LANCASTER, PA., Sept. 10, 1884.

I desire to make known to my friends and customers, and the public in general, that I have removed from 22 North Queen Street to 121 North Queen Street, formerly occupied by the firm of Smaling & Haysman, where I have opened with a large assortment of English, French and German

Novelties, together with a large line of Domestic Fabrics. Composed as my new stocks, of new goods and new styles, I feel assured that in soliciting a continuance of your patronage, you will have an opportunity of making selections from a stock unequalled in the variety and adapted to the present demand, which is for good values, gentlemanly styles and effects, and exquisite fit. CREMATION'S CHEAPNESS

SHOULD NOT BEAD PAPER'S BURN?

Potter's Fields Declared Hazardous of Disease--Incineration at a Cost of Less Than Two Dollars a Body.

From the New York Herald.

Old Gravedigger Dougherty sat on one of the benches in the large yard of the Kings county almshouse just as the sun went down Thursday. His grizzled chin whisker rested upon a stout crook cane, and from a venerable byaw-wood pipe that protruded out over the side, there came only from a low fall of "Mrs. Miller's best" curled liquid. The old man had just returned from his labors in potter's field, where for ten years he has put under the earth the remains of the pauper dead of the city.

There used to be terrible stories told of the way the bodies were thrown, oftentimes offhanded, into great trenches, and covered lightly with a layer of earth, through which the dead men's faces came up, and in fact, the bodies were thrown only from a low fall of "Mrs. Miller's best" curled liquid. The old man had just returned from his labors in potter's field, where for ten years he has put under the earth the remains of the pauper dead of the city.
