MONDAY EVENING, SEPT., 22, 1884.

Keely Shoots. Mr. Keely is again to the front with his motor. He has charged a gun with it at Sandy Hook and the shot went out of the gun and occasionally penetrated the target. Mr. Keely does not set up for his motor any great value as a shot propeller. He merely propelled the shot as a convenient way to show that the motor has power. The company of gentlemen who witnessed the experiment were much impressed. Col. Hamilton, of the United States artillery, expressed the opinion that any man who denied merit to the motor, without investigation, was a fool; and doubtless the colonel is right in that opinion. In these days when so many wonderful things are discovered, it will not do to hastily say that anything is impossible; even the generation of a new power out of a gill of water. It was about that quantity of water we believe, which Mr. Keely manufactured in his machine to shoot the bullets out of his gun. Mr. Keely does not know what the power is nor whence it comes; he only knows and shows that it is there. That should be satisfactory evidence of it; there is nothing like seeing to make one believe . But then we must be sure of what we see. There is a game of thimblerig, in ruption in the Republican party. which you are sure you see the balls, but you don't. As Colonel Hamilton says. the wise man investigates before he be

The trouble with Mr. Keely, however is that he does not submit to investiga tion. He did not introduce his Sandy Hook spectators to the mystery of his gun. They do not know what made the shot leave it, except as they believed Mr. Keely; and it seems appropriate to suggest to Colonel Hamilton that the man who puts faith in the statement that the propulsion was by an unknown force, without investigation, is not a very wise

The New York Sun is very devoted in its self assumed task of defending Mr. Blaine from unjust aspersions. It is a very proper task for an independent very well known that Mr. Butler in close convoy with Mr. Blaine. The Sun is in controversy with the Harrisburg Patriot, over the allegation that a peculiarity of the Sun's defenses of Mr. Blaine, that they never go in denial of the gist of the offenses charged, but merely to the circumstances of the particular charge. It cannot, in view of its frequently pronounced opinion of Mr. Blaine's venal ity, claim that he was not bribed as speaker, and that he has obtained his wealth by selling his influence as a repre sentative. It confines itself to the claim that it is not shown that he was bribed by Bill Kemble, and is not demonstrated that he suppressed with corruption. It will not have him proved a villian by improper testimony, villain though he be. It will be noticed that this is the function of the lawver defending his client ; he can freely ad mit that he is guilty of all the crimes in the decalogue except the particular crime against the particular party in the particular manner specified in the indictment. Such a defense, however, is not likely to be more satisfactory to the people in selecting a president than it is formally opened the Arlberg radway tan to the community deciding upon the guilt of a criminal, whom they take out of jail and hang on their own account, when the courts do not satisfactorily perform their function of punishing the

THE Republican party has just given a new illustration of its desire for a reform in governmental affairs by driving from office one of its most honest and efficient public officers. Col. Dudiey, the commissioner of pensions, though a strict partisan, was at all times an enemy of the pension sharks who made vast sums of money by swindling ignorant sums of money by swindling ignorant Millo E. Dewitt, a prominent Damo claimants. He it was who contributed cratic politician of Warren county. Next largely to the exposure of the Fitzgeralds and the strong pension pool that had been organized with a view to plunder the ignorant beneficiaries of the govern ment. Dudley's assiduity in the correc tion of wrongdoing has not, however, been much appreciated by his party. It has, in fact, stirred up for him a great deal of enmity from the powerful public thieves enthroned in power in Washington. It has even been whispered that the Interior department showed little cooperation with the pension commissioner in his work of reform. The latter has therefore determined to cease his up hill work and devote his future time and energies to his own private business. He is a wise man in his generation. Remaining in the pension office he would, doubtless, be held responsible for many peculations and irregularities in his department, for the prevention of which his hands would be tied. He is also, in all probability, of the opinion that the Republican lease of power is very brief, and that he will do well in abandoning the sinking ship while there is yet time.

