALUE TO VOCALISTS

UNIONVILLE, Westchester Co., N. Y., August 20, 1883.

I had carelessly exposed myself and sustained a very severe and tight cold on my chest and in my throat. I procured Allcock's Porous Plaster and applied one on the chest, well up on the throat, and relief came readily: the soreness of my chest was removed, and my vocal organs were kept clear the entire past winter, enabling me to fulfill public engagements in different parts of this country. No more may be said than that Allcock's Porous Plasters, if applied by afflicted vocalists, will greatly assist their vocal rendition in public. B. FRANKLIN CRUMCH.

Evidence of the Best Kinds.

Richard T. Robinson is a druggist living in Racine, Wis. Here is what he says: "After being afflicted with laryngitis I was unable to articulate a word distinctly for fully two months. A liberal application of Thomas' Eclectric Oil completely cured me. Am pleased to recommend it." For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen street.

Thousands upon Thousands of dollars have been spent in advertising the celebrated Burdock Blood Bitters, but this fact accounts only in part for their enormous sale. Their merit has made them what they are—the best blood medicine ever devised by man. For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen street.

No Deception Used.

It is strange so many people will continue to suffer day after day with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Sour Stomach, General Debility, when they can procure at our store SHILOH'S VITALIZER, free of cost if it does not cure or relieve them. Price, 75 cents. Sold by H. B. Cochran, 137 and 139 North Queen street, Lancaster. feb14-eod5

STOMACH BITTERS.

Regeneration for Enfeebled Systems.

Suffering from a general want of tone, and its usual concomitants, dyspepsia and nervousness, is seldom derivable from the use of a nourishing diet and stimuli of appetite, unaided. A medicine that will effect a removal of the specific obstacle to renewed health and vigor, that is a genuine corrective, is the real need. It is the possession of this grand requirement which makes Hostetter's Stomach Bitters so effective as an invigorant.

MACHINERY.

HAVING DISSOLVED PARTNERSHIP and permanently closed the Chestnut street Iron Works, I desire to inform my old patrons and the public generally, that I am still in the business, being located in the Penn Iron Company's Works, North Plum street, where I am making Iron and Brass Castings of every description, and will be pleased to serve all who may favor me with their patronage. From 40 years experience in the business and using the best material and employing the best mechanics, I am satisfied I can guarantee entire satisfaction. Castings made from a mixture of iron and steel which are more reliable for strength and durability than the best cast iron known. Y teeth roll pintons, rolls and rolling mill work a specialty. Castings made of very soft iron, and brass castings of every description. I have all the patters of the well and favorably known Mowrer Corn and Cob Crusher, refitted and improved. Also on hand, mills completely fitted up or in parts, to replace old ones which have been in use for years, guaranteeing them to give satisfaction.
