SECOND EDITION.

SATURDAY EVENING, JULY 12, 1884. AFTER THE BATTLE.

General Confidence Expressed in the Outcome of the Convention's Work—Favorable for the Democratic Arrangements.

CHICAGO, July 12.—There were very few remaining evidences this morning of the Democratic convention. The delegates very generally have taken their departure.

The club and headquarters banners have been removed and hotel corridors have resumed their wonted appearance.

On the streets are still to be seen more than the usual number of white hats, a number of which are surmounted with a small feather.

The members of the national committee and other leaders of the party who are still in the city express confidence as to the strength of the ticket.

The delegates generally express great satisfaction at the treatment received at the hands of the local committee in providing for their comfort.

Now that the great convention has come and gone, it is due its officers and the committee of arrangement that the press should acknowledge its obligations.

The remodeling of the hall made it an admirable audience room and the facilities granted for printing and telegraphing the extensive reports were ample.

Special thanks are due to Judge William C. Goudy in the preliminary arrangements of the details, and to Hon. Arthur H. Brown and Col. Richard J. Bright, the efficient sergeants-at-arm, for the intelligent aid rendered, and their just appreciation of the requirements of the press.

WASTEBLY DEEP. Mortality in Philadelphia and Then Committee on the National Convention.

COSMOPOLITAN, July 12.—John May, a German shoemaker, aged 49, arose at two o'clock this morning and went to the bed room of his sixteen-year-old daughter.

While making improper proposals to her, upon being refused, he went to the shop, where he obtained two edged knives and returned to the girl's room and hacked her frightfully.

He then stabbed himself fifteen times in the region of the heart and died soon afterwards. The girl has seventeen half-witted brothers and is considered beyond recovery.

He has always been a sober and industrious man, and it is supposed he became suddenly insane.

A Dental Concerning Haine Medals. PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—With regard to the statement made recently that Haine medals were being made at the United States mint in this city, Col. Swunden, the superintendent, says it is not true.

It would be manifestly improper for the officers of the mint to engage in preparing or issuing political badges or medals for the Republican party, and that under his management the mint could not be used for any such purposes.

Mortality Due to Cholera. New York, July 12.—The report of mortality in British India show that in Calcutta, in the month of April, there were 847 deaths from true cholera.

In Bombay there were only 11 deaths from cholera up to June 30. News from the island of Malta shows that while the disease had crossed the Mediterranean, it had not attained a foothold there.

TWO BUSINESS FAILURES. ST. PAUL, Minn., July 12.—James M. Smith & Co., wholesale dealers in canned goods, failed yesterday. Their indebtedness will amount to $10,000.

New York, July 12.—Halstead, Thines & Co., have made an assignment to James May, of the firm of May & King, in dry goods circles. Their liabilities are placed at $2,000,000.

Orangemen Celebration in New York. New York, July 12.—The Orangemen of this city celebrated to-day by an excursion to Excelsior Park, where they engaged in games of different kinds. They were accompanied by their wives and children.

WEATHER INDICATIONS. WASHINGTON, July 12.—For the Middle Atlantic states, showers and partly cloudy weather, variable winds, slightly warmer in the southern portion, stationary temperature in the northern portion.

Facilities Furniture. Boston Commercial Bulletin. "I must have some rest this summer," said the clock.

"I think I need a country seat," said the Easy Chair, leaning on his elbow.

"I am getting played out," said the Piano; "a little fresh air would be a good thing for me."

"That's what I want," said the Sofa; "a little fresh air at the springs."

"I should like to go to the Sofa and lounge in the woods," said the Foot-stool.

"If my legs were stronger," said the Table, "I should go to the country for some boards."

"Country board is always so plain," growled the Sideboard; "nobody is 'knobby or polished there.'"

"Let me reflect," said the Mirror; "they have very plain-looking ladies there too, do you not?"

"You make me blush," said the Divan—and here the household closed the folding doors and shut them all up.

Poe's Fortham cottage sold. P. J. Keary, a New York toy dealer, has purchased for $5,250 the house at Fortham, where Edgar Allan Poe lived for several years.

Mr. Keary is a warm admirer of Poe's writings. The purchase included the house where the poet lived and one and a half acres of land. Mr. Keary will replace the present cottage with new building for his residence. The property is situated on Kingsbridge road, not far from the Fordham Station of the Harlem railroad. The cottage is a quaint frame building, one and a-half stories high. A verandah runs on each side of it, overgrown with vines and flowers and surrounded with old fruit trees. The house is white, with the sides and roof shingled. While presenting a picturesque appearance in its former dilapidated state, and the value of the property is estimated at $10,000. The building site, outside of the cottage, is a building site, outside of the cottage, is a building site, outside of the cottage.
