The Possibilities of Baliconing. The success that seems to have at. tended the experiment of Captain Renard, at Meudon, France, with his selfpropelling balloon a few days since, has given a wonderful impetus to the study of monautics. A detailed report of it has been made to the Paris academy of science, and mronau's all over the world are eagerly awaiting the decision of the scientists comprising that body regard ing it. Since the year 1766, when Cay endish discovered that hydrogen when pure was 16 times lighter than air, the study of ballooning has worried many a scientist. The Montgolfier prothers, of Annonay, France, were the first to practically demonstrate the possibility of safe balloon ascension in 1782. The history of acrostation from that day has been but the recounting of legions of failures in the efforts to solve the problem of arial navigation. Lives have been lost ; money wasted and in the end scientists were compelled to acknowl edge that the status of the question remained practically as it was in the days of the Montgolfiers, more than a century ago. Hence it is that the alleged discovery of a self-propelling balloon by Captain Renard has set the coronauts in a fumuly The trade winds with their incalcul difbenefits to ocean navigation were no discovered and made as of until the close of the diffeentia century. Many have believed, in like manner, that there are uniform currents in the higher at most phere, which may be made use of in aerial navigation. But even granting this possibility, the balloon would require a steering apparatus that would enable it, like a ship, to beat against the wind if necessary. This the Frenchman above alluded to, claims to have discovered. The trouble with all monors of the kind hereiclore invented has been that to make them of sufficient power. too much weight was required to be carried by the balloon. 10101 To those who look upon these experiments with sceptical eyes, it may be said that stranger thougs have happened. and it is not among the impossibilities of the future that our children's children may utilize balloous for the same purpose as we of the present generation make use of the locbmotive and the atcamship.

An audience of between 600 and 700 people saw the Baffalo League team shut out the Lancaster at McGrann's park yesterday afternoon. The game was very listless until towards the close when the home team made strenuous efforts to score and the visitors worked just as hard to prevent it. In the first inning Myers, the Buffalo catcher, was struck on the back of the head by a pitched ball from Smith that temporarily disabled him. In the second inning Brouthers made a tremendous lunge into right centre for three lic bases, but was put out while trying to make a home run. Serad's pitching was very effective, no lass than seven of the fair to issue tickets to teachers and pupils at reduced rates on the days the schools was regarded as faulty in many respects. The Philadelphia Record and Press are having an interesting collequy as to the consistency of the Press as a workingman's organ. The Record noted as an interesting fact, showing the wide difference between preaching and practice on the part of the Blaine organs, that nearly all these newspapers in New York and Philadelphia refused to pay their compositors the ruling prices of the typagraphical union, when they were loudly proclaiming their party to be the workingmen's dear friend and protector, The Press, appreciating the force of the fact, declared that it paid the union rate of wages; to which the Record responds that it does so only nomimaily, since it pays these rates only for "solid " matter, its displayed it is not hard to explain why this class malter being put in type at less than the of citizens fluid the leading of an house usual cost by men paid by the week. 'The Press is a "rat " office, no union workmen being willing to work on it be cause it will not pay union rates of wages. As there is no question of this it follows that the Press, though follow ing probably a judicious business policy, is debarred from claiming to be an organ of such of the workingmen as are found in unions. It is very interesting to note how these broad and loud protes Lations of politicians collapse when pierced by a sharp fact such as this. The state department at Washington, has eceived from Frank H. Mason, United itates consul at Marsolles, a report disted July 31, upon the situation at that place and Toulon since the abatement of the cholera epidemic. He says : "It will be two or three months before the damper of new outbreak of the pestilence will be past, and a much longer period must elapse before the ordinary prosperity of baddess can be restored. * The hunnes of Toulon and Marreilles have bemi strated to the utmost in cleaning their streets antenements and cating for the side and burg. ing the dead. Many incusands of their wealthy and benevelent citizons are absent. The presence of impending financia ruin weighs heavily upon the business community, and even the or heary resources of charity are carbonaly our tailed. Subscriptions have been raised in Marseilles and contributions sont from heighboring towns to meet the most press. ing and immediate mods, but these mean ures of relief have been meague. The French government has within the past few days sent committees of inquiry to measure the probable deficit and a considerable sum has been voted for the relief of the stricken cities " " " The tide of returning fugitives has just set in, and no description can pleture the wretched ness and doctitution that already exist ' The conaul suggests that this is an oc-
