THE STAGE DRIVER'S STORY.

How General Ecott's Life Was Saved and How His Driver Twice Escaped Death.

The traveler of the present day, as he is hurg ried along by the lightning express, in its buffet cars and palace sleepers, seldom reverts Is thought to the time when the stage coach and packet were the only means of communiand packet were the only means of communication between distant points. It is rare that one of the real old-time stage drivers is met with now-a-days, and when the writer recently ran across Fayette Haskell, of Lockport, N. Y., he felt like a bibliographer over the discovery of some rare volume of "forgotten lore," Mr. Haskell, although one of the plone-rs of stage drivers (he formerly ran from Lewistown to Niagara Fails and Boffalo), is hale and hearty, and bids fair to live for many years. The strange stories of his early adventures would fill a volume. At one time when voing down a mountain near Lewistown many years. The strange stories of his early adventures would fill a volume. At one time when voing down a mountain near Lewistown with no less a personage than General Scott as a passenger, the brakes gave way and the coach came on the heels of the wheel horses. The only remedy was to whip the leaders to a gallop, Gaining additional momentum with each revolution of the wheels, the coach swaved and pitched down the mountain side and into the streets of Lewistown Straight abend at the foot of the steep hill flowed the Niagara river, towards which the four horses dashed, apparently to certain death. Yet the firm hand never relaxed lis hold nor the clear brain its conception of what must be done in the emergence. On dashed the horses until the narrow dock was reached on the river bank, when by a masted by exhibitios of nerve and daring, the coach was turned in scarce its own length, and the horses brought to a stand still before the pale lookers on could realize what had occurred. A purse was raised by General Scott and presented to Mr. Haskell with high compilments for his skill and bravery.

Notwithstanding all his strength and his

Notwithstanding all his strength and his robust constitution the strain of continuous work and exposure proved too much for Mr. Haskeil's constitution. The constant joiling of the coach and the necessarily cramped position in which he was obliged to sit, contributed to this end, and he was oblige: to abandon delying alternation.

sition in which he was obliged to sit, contributed to this end, and he was oblige i to abandon driving altogether.

Speaking of this period he said:

"I found it almost impossible to sleep at night; my appetite left me entirely and I had a tired feeling which I never knew before and could not account for."

"Did you give up driving entirely?"

"No. I tried to keep up but it was only with the greatest effort. This state of things continued for nearly twenty years until last October, when I went all to pieces."

"In what way?"

"Oh, I doubled all up; could not walk without a cane and was incapable of any effort or evertion. I had a constant desire to urinate both day and night, an" although I felt like passing a gallon every ten minutes only a few drops could escape, and they thick with sediment. Finally it ceased to flow entirely, and I thought death was very near."

"What I should have done long before;
listen to my wife. Under her advice I began a new treatment."

"And with what result:"

ilsten to my wife. Under heradvice I began a new treatment."

"And with what result!"

"Wonderful. It unstopped the closed passages, and what was still more wonderful, regunated the flow. The sediment vanished: my appetite returned and I am now well and good for twenty more years wholly through the aid of Warner's Safe Cure that has done wonders for meas well as for many others."

Mr. Haskell's experience is repeated every day in the lives of thousands of American measand women. An unknown evil is undermining the existence of an innumerable number who do not realize the danger they are in until health has entirely departed and death perhaps stares them in the face. To neglect such important matters is like drifting in the current of Niagara above the Falls.

RANDALL'S STRENGTH.

THE LEADER OF THE ECONOMISTS

the Country Demands a Candidate Who Represents the Policy of Integrity and Good Sense.

Following is an extract from a private letter received from a gentleman new sojourning in Massachusetts, with ample opportunities to gauge the spirit and strength of the Independent Republican movement in that state and elsewhere. The writer is himself a Republican, and combines with long experience in public affairs, a wide acquaintance among men

He says : "Is there any such good luck to the Democracy as the nomination of Randall? he is nominated he will be elected. The Independent movement is underrated as the matter now stands, and may be over-estimated if the Democrats do not nominate a man free from taint. If the Democrats succeed it will be by recruits obtained by good nominations. Independent Republicans should not interfere in the matter beyond asking for the nomination of good men. The Democrats should select the men and not the Republicans. If good men are nominated their election is se

" I observe that the Independent Repub icans of Pennsylvania, who bolted the boss rule of Cameron, are now busy for Blaine. Queer things are seen when the political scenes are shifted. The strange bed-felows in politics are brought to view. New recruits are always harping on a presi dential policy. Blaine's seem just now to be a commercial policy. Commercial policies are talked about by young lawyers as a workingman's party, is run by bloated bondholders and idlers. The policy of integrity and good sense is what is most needed now-and Randall has that." In Philadelphia.

Walking down Chestnut street, Phila-delphia, the other day the writer encountered a very conspicuous business man of that city. He has long been recognized as a leading Republican, of enough weight to be offered and to decline cabinet place. He shook his head at the mention of Blaine's name and said : "He will grow weaker as the canvass progresses. With such a can didate as Randall, on a sensible platform, Pennsylvania will be very hopeful battle ground for the Democrats. A few hours later a leading business man rom another state was encountered. He is the generous and popular employer of several thousand men, a radical Republican, having been offered and declined his party's nomination for governor in his state. He spoke with like disfavor of Blaine, and predicted that the Democrats could elect Bayard, Randall or Cleveland,

A GREAT DAY FOR RANDAUL.

