THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

MEETING OF BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

Bills Paid—School Houses Repaired—Debate on Text Books—Teachers Elected and Promoted—City Superintendent's Report.

A stated meeting of the board of directors of Lancaster city school district was held in common council chamber Thursday evening, the following named members being present:

Messrs. Breneman, Brown, Byrne, Carpenter, Cochran, Darmstetter, Eberman, Evans, Gast, Hartman, Herr, William Johnson, J. M. Johnston, Marshall, McComsey, McCormick, Morton, Nauman, Oblender, Ochs, Richards, Ringwalt, Samson, Schwebel, Slaymaker, Smeych, A. J Snyder, Warfel, Zecher, Levergood—president.

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

Bills Ordered to Be Paid.

Mr. Evans, from the finance committee, presented the following bills, which were ordered to be paid:

Levi Powl, labor at school houses $25 80; R. I. Chase, tuning piano $2; Chas. H. Barr, books and stationery $6 27; Steinman & Hensel, printing and advertising $29.75; Examiner, printing and advertising $38.30; S. H. Zahm, map, $2 50; Wm Wohlsen, 84 tree boxes $64 00; H. S. Stamm, hauling ashes, 75 cents; John Adam Burger, first payment on South Prince street school house, $600; Stoner, Shreiner & Co., merchandise, $60.54; S H. Franciscus, labor at school houses, $22.05.

The Janitors' Extra Pay

Mr. Evans presented also the bills of C. Wenditz ($29.) and Christian Nauman ($20) for white-washing and renovating high school and Rockland street school buildings respectively. Mr. Evans thought as the janitors were paid their regular salaries during July and August when there was no school held, they ought not to be paid for this extra work.

Mr. Slaymaker explained that the janitors were formerly paid quarterly, but some years ago, when it was found that they frequently wanted their money before the end of the quarter, it was agreed to pay them monthly, their annual salary being divided into twelve equal parts. The amount now paid is no larger than when they were paid quarterly.

Mr. Eberman and McComsey corroborated Mr. Slaymaker, and argued that the janitors earned all the board paid them, their labors during vacation being very onerous, including as it does, whitewashing, scrubbing, cleaning and laying carpets and much other labor.

Mr. A. J. Snyder moved that the salaries of the janitors remain as heretofore, and that the bills presented by them for extra work be paid.

J. I. Hartman said he thought the present bills ought to be paid, but that a new adjustment of janitors' salaries should be made in the future.

Mr. Snyder's motion was agreed to.

Repair of School Houses.

Mr. Slaymaker, from the committee on buildings and grounds, reported that extensive repairs had been made to several of the old school buildings, involving considerable expense; but he regarded the expenditures as absolutely necessary, as under the present condition of the finances of the board the abondonment of the old houses could not now be thought of. Mr. Slaymaker also reported that the committee contracted for coal for the use of the schools at $3.79 per ton.

Reports of Text Book Committee.

Dr. Herr presented the following report signed by a majority of the committee on text books:

To the Lancaster City School Board.

GENTLEMEN: Your committee in accordance with instructions made an earnest examination of all the series of school readers before them, and believing the best interests of the schools demand a change, we would respectfully recommend the Butler new readers as in our opinion being the best, both in execution and method. Yours, very respectfully,

M. L. HERR,
D. R. MCCORMICK.

A Minority Report Presented.

Mr. Byrne presented the following minority report:

To the President and Members of the Lancaster City School Board:

GENTLEMEN: As a minority of your committee on text books and course of instruction, I beg to report as follows: One year ago the the firm of E. H. Butler & Co. submitted to the committee on text books and course of instruction, of which Mr. J. M. Johnston, was then chairman, their new readers for examination. In doing so they offered, in the event of a change being made and their new books adopted, to take every book of the old series which was then either in the hands of pupils or in possession of the board in exchange for a new one of the same grade. A like offer was made at that time by another firm engaged in publishing school books. The committee did not feel at that time any overwhelming necessity for a change and did not consequently recommend any.

When E. H. Butler & Co. came to press their new book on the attention of this board in the latter part of last April, their agent was asked whether his house would put in the new series on the same terms offered the year before. He replied that it would be impossible to do so as the publishers of school books had entered into a combination with an agreement not to substitute new books for old ones in any district desiring a change except at such prices and on such terms as had been agreed upon by said combination.

