A THRILLING STORY.

WHAT TURNED HIS HAIR WHITE Saved by a Bicyclist-How a Young Telegraph Operator Prevented a Terrible Rattroad Disaster. A young telegraph operator, whose hair was snow white, told this story to the

"Four years ago I was telegraph opera tor at a small country station on a south-western railroad. I had little to do, the dispatches sent and received not averaging more than two a day, and those confined almost entirely to railroad mat-ters. To enable me to leave the office at will I had attached a large tin cup to the sounder of my instrument, so I could hear my call 'Q' from any part of the village. When the south bound train arrived at noon one Saturday I hurriedly communi cated with the conductor, and learning that he had nothing to send I prepared to quit my office for the afternoon, as no other train was due until 7 o'clock. Locking the door I went away, leaving the train standing at the depot, hot boxes detaining it longer than usual. Luckity I did not go be send on a part of the send of the did not go beyond ear shot of my instru ment, repairing to a field near by to witness a base ball game. I frequently left the office for hours, but always kept within hearing distance, the tin cup sounder enabling me to distinguish my call several bundred feet away Somehow had misgivings on this occasion. I had an indefinable dread of some impending trouble. I was so ill at ease that I took little interest in the game. I kept my ears open, expecting, for some reason I will not attempt to explain, to be called to the office. Before I had been absent ten minutes, and while the train still stood at the depot, I heard my familiar call repeated in what seemed to me unusually rapid succession. Instead of walking leisurely, as was my wont, I ran to the office as fast as I could, and heard as I entered : 'Hold No 4 at your station

until special going north passes.'
"Involuntarily I glanced out of the window, and saw the train I was ordered to hold disappearing round a curve a short distance away. I was not told at what time the special left the station south, which was only 10 miles away, and I saw in my mind's eye the two trains rapidly approaching each other, quickly followed by a crash, screams of pain and flying do bris. Suddenly I remembered, while tearing my hair and cursing my negligence that No. 4 had to stop at a woodya:d two miles down the road to take on fuel. That would take a matter of five minutes, and if means of conveyance were at hand I might overtake it and avert a disaster, My first thought was a hand car, my second a horse; but I did not know if the first was at the station or the second was to be had in the village Rushing out of the office I stumbled over my bicycle. Without a moment's thought I shoved it out of the door before me, and was on it in less than it takes to count ten. In my odd moments I have practiced and had become quite an expert bicyclist. The country road paralleled the railroad for several miles, and the former was down You grade the entire distance. 1 put my whole strength into the effort of propelling the machine, and had the satisfaction of atmy speed. I got within perhaps fifty yards of the now stationary train when the engine whistle blew, and the train started up. I redoabled my efforts, and came alongside the rear platform of the last cor just as the train was getting under full headway. With a falling side motion I threw my wheel against the side of the car just forward of the platform, and grasped the hand rail as it came in reach, the signal to back, and fainted. The conductor found me where I had fallen. Saspecting something wrong, he permitted

the Washington Herald:
"I remember very well in 1856 when Tom

"In 187- Flood, O'Brien, Mackay, and Fair organized the largest scheme of mining speculation ever known on the Pacific slope. The stock of the Bonanza mines was then very low-about 28, I believe. One afternoon Mackay, who was the general superintendent of these mines, (all a part to the great Comstock system) came in a hurry to San Francisco and went at once to Flood and O'Brien. He said they had just struck the most wonderful lot of 'bonameas,' or pockets, full of almost pure gold that he in all his experience had ever seen. He proposed to the two gentleman named and Fair that they should quietly get hold of all this stock that could be had before the news of this wonderful 'strike' was made public. This was on Thursday. By Saturday evening they had three fifths of all the stock. Only two outsiders-Sharon and Bili Ralston were allowed to come in, and the only reason the latter was told was they wanted the bank of California to carry them through. Keene, shrewd and sharp, felt that something was in the air, but for the life of him he could not find out what it was, One afternoon a little woman in rusty black came into his office, and, with a timid air, asked a clerk if she could see Mr. Keene. The young man addressed was very busy just then telling a story to another clerk of how he and several others had painted the town red the night before. He looked over her head and everywhere, and finally saw it was only a shabby looking woman. He supposed it was some of ——, whom you once knew, and I have been used to hearing of mining operations all my married life. I am sewing for my living now. Yesterday I was at the house of—naming one of the bonanza sets—and I heard a conversation which convinced me that a great operation is being engineered by Flood, O'Brien.