EVERYTHING is fish that comes to the Butler net, and the more of the rag, tag and bobtail element that the Essex spider can allure into his parlor, the better is he pleased. The old man must be having a very quiet laugh to himself over the astute manner in which he has captured the Greenback party of New York and sunk its individuality into the Butler organization. Mr. George O. Jones was wont to be the great centre of the Greenback party in the Empire state, around which the lesser luminaries revolved. In his position he felt secure and little dreamed that when his party named Butler as its candidate, the result would be his own political nonentity. Yet such has been the case. The Essex statesman has put his own camp followers at the head of the New York Greenback organization, and Mr. Jones indignantly steps down and out, declar- RUN DOWN IN THE NIGHT ing in the bitterness of his soul that he will not support the political chameleon These political side shows are highly diverting to those engaged in the sterner work of real campaigning.

An officer of the Manhattan elevated railway, in New York, talking to a reporter about a man who had been killed by its negligence, congratulated himself that it was a case of killing, where the law limited the damages to $5,000, and the deek headed the ship for the signal not one of maiming, where the damages are underrated, and might have been $50,000; which is a striking commentary upon the excessive stupidity or venality of legislation that limits damages in case of death and not in that of injury. The influences of railroads in legislation being no longer and were suffering greatly from hunger stronger than that of the people it is time for such an illogical statute to be Thomas Mumford, master of the schooner railroads in legislation being no longer time for such an illogical statute to be repealed.

Or go in that weary old dresscoal another in-fernal long season. Fuw will understand the necessity that called into existence the party known as newspaper; and a very proper one, too, the American Political Alliance, which or Mr. Butler's chief organ, since it is seems to be Know Nothingism revived. Its platform advocates a twenty-one years sails in his canvass in New York residence for foreigners to enable them to vote, the same as that defended by the Kennebee, Maine, Journal, when Mr-Blaine was its responsible editor thirty Mr. Kemble, of addition, division and years ago. One would have thought there silence memory, declared that he had was room enough for all those blatant bribed Mr. Blaine when speaker. It is brawlers in the present Republican organization.

Success is rarely hereditary. From the broadcloth to the shirt sleeves is a transition of only a few generations. Toiling fathers amass wealth which their sons and grandsons quickly scatter to the four winds of the earth. Though genius may descend, the stability which must accompany it to render it successful is often sadly lacking. The grandson of Henry Clay, perhaps the most brilliant figure in American political history, inherited many of the oratorical and intellectual qualities of the "Mill a Muliigan letter, which charged him Boy of the Slashes;" yet, lacking balance he is shot down in a Louisville saloon quarrel that began with young Clay's demand for money to continue a protracted the train. debauch. So rues the world away.

SCHOONER WRECKED BY A COLLISION. struck by an Unknown Verrel on the At Const-The Second Mate Swept Overboard and Lost.

When the steamship Clenfueges, which Nassau September 17 and arrived in New York, Sunday morning, was about three hundred miles east of St. Augustine on Thursday afternoon the lookout saw an and in a short time saw that the spar rose from a dismasted water logged hulk. On the deck forward, where they were partly sheltered from the waves by the topgallant forecastle, were five men. Second Officer James Doughery and and a couple of sea men got a small boat ready and at six o'clock the men were taken from the wreck. They were very much exhausted John J. Taylor, of Philadelphia, and the others were his first mate and crew Benjamin Washington, one of the crew, said: "We sailed for Fernandina on September 11, with a cargo of pine timber for Laguayra. All went well until Saturday, and we were about three hundred miles out of port, when it began to blow a regusteerageway during Saturday night, but Sunday morning the wind blew so hard that our fore staysail was blown out of the bolt ropes and the mainsail was split. Then we laid her to under a close-reefed foresail. We had to lash the man at the wheel to keep him from being washed overboard. We were in no danger, however, for the vessel made very little water. About two o'clock on Monday morning, while I was trying the pump, I looked around to windward and saw a big white schooner scudding before the wind under bare poles. I yelled to the mate and told We put our wheel up, but we could not fall away from the wind, and in two minutes the stranger struck us bow on directly between the starboard fore and rigging. She bounded back, rose with the swell and struck us again further aft, and then with the next swell struck us on the quarter and glanced off.