This agreement, a very excellent one, it is admitted—for the publishers, this board is asked to endorse by adopting a new series of readers at the present time. I have reason to believe that the combination cannot be maintained for more than a year, unless it should unfortunately happen that it may be supported by such action on the part of the school boards throughout the country, as this board is now asked to take.

I am fully convinced that the adoption of any series of readers at the present time would be not only unwise, but also unjust to the taxpayers and patrons of the schools who would be made to bear the expense of the exchange—an expense which has heretofore been mostly borne by publishers who desired to substitute their books for those already in use in a district.

For the purpose of recommending that no adoption of readers for those now in use in the Lancaster city school district be made at the present time, this minority report is most respectfully submitted.

J. W. BYRNE.

Mr. Hartman moved that the consideration of the reports be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. McComsey moved to amend Mr. Hartman's motion by providing that the readers now in use be retained during the present term. The amendment was not seconded.

Messrs. Herr and McCormick spoke at some length in favor of the majority report and were replied to by Mr. Byrne.

Mr. Hartman's motion to indefinitely postpone was lost by a vote of 10 yeas to 20 nays.

Mr. Ringwalt moved to adopt the majority report.

Mr. Hartman moved to amend by striking out "majority" and insert "minority." The amendment was rejected—yeas, 11; nays, 19.

Mr. McComsey moved to amend by providing that the first three readers of Swinton's series be adopted, and the fourth and fifth readers of Butler's series. The motion was rejected.

The question was then taken on the adoption of the majority report, the yeas and nays being as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Breneman, Brown, Carpenter, Darmstetter, Eberman, Gast, Herr, Wm. Johnson, Marshall, McCormick, Morton, Oblender, Richards, Ringwalt, Samson, Schwebel, Smeych, A. J. Snyder—18.

Nays—Messrs. Byrne, Evans, Hartman, J. M. Johnston, McComsey, Nauman, Ochs, Slaymaker, Warfel, Zecher and Levergood, president—11.

So the motion to adopt the majority report was not agreed to, less than a majority of the whole number of the board having voted for it.

City Superintendent's Report.

The monthly report of the city superintendent was presented, but the reading of it was dispensed with. It is as follows:

LANCASTER, PA., Aug. 6, 1884.

To the Board of School Directors,

GENTLEMEN: Your city superintendent submits the following report of the public schools for the term ending June 30, 1884. The whole number of teachers employed including the special teachers of music and drawing was 74; the number of pupils enrolled in all the public schools, exclusive of the night schools was 4,133; adding those attending the latter, the grand total is 4,353. The average attendance in the day schools was 2,637, in the night schools 96. The average percentage of attendance was 86. The number of visits made by the city superintendent was 1,089, by directors 1,275. The number of orders for books for the poor has been reduced to 64, given by the following directors: Dr. M. L. Herr, and C. Schwebel, each 9; R. A. Evans, 6; Dr. J. Levergood and Geo. Darmstetter, each 5; Messrs. Morton, E. G Snyder and Eberman, each 3; Messrs. A. J. Snyder, C. Zecher, Samson, Gast, Byrne, each 2, and Messrs Breneman, Oblender, McComsey, McConomy, Hartman, G. W. Zecher, Richards, Ringwalt, Brosius, Cochran and McCormick, each one.

South Duke Street Secondary School.

The female secondary school on South Duke street was entirely too large for two teachers, and for the coming term, either a large number of pupils should be transferred thence to Prince and Chestnut, where there are too few for the number of teachers employed, or one of the teachers from Prince and Chestnut should be transferred to South Duke street. The easiest, and in my opinion the best disposition, is to transfer the pupils.

Course of Study.

The recent agitation for a change of text-books in reading suggests the inquiry whether something more than a mere change from one book or series to another should not be attempted. Is our practice of six readers the best? Would it not be better to substitute for all above the fourth reader exercises in declamation, recitations of select passages in prose and poetry, and the study of some standard author in history or biography? As it is, our pupils' reading is aimless sauntering among scraps of fine literature without any effort at retention, and no suspicion that it ought to enter into future acquisitions and make a component part of their literary study.

Our course in history and natural science for all schools below the high is as yet very weak. We provide a meagre course in the history of the United States, but ignore that of all other countries—a process which renders any thorough knowledge of the history of our own impossible.