Mackay and Fair. They say they have made a wonderful discovery that will put up the Comstock certificates of stock 300 or 400 per cent.' She then opened a little box, and handing it to Keene, said: 'These diamond ear ornaments were my mother's present to me the day I was married. Throughout all my distress and poverty I have kept them. They are worth $800. Will you take them as security and buy for me on a margin all of this mining madame.' She went with him. He offered stock they are good for?' "Keene saw it all in a second. Here was the clew he had so vainly tried to find. You have rendered me a most important service, Mrs. —, 'said he. 'Keep your diamonds. I will buy you a line of shares in the mining stock you mention and carry it for you. Whenever you want your profits come to me,' and he bowed her out. There was no time to love but her out. There was no time to lose, but by working diligently he had stock enough to make a million dollars of profit if the stock went above 200. Four days after the wonderful news became public. At first the brokers thought it was a job, but the experts they sent down to examine said that nothing like such a deposit had ever been known in mining history.

"The stock started. From 25 it jumped to 60 in one day, then to 80, 100, 120, 160, 200, 285. The little woman watched the upward rise with feelings that can only be imagined. She scarcely slept; she could not work. At 285 she sent Mr. Keene a note to sell whatever he had bought for her. She had no idea how much it was, but thought it might perhaps be 200 shares, may be not more than 100. This would give her at least $25,000 after all commissions were paid. That afternoon she went down to his office. The smart young clerk remembered her, and was more civil this time. He said Mr. Keene was out just then, but was momentarily expected. Would she take a seat and wait for him? She sat down in a sort of daze, hardly knowing what she did How long she waited she has no idea to this day. Mr. Keene's voice awakened her faculties, and he was standing before her.
'I got your note, Mrs. ____,' he was saying, 'and sold your stock to day. Come into my office, Mr. Quill. See how much money Mrs. — has with us, continued the great mining millionaire. In a moment the clerk replied, Mrs. — has $570,000, less commissions, making her profits on 2 000 shares $562,870.' 'Will you have a check for it now?' said Keene. He heard a soft sigh. 'Get some water here quickly. She has fainted,' said he, lifting her up from the sofa on which she had been sit-

KAILKOAD EMPLOYFES. The leading business men of Providence R. I., compose the Hunt's Remedy Co, and they guarantee all testimontals published by them to be genuine. The following, dated May 4, 1883, from Mr. W.H. Blanchard, Lowell, Mass, is but one of the thousand remarkable at the same time letting go my hold on cures that are being made by this wonderful the bicycle. I caught the bell cord and medicine. Mr. Bianchard says: "I have been gave it one vigorous pull, and as the train | greatly troubled for over six years with acute came to a halt I gave the cord three jerks, kidney disease, with severe pain in my back and hips. I was formerly employed on the Boston and Lowell Rathroad, but was obliged owing to the constant far, to give up the railroad business, as many others have been obliged to do, on account of kidney disease. I have tried many medicines, but received no Allittle Story With a Large Moral-One Man permanent relief. A friend recommended me to use Hunt's Remedy. 1 purchased a bottle of one of our druggists in Lowell, and com-But the conductor said my hair was white menced to improve at once, and after using two bottles I was entirely free from all pain, and consider myself cured, and I cheerfully recommend this wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remady, to all the sufferers from kidney and Hver disease,"

AT LIBERTY. For a number of years I was afflicted with kidney and gravel disease, and suffered with pains in my limbs and back at times so severely that it seemed test I could not endure it. I used several so-called cures recommended for these diseases, but they did me no good. A friend of mine that had used Hunt's Re-medy, and pronounced it the best in use, urged me to try it, and I purchased a bottle at George E. Hall's drug store in Manchester, and before I had used one bottle I began to feel much better, the pains in the bladder and kidneys were reduced a good deal, and after using five bottles I found that Hunt's Remedy had done all it was recommended to do. It had removed all the pain, my appetite improved, and I gained several pounds in a few weeks. I have renewed vigor and strength for one of my years (54), and I can only thank the gave her enough work in the shape of proprietors of Hunt's Remedy for my good realth of to day, and you are at liberty to pub lish this, that it may be the means of some one being cured by the use of your truly wonderful remedy. Who Knew Bis Own Business. " No. my dear." said the venerable keeper country store to a timid little girl whose head scarcely came up to the level of the counter. " No, my dear, we haven't any red flannel, but we have some first rate New Orleans molasses." Sottly hinting that she didn't thing that would answer the purpose quite as well, the child went her way in search of the article she wanted. "Have you BENSON'S CAPCINE PLAS-TERS?" asked a gentleman of a certain druggist whose name could be given were it de stred. "I am troubled just now with a touch of my old friend, the lumbage, and the Benson's Plaster seems to go to the spot almost as soon as it touches the skin."

"Not at present," replied the druggist, genfully, " but we have lots of plasters just as good. There is Allcock's, the Capsteum and others-won't one of them do as well ?" " My dear str." retorted the gentleman, with a slight show of temper, "I say nothing against those articles, but I am a business man, and always ask for precisely what I want, and for nothing else. I may enlighten you, however, when I say that sometime ago, for another disease, of which the Capcine has since cured me, I tried all those you mention, with no appreciable benefit. They are ineffi-cient, every one of them, the meanest acc of the proprietors of some of them being this That they make plasters with similar sound tog names to deceive the unwary into believing they are the same thing.
