

COLUMBIA NEWS.

OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENTS. Railroad Tramps, Bums and Thieves. The greatest picnic ever held in Lancaster...

Two tramps, who attempted to slip into the oil house, in the west yard last night for lodging, and who were seen and chased away, thinking they were being pursued by an officer, ran through the west yard and fell into the "cow hole," at the end of the yard, near the St. Charles furnace. They were named Jackson and Slater. The former had an ugly gash cut above his right eye, and the latter either sprained or broke his right arm. Both were badly bruised and scratched...

The Union picnic of St. John's Lutheran and Trinity Reformed Sunday schools, to Litzitz, yesterday, was the largest that ever went from Columbia, about 1,490 of our citizens attending; Marietta, Lancaster and Reading were also present. A large delegation of it is believed fully 2,500 persons were on the grounds yesterday. Everything passed off pleasantly, and the picnic was a decided success in every particular. The program was not fully carried out, the crowd being so high. The music of the Citizens' band was highly appreciated by all who heard their selections rendered. A game of base ball was played in the afternoon between the Litzitz club and a picked nine. The Litzitz boys won in six innings by 13 to 7.

Two Elmira gentlemen yesterday visited Columbia and made arrangements to build a large and fine skating rink. A lot of ground was rented from Mr. H. B. Esick, on North Third street, and there will be erected a 24,000 rink, 175 feet square, with a seating capacity of 1,000. Besides roller skating, bicycle riding, and all other kinds of amusements will be permitted. This is something Columbia has long wanted, and now that the chance is offered, let them help sustain the efforts of the Elmira gentlemen by assisting in all their projects.

Mr. Charles Beeten, of Carlisle, who has been visiting his brother, J. R. Beeten, for the past two weeks, returned home yesterday, his brother accompanying him.

Mr. Peter Bittner has visited his home in the Misses Kihlstein, of Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. A. McElroy, of Philadelphia, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Filbert.

Market prices rose as how our little girls amuse themselves this hot weather. Some of them make the flowers very pretty.

The 15th annual picnic of the Shawnee Iron company will be held in Hesse's woods on Aug. 10.

All Columbians who are bicyclists and have machines are requested to meet at Mr. John Mieser's this evening, as a parade through town will occur.

Several gentlemen who were rendered some fine vocal selections, as they were serenading their lady friends.

Several Columbia families are picnicking today at the Point.

Market this morning was an exceedingly poor and dull one. There was in great quantity and sold reasonably.

The peaches, watermelons and cantaloupes now offered for sale in Columbia are of a very poor quality.

On account of the late arrival of the music, the band will appear at an concert on Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

Samuel Beeten's cat was stolen last night, while coming home from Litzitz. He had it lying on a basket.

Fendrich's gutter at Front and Locust streets is now standing forth a most disagreeable odor.

The Marietta Grand Army post intended changing of a new sign. It was sent to Columbia for inspection yesterday. It is peculiarly built, the boards used only being an inch wide, and joined together by bolts instead of wooden chairs.

Mr. Harry Albin's youngest child, a bright boy, died of cholera infantum yesterday afternoon. At 3:30 p. m. to-morrow it will be buried in Marietta.

At the meeting of the Columbia school board on Tuesday evening, Mr. Dempsey's plan for an iron tower for the Popular school building was adopted. Bids for the contract will now be received.

Store Broken Into and Money Stolen. Last night at a late hour, or very early this morning, the cigar store and main factory of John F. Litzitz, East Chestnut street, near North Queen, was broken into and robbed of about $85 in bank notes and specie, taken from the till. It would seem that the thief was well acquainted with the premises. To effect an entrance he entered the private alley running in the rear of the stores on East Chestnut street, between North Queen and East Chestnut, and climbed several gates, until he came to the rear of Litzitz's restaurant and bowling alley, which he entered through a back window. He took nothing from the restaurant except an oyster knife, and with this he broke a pane of glass in the corner of a pane of glass in Mr. Litzitz's back window, and was thus enabled to push away a bar of wood with which the window sash was fastened. He then raised the sash, entered the room, and seems to have gone at once to the money drawer, which was fastened with a spring combination lock. He seems to have known the combination or to have found it out by experimenting with the lock, for he opened the drawer without breaking it, and, after rifling it, he took the money. There were in the drawer at the time three $10 greenbacks, and one $5 dollar note; a number of silver dollars, halves and quarters, and several dollars worth of ten and three cent pieces, done up in $1 packages, the whole amounting to between $80 and $95. The only funds left in the drawer by the thief were a few pennies. After securing his plunder, the thief left the premises by the same way he entered.