Compliments Showered Upon Him From all Sides. Last Tuesday was a great day for Randall in the House, and one of which he may well feel proud. Compliments and tributes to his worth were showered upon him on all sides, and Republicans and Democrats yied with each other to do him honor. Calkins, Republican. styled him the "Gladstone of the House," Reed, Republican, called him "the real leader of the House," and Ellis, Democrat, although differing with him on an important meas superior intelligence and sterling honesty. While thus commended by leading members of both parties he carried all before him as by storm. On the naval appropria-tion bill he had his own way by an almost strict party vote, and it was determined as an ultimatum that Secretary Chandler should not have the appropriation, ostensi bly for the rebuilding of the navy, but really for the corruption of voters at the coming election. * * This House has been more remarkable for what it has refused to do than for what it has done. Meritorious bills may have been delayed so long that they now have no chance for pas sage, but this has been more than offset by the promptness with which the jobs have been killed. The whisky bill, the Hennepin canal appropriation and the campaign corruption fund that Chandier hoped to get out of an appropriation of between four and five millions of dol lars for the building of new crusers and the completion of the unfinished monitors, were all buried in a common grave. Under the leadership of Mr. Randall the appropriations committee have done all in their power to compel the honest and economi nal administration of the government. The lobby which Randall drove from the corridors of the capitol while speaker, and which swarmed back under Keifer, has found no remunerative occupation in the present House. In making up the record it will appear that whatever offenses of omission may be charged to this Demo cratic House it will be difficult to point out many mistakes of commission.

The contrast between this House and the last is so strikingly to the advantage of the former that it cannot fail to make a deep impression on the country and prove of great benefit to the Democratic party at the coming election. MR. RANDALL'S STRENGTH.

His Candidacy Seriously Talked of by Those Who were Bitterly Hostile not Long Ago. Washington Dispatch to the Times. The Randall boom for the presidential caudidacy has gained material strength recently from the successful management of the appropriation bills by the great Pennsylvanian. Tuesday was cellipsed next day by his carrying the minority bill on fortifications over the heads of his committee through the House. The re porting of a minority appropriation bill was a novelty in national legislation in itself, but Randall was equal to the emergency, and it was his only recourse at this late hour of the session. The majority bill could never have been amended, section by section, without a week's struggle. Yesterday's result demonstrated Randall's shrewdness as well as his strengh. Politicians here are inclined to give Randall more consideration as a candidate than heretofore. This apparently comes from the belief that Randall represents the wishes of Tilden more nearly than any other candidate The opinion is frequently expressed that if Raudall could come into the convention squarely backed by Tilden the Pennsylvanian could not be beaten. Even that class of Democrats who a short time ago were bent on reading Mr. Randall out of the party are now talking of his chances seriously and are apparently ready to give in their allegiance to the protection Demo-erat. Randall has demonstrated to their satisfaction that he is still a Democrat and a leader of Democrats, and so far his late detractors. Mr. Tilden Misrepresented, N. Y. Sun.

The Boston Herald aileges that Mr.

from being sat upon is likely to sit upon encourage the ambition of Mr. Cleveland. He has not said that he thinks Mr. Cleveland would carry the state of New York, or that he would be elected. He has never expressed anything like approbation for Mr. Cleveland's political methods. The story that he favors Mr. Cleveland's nomination at Chicago is a fabrication out of the whole cloth. In his retirement Mr. Tilden abstains from all attempts to direct or influence the conduct of his party, but we do not doubt that the man whose nomination would be most gratifying to his judgment would be Samuel J. Randall, of Pennsyl-

THE ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS.

A Strong Delegation, All for Titden The Democratic state convention of Illinois met on Wednesday in Peoria. In calling the convention to order Chairman Oberly, of the state central committee, made a brief speech, in which he asked: "Shall we, in spite of the declination of Mr. Tilden, nominate him for president of the United States?" At this "the convention rose and cheered vociferously." A recess was taken until four o'clock in the afternoon, and the committee on credentials not being ready to report, General John M. Palmer was called upon for a speech. He spoke at length in favor of "a tariff for revenue only, and limited to the necessities of an economical government." He wound up with the conundrum—"suppose Mr. Tilden could not or would not run ;" and was answered with cries of "Cleveland," "McDonald," "Morrison, ' and "Palmer." The convention organized with Judge Monro Crawford as permanent chairman. W. R. Morrison, John M. Palmer, J. C. Black and Lambert Free, were chosen delegates at large to Chicago. A canvass of all the delegates to Chicago, it is said, "shows a nearly unanimous sentiment for Tilden, if it can be shown he would accept. After him a majority favor Cleveland, and under the unitrule he would probably get the vote of Illinois. Some of the delegates favor McDonald and some Bayard."

A series of tariff resolutions were reported, the substance of which was contained in the following: "We demand that all custom house taxation shall be only for revenue, and, thus demanding, the delegates from this state to the Democratic national convention to be held at Chicago the coming week are hereby instructed to vote as a unit and use their utmost endeavors in favor of an emphatic declaration by that body in favor of a tariff for revenue only."

Mayor Harrison was loudly cheered when he rose to speak to the resolutions. He said he would ask that the tariff ques tion be referred to the national convention which would meet in five days and which he had no doubt would act wisely. He moved to strike out that part of the platform referring to the tariff. William R. Morrison opposed the latter motion. scene during the speech making was very dramatic, the speakers laboring under much suppressed excitement, and members of the convention occasionally inter jecting expressions of opinion. Ex-Governor Palmer said that if Mayor Harrison was not willing to make a run on this platform he should refuse the gubernatorial nomination, if tendered by the convention.

Mayor Harrison interrupted the speaker to say that he was misrepresenting his position. His motion was not to strike out the tariff plank, but merely to instruct the Illinois delegation to work in unison it the national convention. Intense excitement and great confusion followed. The vote on Mayor Harrison's motion to strike out the instructions was 653 for to 623 against. The platform as amended was then adopted by a viva voce vote. General J. C. Black presented the name of Mayor Carter Harrison, of Chicago, for nomination for governor, and the nomi-
