THE GRAND CIRCLE

OF THE BROTHERHOOD OF THE UNION

Its Annual Meeting in This Uty Attended by Many Scate Representatives -- the Session's Proceedings in Detail. The Brotherhood of the Union, the Grand Circle of which meets in this city to day, was founded about 1849 in Phila-delphia by George Lippard, who at that time had gained no little prominence as as advocate of the rights of labor. Lip-pard had written a novel, "The Quaker City," that rapidly attained a large circuation. Lippard wrote the ritual of the order, and the first regular organization was Pilgrim Circle No. 1, of which be himself was Chief Washington. As the order progressed Lippard became Supreme Washington.

The officers who occupy the seven chairs of the order have titles illustrating great qualities as statesmen patriots and martial heroes. The Chief Washington personifies patriotism and valor; the Chief Jefferson, statesmanship; Chief Girard, capital as the fruit of honest labor applied for the good of mankind; the Chief Franklin. scienceand the achievments of the Printers Apprentice; the Chief Wayne, the martial spirit of patriotism, &c. Lippold was not spared to see the growth of the order he had founded.

The Legion is a higher branch of the order of the Brotherhood, and is composed exclusively of members of the order, and bearing the same relation to it that the commandaries of Knights Templars do to the Masonic lodges, or the uniform rank to the Knights of Pythias. The legions are not in Lancaster to-day on any official business, but merely on a visit to meet the members attending the grand session, and to participate in the parade. Arrival of the Victors.

The first body of the Brotherhood to arrive was Washington Legion No 1 Knights of the Revolution of Philadelphia. The knights are the aniform rank of the Brotherhood. The Philadelphia arrived here at 7:40 last evening. They were met at the depot by Washington Legion No. 3, of this city. After forming into line he party marched out Chestnut street, to Duke, to East King, to Centre Square, to Schiller house, where the banquet and ball was held.
Gold Badge Presentation.

As soon as the whole party was in the hall, O. W. C. Whinna, of Philadelphia, who is major of the knights, was treated to a surprise. Capt. H. McElroy, of this city, arose and presented him with a very fine gold badge of the order, in behalf of the Lancaster Knights, as a token of their esteem. Capt. McElroy made a short speech and Major Whinna responded thanking the Lancaster donors with much feeling for the handsome present. For the Washington Legion No. 1, of which Major Whinna is a member, T. P. Gibbs made speech of thanks, showing that the members appreciated the gift to the officer.

The badge presented to Major Whinns is of gold and very handsome. The upper part is the regular badge worn by the Knights of the Revolution, consisting of a cross, two swords and a shield with the emblem of the order; attached to this by a link is a small gold bell, which is the badge of the Grand Chief Washington. Jeweller Shreiner furnished the badge. The Schiller Hoose Banquet.

After the presentation the whole party adjourned to the third story of the build ing, where they sat down to an excellent supper which was prepared in John Bruder's best style. At the table toasts were given and responded to, and there were several brief speeches. After supper the party went down stairs and dancing was begun, the promenade taking place at 10 o'clock. It was kept up until a late hour, and when it did break up the visitors were highly pleased with their first night

Their uniforms are very pretty and they wear a chateau instead of a cap. Three generations of one tamily were represented in the Philadelphia legion last night, as follows : Charles W. Whinna, who is an old member of the brotherhood : his son, O. W. C. Whinna, who is a promineut officer; and the latter's son, Owen Whinpa, who appeared in last evening's parade as a color bearer. John A. Overdeer, of No. 3, this city, was appointed by Major Whinna officer of the day, with headquarters at the Schiller house, where his services were found to be efficient and useful to the Brotherhood.

The Coming of the Delegates. This morning the streets presented a gala appearance, flags, banners and streamers flying from scores of houses, on the principal streets many of them bearing the word "Welcome," while the side walks were alive with a great throng of people anxious to see the circles and legions as they arrived.

The reception committees were on duty early and with bands of music met the visitors as they arrived and escorted them to their respective headquarters.
Putnam Circle No. 13, of Columbia, 75

men, with the Wrightsville band, was the first to put in an appearance, and was followed during the morning by dele gates from Wrightsville, Harrisburg, Reading, Manheim Wrightsville, Lebanon. The Lebanon delegation was very large, numbering from 500 to 600, who came in on a special train over the new Mount Hope railroad. The delegaton was met at the West King street station by the committee of arrangements and escorted to their headquarters at the Manor hotel. The excursion train was the first ever run over the Mount Hope road, and it was a very pleasant trip. The new road has just been finished by the Reading railroad company. It runs from Mount Hope to Manheim, connecting at the former place with the Lebanon & Cornwall road, and at the latter with the Reading & Columbia road, thus making the shortest route between Lebanon and Lancaster.

The Grand Circle. The Grand Circle went into session at Odd Fellows' hall this morning at 10o'clock for the purpose of verifying the credentials of representatives and conferring the degrees of the Brotherhood to those entitled to receive them. Grand Chief Washington S. L. Armor, of Chester, presides, with Grand Chiet Jefferson Whinna, of Philadelphia, occupying the second kin's tilen, N. Y .- Maine's tireat Political Gathering-Other Items.

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y., Aug. 12.—The weather is bright and the prospect for to-day's racing favorable. There is little wind and the lake is comparatively smooth. The decisions of the national regatta com-mittee, barring out Donahue, Murbhy and Mumford and the notice as to Pilkinston and Nagle are generally favored by oarsmen here. All the crews and scullers who are to contend to day are reported in good shape. Ryan, of Cambridge, Mass., is a favorite for the junior single sculls ; Lang, of Montreal, the present champion, is looked on as a probable winner of the senior single sculls, although there are several dark horses. The attendance so far is not great, although the crowd is CATE is in the hands of the treasurer— Three per cent. off if paid by August 1. W. O. MARSHALL, Treas. beginning to arrive.