The study of botany should begin in the second division of the secondary schools, and the same may be said of zoology.

The languages should be studied immediately on entering the high schools and not as now only at the beginning of the second year.

Our course of drawing, as regards the schools for boys, could and should be made more practical by substituting mechanical and geometrical for industrial drawing—the useful before the ornamental.

Lectures.

During the term just passed the professors of Franklin and Marshall college each cordially responded to the invitation of the city superintendent to deliver a lecture to the pupils of the high schools. These lectures, on subjects chosen by the professors and taught in our high schools, were given free of charge, as an earnest of good will on the part of the college towards the public schools, and are an evidence of hearty co-operhtion between the two kinds of educational institutions.

The perfect success of the experiment would fully justify the board in making an arrangement with the faculty for one or more regular courses of lectures on such terms and at such times as may be agreed upon, which would go far towards placing our high schools in the very first rank of such institutions.

Night Schools.

The object of our night schools is to afford young persons deprived of the privilege of attending our day-schools educational advantages adapted to their circumstances and stage of advancement. That such schools are needed both our special act, and the general law prove, and the large attendance during the term gave evidence that the youth of both sexes are willing to avail themselves of the opportunities offered. But these schools as now conducted may very properly be called ungraded, unorganized gatherings, too large at first, but rapidly dwindling, so that they are without doubt the most costly and the least efficient of all our schools. Few pupils of the grade of our secondary schools could be persuaded to attend, or could have their intellectual wants supplied. The teachers' acquaintance with their pupils is necessarily the most limited, and the whole management the most crude. I have long been of the opinion, and experience here and elsewhere tends to confirm me in it, that it is inexpedient to oblige all who wish to attend night school to come to one point, to limit the course to reading, writing and arithmetic, and to pay the same salary regardless of the number of pupils who attend and the progress made.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
R. K. BUEHRLE.

Resignation of a Teacher.

The resignation of Miss Anne C. Brubaker, principal of the Duke street girls' secondary school, was presented, and the thanks of the board tendered Miss Brubaker for her long, faithful and efficient services as a teacher.

Miss Mary A. Dougherty, assistant teacher in said school, was elected by acclamation to the principalship.

To fill the vacancy of assistant teacher caused by Miss Dougherty's promotion, Miss Kate Buckius, Miss Salome Carpenter and Miss Mary McNeal were nominated. A ballot being taken, resulted as follows, after several members who had voted for other candidates had changed their votes to Miss McNeal.

For Miss McNeal—Messrs. Brown, Byrne, Cochran, Darmstetter, Eberman, Evans, Gast, Hartman, Herr, Wm. Johnson, J. M. Johnston, Marshall, McCormick, Morton, Nauman, Ochs, Ringwalt, Samson, Schwebel, Smeych, A. J. Snyder, Zecher and Levergood, president—23.

For Miss Buckius—Messrs. Breneman, McComsey, Oblender, Richards, Slaymaker—5.

For Miss Carpenter—Messrs. Carpenter and Warfel.

Miss McNeal having received a majority of all the votes cast, was declared elected.

To fill the vacancy as first assistant in Miss Brimmer's combined primary school caused by Miss McNeal's promotion, Miss Francis Kauffman, second assistant in said school was elected by acclamation.

To fill the vacancy caused by Miss Kauffman's promotion all applicants were placed in nomination, and a ballot being taken, resulted as follows, several members changing their votes before the result was announced:

Messrs. Brown, Byrne, Carpenter, Darmstetter, Eberman, Evans, Gast, Wm. Johnson, McComsey, McCormick, Morton, Nauman, Ochs, Ringwalt, Samson, A. J. Snyder, Zecher and Levergood, president—18, voted for Miss Ellie Zecher.

Messrs. Herr, J. M. Johnston, Slaymaker, Keen and Warfel—5, voted for Miss Lizzie M. Keen.

Messrs. Breneman, Hartman, Marshall and Richards—4, voted for Miss Mame E. Underwood.

Messrs Oblender and Schwebel—2, voted for Miss Annie Hess.

Mr. Cochran voted for Miss Barnes.

Miss Zecher having received a majority of all the votes cast was declared elected.

Mr. Hartman moved that the superintending committee be empowered to open the Middle South Mulberry street school and appoint, temporarily, teachers for the same, if in their judgment it be necessary. The motion was agreed to.
