M'CAW, STEVENSON & ORR'S

Patent "Glacier" Window Decoration.

The Most Perfect Substitute for Stained Glass

MANUFACTURED AT THE LINENHALL WORKS, BELFAST, IRELAND. MANUFACTURED AT THE LINENHALL WORKS, DELFAST, IRELAND,

This is a series of transparent designs, from the simplest to the most elaborate and complex, enabling any person with a reasonable amount of take and ingenuity to produce patterns on windows, having all the beauty of the real stained glass, at a very small cost. The aivantages of this invention will be appreciated when it is considered that so many win lows have a disagreeable outlook; which can now, by means of the Patent Decoration, be shut out from view, and the beauty of the interfor ennanced, while the labor of affixing the design is no more than a pie sant pastime and exercise of skill in which hades and children can take part. In cases where no disagreeable view exists, there may be portions of the house where there is an a cess of hight, and the covering of part of the glass with these design's will be found to be an improvement. Windows on stair landings are particularly good subjects for treatment by the "Glacier" Decoration; while almost all windows, in whatever position, will be improved in appears on by having a portion of the glass at top or sides covered with suitable designs. Unlike many things invented for the purpose of window decoration, this cannot be rubbed off the window or defaced by cleaning.

ETEAMSHIP AURANIA, off Queenstown Ireland, Aug. 31, 1884.—We leit Paris on Monday morning last, at 9:30, for London via. Calais and Dover, arriving at the former place at 3 p. m. We pass through a rather preity but very level country of the same general character as that already noticed in France. We traverse quite a a number of towns, the principal being Amieus and Boulogne. The latter is on the coast. Here we diverge to the right, until we reach Calais, which is a seaport of some we reach Calais, which is a sesport of some importance. We go aboard the steamer, manned by English sailors, whose vernacular fails pleasantly on our ears ofter listening for the past six weeks to German, Italian, Swiss and French, little of which we could nuderstand I. little of which we could understand. It has commenced to rain, the sea is a little rough, throwing the spray on deck to such ducking of east water. On Brid-h soil

We soon reached Dover, where in the midst of a drenching rate, we are trans ferred to the cars, after having our baggage overhauled by the custom house officials. We are now on British soil again, and fast speeding through the fertile fields of Kent to the great metropolis, which we reach about 7 o'clock, and take quarters at the Imperial Hotel, Holborn, which we find to be a conveniently located and well kept an extent as to give all those in its reach a

We remain in London until Friday morning, and during our stay had an op-portunity of seeing something more of the business life of the city, which is viewed to better advantage after coming back from the continent. They are very conservative, and have a way of their own, which was the way of their grandfathers. They are, however, very correct, having fixed prices for their goods from which they will not recede We remain in London until Friday morning, and go direct to Liverpool. Our time not permitting us to stop at Strat-ford, we go on board the Aurania at 3 clock p. m., and steam out of the Mersey about 4:30, arriving here on Sunday morning, where we will remain until 3 o'clock p. m. for the mails. As we are now on the home stretch we are anxious to make a quick passage.

Home Again. QUARRYVILLE, September 9, 1884.— We sailed from Queenstown at 3:30 p. m. on Sunday the 31st ult. We had a long passenger list, consisting of nearly five budged cabin, and over one budded steerage passengers. Nothing of special interest courred on our passage, and except Menday, which was a little blusters we had an example ally pleasant. tery, we had an exceptionally pleasant royage, a calm sea and beautiful moon-wrot nights. Our run from Queenstowa was made in six days and fifteen hours to Saudy Hook, which we reached and crossed the bar at 1 o'clock p. m. on Sunday the 7th inst., being an average of about 400 miles per day. The sight of American soil was halled with intense deight, after an absence of three months. We get our baggage through the custom house and take the 7,30 p. m train for Philadelphia, and on Monday evening reach dear old Laucaster, where we receive the indly greeting of many friends, to say nothing of the welcome by the loved ones and neighbors at home. Our letters have been written in moments statched from constant sight-seeing, and have necessarily been crude. This fact, added to the work of itor, has tiow Freich Mis-logsrice Can Do More The following passages are from a letter written by a Frenchman many years resident in China:

"It is certain that two European powers are regarded with respect at P kin. They are the two nations who have led their Celestial empire and whose power the Cainese have discovered to their cost—France and England. The English certainly have a trade with Coma worth 1 000,000,000f.; at Cauton as a: Shanghai they rule the market. France doe . business to the extent of, at most, 20,000 000 But China contains 1,000,000 Cath sics and 500 priests and bishops, placed under French protection. Let it be thoroughly understood that the French ambass dor has not only to watch over the missionaries of his own nationality; every Catholic priest, be be Italian, Belgian, Spanish, French, or Chinese—ail Christains, in short, are confided to his care. It is his duty to see that liberty of conscience is trictly observed, from one would of the strictly observed from one end of the immense possessions of China to the other. Whosoever becomes a Christian places himself, by that very act, under the pro-tection of the tri colored flag. "France has deserved this honor, since no other nation has sent into the Far East either as many apostles or such large material supplies to sustain them. Tous— is it credible?—in spite of her inferior commerce (for French traders are anything but numerous along the coast), in spite of her terrible reverses during the war of 1870, France has kept the highest position in China England takes the second place. As soon as there is a French government (republican or monarchical matters no.) which understands what a mighty influence it possesses. France's prestige in China possesses will be established to last for centuri s. It is not by conquests in the Far East, nor by new trading stations that the French government will consolidate its power. What can result from costly Tonquin expedition? A few French traders will establish themselves at Hanoi, but it is establish themselves at Habot, but it is certain that if a European town raises up it will only be peopled by Germans or Englishmen. Let the French government thoroughly understand that its influence in China has no other raison'd etre than the protection of Christianity.

To uphold this cause it will not have to sacrifice either soldiers or millions of money in order to found along the coast of money in order to found along the coast of China and Tonquin establishments which, like the Indo Chinese ones, are sure to meet with almost complete failure. On the other hand, it will enjoy most important benefits. There is no enmity against us among the Chinese people, who are favorably disposed toward Christianity. The day the Chinese are convinced that Europeans want to make them, not Europeans, but Christians; that they do not come to destroy their nationality, but not come to destroy their nationality, but to regenerate it by means of a purer latth; that it is not, in a word, the conquest of China which tempts Europe—then the power anointed to the Christian protectorate—that is to say, France—will pessess an immense, unheard of aud incalculable power, of which Europe shall be jealous, but at it e same time incapable of doing or even attempting anything to destroy it."

A GAUST IN BUSTON.

How a Wicked Woman Wandered About flunes of tirent Respectability. From the Boston Courier.

A very singular story which forms one of the sensational social topics of the day is the best authenticated of the many stories of the supernatural that have been lately told. Only a short time ago a young and well known artist, Mr. A., was invited to pay a visit to his distinguished friend, Mr. Izzard. The house was filled with guests, but a large and bandsome room was placed at his disposal, appar-ently one of the best in the house. For three days he had a delightful visit; de delightful in all particulars save one; he had each night a horrible dream. He had each night a horrible dream. He had each night a horrible dream. He dreamed — or was really — suddenly awakened by some person entering his room, and in looking aron d saw the room brilliantly lighted, while at the window stood a lady elegantly attired, in the net of throwing something out. This the act of throwing something out. This accomplished, she turned her face toward the only spectator, showing a countenance so distorted by evil passions that he was thrilled with horror. Soon the light and the figure with the dreadful face disappoared, leaving the artist suffering from frightful nightmare. On returning to his city home he was so haunted by the fear ful countenance which had for three consecutive nights troubled him, that he made a sketch of it, and so real that the evil expression seemed to horrify every one who saw it. Not a great while after, the artist went to make an evening visit on Mr Izzard; that gentleman invited him to his picture gallery, as he wished to show him some remarkable old family portraits. What was Mr. A.'s surprise to recognize among them, in the likeness of a stately, well-dressed lady, the one who had so troubled his slumbers on his previous visit, lacking, however, the revolting, wicked expression Soon as he saw it he involuntarily ex-claimed, "Why, I have seen that lady!" "Indeed!" said Mr. I., smiling; "that is hardly possible, as she died more than a hundred years ago. She was the second wife of my great-grandfather, and reflected anything but credit on the family. She was strongly suspected of having murdered her husband's son by a former marriage, in order to make her own child herr to the property. The unfortunate boy broke his neck in a fall from a window, and there was every reason to believe that he was precipitated from the window by his step-mother. The artist then told his host the circumstances of his thrice repeated experience or dream, and sent for his sketch, which, so far as the features were concerned, was identical with the portrait in Mr. Izzard's gallery. The sketch has since been photographed, but from its hideous expression is far from pleasant to look

That was a mighty good plantation and there was right smart of bears there, too. But that one thousand acres of land went into the Mississippi liver years are."

It is putting no strain upon the figure to say that great forests of youthful hope, womanly beauty and manly stremely are swept in the same way every year into the great, turtid to rent of disease and death. Yet it should not be so. I hat it is so is a disgrace as well as a loss. People are largely too care less or too stupid to defend their own interees—the most precious of which is be ofth. That gone, all is gone. Disease is stands, but to recklessness or ignorance the simplest things wight as well be complex as a proposition in Conic sections. I the huge westers rivers, which so often flood the cities along their shores, arise in a few mountain springs, so all our aliments can be traced to impure blood and a smail group of disorders dorgan.

The most effective and inclusive remedy for disease is Paskbet's IONIO. It goes to the sources of pain and weakness. In response to its action, the liver, kidneys, stomach and heart begin their work afresh and disease is driven out. The Tonic is not, however, an intoxicant, but cures a desire forstrong drink.