Death of the Little Girl who was struck. Lottie Boyce, the young girl who was struck by an engine on the Huntingdon & Broad Top railway bridge at 8:30 a. m. in the evening. She was a general favorite in the community and her death has intensified the feeling against William Grau, the engineer. The latter has returned to his home, in Huntingdon. Before doing so he surrendered himself to the authorities of Bedford county and entered bail for his appearance at the next court in that county, to answer any charge that may be made against him. His statement is that before reaching the bridge he looked ahead and saw nothing on the track; that his train, which was in the lead, was blowing the cylinders and was unable to close the air cups; that Grau went to close them and that his attention was thus occupied for several minutes; that when he looked out again his engine was within a few feet of the bridge, and that he was unable to reverse the engine, but that it was too late.

PLEASURE PARTIES.

An arrangement along the river. Jimmie Todd, Charlie Myers, Joe Umble, Harry Zook, and Jim Alexander—all brave boys and true—left Lancaster this morning with the purpose of pitching their tents, and remaining for two weeks, in the vicinity of York Furnace, on the Columbia & Port Deposit railroad. They are so well equipped with fishing and hunting gear that they have felt warranted to invite numerous friends to drop down upon them and partake of the game they expect to secure.

With Cat Parties. E. J. Zahm and his twenty-one jewellers left Lancaster this morning for York Furnace on their annual picnic. They were supplied with an abundance of fishing tackle, balls, bats, quills and other sports, appliances, and expect to have a day of rare sport and to feast on black bass taken and cooked by their own fair hands. They will return late this evening.

A party of nearly fifty ladies and gentlemen from the Gap and vicinity came up Lancaster this morning on the new express train, and then took the passenger train for Wild Cat Falls, where they are spending the day.

There is another large party journeying at Wild Cat, who report good fishing for bass, eels and catfish and every attention for game host Carroll. Among this party are Horace G. Housell and wife, Ella V. Housell, Harvey A. Housell, Mrs. F. S. Albright and Miss Clara L. Smith, of Lancaster; F. Hanlen and wife, Walter Hanlen, Misses Anna Ford and Eliza Holt, Fred D. Harrisburg, Misses Minnie and Gladys Greiner, Mrs. Harriet Greiner, of Mount Joy; A. Lincoln Mishler, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. J. M. Hanlen, Misses Emily Hanlen, Belle Roth and Alice Groff, of Marietta.

The congregational picnic given at What Glen yesterday by St. Mary's church was largely attended, there being fully 1,200 men, women and children on the ground, about 900 of whom were carried by the Lancaster street railway to McElroy's party, and then on to the picnic ground. Taylor's orchestra furnished music for the dancers, and those who did not dance had full opportunity to enjoy themselves swinging, target shooting, boating, quiet pitching and at other games.

On Thursday, July 21, a select party from East Nottingham, Chester county, under the management of Mr. Lynch, will make a grand excursion by rail to Port Deposit, thence by boat down Chesapeake bay, and up Delaware bay and river to the city of Philadelphia. Taylor's orchestra, of this city, has been engaged to furnish the music.

David Layman, a faithful freight engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad, has been promoted to the charge of the engine of the way passenger train.

Some Publications of Campaign Value. A young lady is now canvassing Lancaster for the lives of the Democratic candidates, and is distributing a number of political information, published by Hubbard Bros., of Philadelphia. This is the work to which Hon. Wm. Dorshamer contributes the sketch of Cleveland, and W. C. Hensel, the life of Hendricks. The publishers claim that it is decidedly the best in the field.

Of the publications put out represented to be lives of the Republican candidates, the work edited by William Keaton Balch is the best that has come to our notice. Under the title "An American Career and its Triumphs," Mr. Balch, who is an experienced journalist and author, has traced the eventful lives of Blaine and Logan and the story of their nomination, keeping within the limits of campaign biography. Mr. Balch has, nevertheless, produced a work of historical merit, showing no lack of original research and independent opinion. Published by Thayer, Merkle & Co., Philadelphia.

Merton L. Montgomery, esq., of the Erie county bar, has just issued a valuable and carefully prepared political pamphlet, entitled "The Erie county book," which, besides being a complete political history and statistics of the city of Reading, adds a vast quantity of information of information that every body is in search of at all times and never known where to find. Mr. Montgomery's book is the cade necessa that has it all well arranged.

Excursion to Atlantic City. On Saturday, August 2, an excursion will start from Quarryville for Philadelphia and Atlantic City, stopping at all stations between Quarryville and Philadelphia, and at Philadelphia and Atlantic City. The special will leave Quarryville at 10 a. m. and return to Quarryville at 10 p. m. Tickets, good for three days, to return on any train from Philadelphia, cost $1.00 from Quarryville, and $1.25 from Gettysburg and Harrisburg. Special train returning leaves Atlantic City about 5:30 p. m., reaching Quarryville at 10 p. m. Tickets, good for three days, to return on any train from Philadelphia, cost $1.00 from Quarryville, and $1.25 from Gettysburg and Harrisburg. Further particulars will be given in circulars and posters.

