-The Fallen School House. Mr. John Wilton and wife, residing a few miles back of Wrightsville, yesterday were waiting in a buggy for a freight train to pass the Locust street crossing, and after it had done so, they started to cross the track, when an engine, without warning, rapidly came around the fence at Snyder's property. Two feet closer would have been the cause of a terrible accident. The lady fainted from fright. About thirty four employes of the P. R. R. round house "stopped off " to attend

Miss Owens is about 28 years of age and very prepossessing, while Plator, about the same age, is a rough, burly farm hand of Henry Richardson, brother-in-law of Miss Owens, with whom the latter was living. She and Plater packed their clothing in two valises and walked to Bowie station, on the Baltimore & Potomac railroad, where they purchased tickets for Washington. A telegram from Washington stated that the parties had been arrested at Beening's station, near Washington. Miss Owens stated that she had left home for the purpose of marrying Plater, and if she was prevented she would drown herself; that Plater had been courting her since January. It was arranged to have the marriage performed arranged to have the marriage performed at Plater's sister's house in Washington. Both were locked up at police headquar-
