THE LELAND SCHOOL. The Development of Industrial Art in Our Common Schools. Mr. Talcott Williams, of the Press, one of the editorial writers of the present time who gives thoughtful attention to their subject, has done a good work in furnishing to the public some account of Charles Leland's (Leland Brothers') school of industrial art in Philadelphia, where children are taught to design and work out artistic forms of beauty made the bride of use in brass and wood and clay. Miss Alice Nevin and other persons with practical ideas of commerce in this city have long been interested in patronizing friends of Mr. Leland's methods and his work, and if Mr. Williams' just and interesting article will bring the Leland school into the public notice it deserves it may have the effect of spreading its example to the hundreds of other communities in which there is urgent demand that some sort of handwork study be incorporated into the popular education system.

There has recently been opened in Reading an institution, the like of which has been in the minds of our public spirited citizens for some time. It is a day nursery, where the children of women whose employment calls them from home will be cared for. Children will be received from 6.30 o'clock in the morning, and none admitted over 5 years of age. They must be called for before 7 p. m. A payment of five cents a day is required for each child. Three meals a day will be given. Those who are old enough will be sent to school. The concern is to be kept up partly by dues and partly by the contributions of the charity well disposed. It will unquestionably do good if not abused. Plenty of needy women would be relieved and be given opportunities to earn a livelihood if their children could be thus cared for. On the other hand, neglectful and dissolute mothers might impose on such an institution, and use it to get rid of the care of their children. Their offspring probably would be better off if free from such a home, and let them be sent to a day nursery for Lancaster be discussed and if it is a good thing this town can bear Reading it.

District Attorney Eberly has received from Hon. W. S. Stouffer, secretary of the commonwealth, a number of printed copies of petitions for the requisition of fugitives from justice. The petitions are printed in the form that will hereafter be required when application is made to the court for the requisition of a fugitive, as noticed elsewhere. Heretofore, only lawyers and court officials were compelled to send to Harrisburg for the blank petitions, then fill them up and return them to Harrisburg before a requisition could be obtained. By the new arrangement, the petitions being on hand, can be filled up in a few minutes and a requisition obtained in a few hours, where formerly a day or two was required. Full rules relative to the granting of requisitions are printed on the back of the petitions.

The State Medical Society. The medical society of the state of Pennsylvania begins its thirty-fifth annual session to-day in the annex of the Union League, Philadelphia. Governor Pattison is the guest of honor, and will deliver an address during the three days which the session will last. Papers from the most eminent professors of the healing art will be read. At the same time a most interesting exhibit of pharmaceutical preparations, surgical instruments and medical preparations will be made in Horticultural hall. The regular delegates from the Lancaster county society will be in attendance, but many other physicians from this county and city will visit the meeting during the continuance of its sessions.

SECOND EDITION. WALL STREET FLURRY. BANK AND BUSINESS FIRMS SUSPENDED. The Metropolitan Bank closes its doors. Secretary Folger's Views—An exciting time in New York City. New York, May 14.—The scene at the stock exchange this morning was one of intense excitement. There was a wild rush to sell stocks, and a drop in prices of from 1 to 1/2 per cent occurred. Before 10:15 the firms of Nelson, Robinson & Co., and Goff & Randall announced their suspension at the stock exchange. Later on O. M. Bogart & Co. suspended, and a short time after the streets were astonished to hear of the suspension of Smith & Poon. This latter failure was practically a foregone conclusion, the bank refusing to certify the firm's checks. At 11:40 a. m., the excitement was intensified by the report, which was not at first believed, but which was soon confirmed, that the Metropolitan bank had suspended. The doors were immediately shut tight, and immense crowds thronged the neighborhood. A Slightly Better Feeling. Noon—On Wall Street at this hour there is a slightly better feeling, but everything is uncertain. Holders are making frantic endeavors to obtain cash for their stocks. Secretary Folger is at the sub-treasury and says he will use all the power of the government to prevent a panic. They were large dealers in county water and city bonds. They are said to have $2,000,000 with the suspended Metropolitan bank. The firm, in their notice of the failure, say "that owing to the general panic prevailing we deem it best to suspend until we can see where we stand." Drafts drawn by the First National bank of Philadelphia on Dunell, Lawson and Simpson will be paid on presentation at the First National bank, this city. At 2 p. m., there is a much quieter feeling on exchange and a general recovery from lowest prices. Bank Resolutions to Suspend. 3:30 P. M.—At the clearing house the bank presidents are in session. It is stated, on the best of authority, that the banks will stand by each other as they did in '73. The resumption of the Metropolitan is likely, as the stock exchange delivery the hour is awaited with great anxiety. The End Not Necessarily Near. 3:50 p. m.—Hatekiss & Burhan have just announced their suspension. As the close of the market approaches, matters are standing, but the end is not thought to have been reached yet. Money, which ruled all day yesterday at 3 and 4 per cent, is now 6 per cent, and the tendency is toward a further hardening. The scene on the streets is one of intense activity. A Suspension in Philadelphia. PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—The failure of Charles M. Bayard, stock broker of Walnut street, is announced. The liabilities are not considered heavy. A Call for Bonds. NEW YORK, May 14.—Secretary of the Treasury Folger is in town and has telegraphed to Washington ordering the immediate payment of the 1st call for bonds. If necessary he will order another call for $10,000,000. A TERRIBLE MURDER. A Negro Beats and Ours the Throat of a well known Politician. NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—Frank H. Page, formerly a well known Republican leader, was murdered 5 p. m. at the Grand Parlor on Wednesday last by William Saunders, (colored). The victim had testified in court against Saunders, and on the way home was waylaid by him. The negro knocked Page down with a brick and beat his head into a pulp, and then taking Page's gun, cut his throat from ear to ear. Saunders was promptly arrested and the court being still in session, he was tried, convicted and sentenced to death. A Family Murdered. VIENNA, May 14.—A family of six persons were murdered yesterday at Buzacs, a town of Galicia. One child hid and so escaped. The motive prompting the murder was robbery. The miscreants fled. A New Railroad. HARRISBURG, Pa., May 14.—A charter was issued today to the Philadelphia and Northern railroad to construct a line between Shuamakerstown, Montgomery county and Philadelphia, a distance of twenty miles; capital $300,000. Fatal Result of Intoxication. CHICAGO, May 14.—Late last night, in a room on the West Side, Alerman Gay, was fatally shot by James Davis, a ward politician. It is said the cause was Gaynor's refusal to drink with Davis. A $100,000 Fire. TROY, N. Y., May 14.—The passenger depot of the Delaware and Hudson canal company and John C. Reeves' hotel were burned by an incendiary fire last night. Loss, $100,000. National Legislation. WASHINGTON, May 14.—The House dispensed with the morning hour and went into committee of the whole on the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill. New Jersey Democrats. TRENTON N. J., May 14.—The Democratic state convention was called to order by Senator McPherson on May 9 o'clock. WEATHER INDICATIONS. WASHINGTON, May 14.—For the Middle Atlantic states, clearing weather, north westerly winds, higher barometer and slight fall in temperature. PHILADELPHIA MARKET.