Improvement. In the circle in front of the pulpit a great improvement has been made in the way of seats. The benches which were formerly in the Columbia church have been placed in the woods, so that more of the congregation have a rest for their backs while listening to the sermons.

THE MORAVIAN CHURCH. Rev. Mark Will take on vacation.

At a meeting of the Sunday school teachers and officers it was decided to hold a Sunday school picnic at Rocky Springs on Thursday, July 31.

During August a number of repairs and improvements are to be made in our church property. The primary department will be enlarged and a new organ to be thoroughly renovated, repainted, and new matting laid on the floors and otherwise made more comfortable and homelike for the little ones. It needed it very much. The funds are in hand, contributed by friends of the school. A new library for this department has also been presented by a good brother. In the parsonage a heater is to be put up, and other repairs and improvements made. The Mito society has made it its special work to keep the parsonage in thorough order and repair.

Physicians Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Physician Present to Epilepsy. "I prescribe it in my practice," is the expression used by the great majority of physicians. He referred to Nervina Nervina, and further along says: "It cures epileptic fits."

Washington Bowman and John Duffy

Washington Bowman and John Duffy answered a complaint of assault and battery, made against Duffy and surety of the peace against Bowman by Christ. Espen-shade, who swore that the defendants were gnawing on his premises, and on being ordered off Duffy assaulted him and Bowman made threats of violence. Duffy was on the other hand, that he did not strike Espenshade until the latter struck him several times with a club. The defendants gave bail to answer at court.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

The Prisoner's Pun. This morning a horse belonging to James Steekman went out on a pleasure trip. He got out of the stable at the Western hotel, on West Orange street, and ran across to Nolly's blacksmith shop into the yard, where he walked among the flower beds. After getting out of that he traveled around on the pavements on different streets. In front of the residence of Richard J. McGrann, on Prince street, he fell on the pavement. He was finally captured before doing any serious trouble.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Carpet and Wall Paper Department. Our sale of WALL PAPERS still continues, and anyone in need of WALL PAPERS can purchase them lower now than later.

WALL PAPERS. Elegant Patterns and Perfect Goods, Guaranteed Full Measure. PRIORS FROM 12-1/2 CENTS UP.

No Extra Charge for Hanging, Scraping or Sizing. No such other has ever been made before, and only stands good till AUGUST 1. Make your contracts now. Paper purchased now will be hung any time during AUGUST, if customers prefer.

Immense Stock of New Carpets for Fall. J. B. MARTIN & CO. Corner West King and Prince Streets. Lancaster, Pa.

ECONOMY WROUGHT IRON FURNACES & STEAM HEATER COMBINED. BEFORE ORDERING A HEATER FOR YOUR HOUSE EXAMINE THE CELEBRATED PATENT DUPLEX WROUGHT IRON FURNACES.

FLINN & BRENNAN. 152 NORTH QUEEN STREET. LANCASTER, PENN'A.

SPECIAL NOTICES. Thirteen Years' Dyspepsia. "I suffered with dyspepsia for 13 years," writes John Albright, esq., of Columbus, Ohio, "Saw that Nervina cured me." As it always cures such disorders, At-druggists, 1512-1516d-wk

Don't Be Faint-hearted. If you are in trouble look up, hold on, give the blues good-bye. If you are in pain, have a lameness, have any ailment of any kind, go to the drugist and get a box of "Nervina" Relief. It will do you good every time. For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen street.

Wanted - A Girl for General Housework in a SMALL FAMILY. Inquire at No. 8 West Orange street. 1512-1516d-wk

Wanted - A Girl for General Housework in a SMALL FAMILY. Inquire at No. 8 West Orange street. 1512-1516d-wk

Wanted - A Girl for General Housework in a SMALL FAMILY. Inquire at No. 8 West Orange street. 1512-1516d-wk

Wanted - A Girl for General Housework in a SMALL FAMILY. Inquire at No. 8 West Orange street. 1512-1516d-wk

Wanted - A Girl for General Housework in a SMALL FAMILY. Inquire at No. 8 West Orange street. 1512-1516d-wk

Wanted - A Girl for General Housework in a SMALL FAMILY. Inquire at No. 8 West Orange street. 1512-1516d-wk

Wanted - A Girl for General Housework in a SMALL FAMILY. Inquire at No. 8 West Orange street. 1512-1516d-wk