"The blows had crushed in the side of our vessel all along. The other schooner drifted away to leeward. We saw her set her lights, which were not burning before and then she disappeared. We could not see a soul on board her nor did we hear a word from her. Our vessel filled at once and sank to the water's edge. The first wave that struck us cleared the deck of everything moveable. The galley and the water butts went with the rest and we would have gone also only we managed to cling to the rigging. Then we cut away the masts and threw overboard the anchors and chains to keep her from turning over. "Just as we were getting things to ights and while the second mate. Philir raham, of Baltimore, was nailing the cabin door fast, an unusually large wave swept over the deck and carried him with He gave one cry, but was beyond help and sank instantly out of sight. Thereafter we had nothing to do but wait. There was no getting nothing to eat and the water was gone. The gale continued all day Monday and Tuesday, but began to subside at night. Then we got up a spar that had been lashed in the scuppers hoisted the signal of distress. came in sight of us until Wednesday night when the Cienfuegos saw us.

MOBBING A CIRCUS.

A Dranken Citizen Raises a Disturbance that Results Fatally. A serious row occurred between the citizens of Barr Oak, Jewell county, Kansas, and showmen belonging to Miles Orton's circus on Friday night, in which one man was killed and several were wounded. The disturbance was raised by a drunken citizen named Elliott, and a general fight occurred. Elliott was arrested the depot with a double barreled shotgun and fired into the train. At this moment the train pulled out, and the circus men fired a volley at the crowd, killing J. Longnecker, mortally wounding Mayor Mano, and slightly wounding a boy. Longnecker had not taken part in the row. He leaves a widow and six children. Orton circus is the same that was in the corrible affair at Greeley some time ago It was billed to show at Washington, and hither about a hundred Burr Oak people went by special train to arrest the derers. Great excitement prevails at Burr Sixteen circus mon were arrested in Washington, Saturday morning, by the heriff of Jewell county. In the afternoon they were taken to Greenleaf by the sheriff of Washington county. At 7 p. m. 100 men arrived from Burr Oak, and at last accounts 500 men were at the depot await ing developments, while the circus was performing up town. The Burr Oak people demanded the arrest of Orton and his son. The crowd was orderly.

THE POLITICAL CAULDRON.

-Notes of the Campaign. The Democrats had one of the largest ectings on Saturday ever held in Hamilton, Ohio, the number of persons present being estimated from 25,000 to 40,000. A large number came from Indiana. hief interest was the appearance of Mr. Hendricks. The other speakers present were Allen G. Thurmau, Governor Hoad-ly and Durbin Ward. Letters of regret were sent by Governor Cleveland and Senator Payne.

Mr. Hendricks was introduced by ex-Senator Thurman, and began by saying that he had before him an article written for the Commercial Gazette, and copied very extensively by Republican papers, to the effect that in 1863 a club was formed at what was called the Stone House, in St. township, Hamilton county, by about seventy persons who were disloyal to the Union, which was called the Vallandigham club, and that he (Headricks) was invited and came to St. Clair town ship and helped form the club. to say," he continued, "that I never knew was a house called the Stone House' nor a St. Clair township until I saw it in this article. I only refer to this as an example of the multitude of false statements the Republican press is circula-ting about the Democratic candidates. A tie never hurts a man ; it is the truth that Mr. Hendricks then turned to other topics, first arguing that it was time for a change in the administration even if there were no scandals in the present adminis-tration. He repeated his argument on this point that he used in other addresses, and in the main devoted his time to the same line he followed in other places. The meeting was very chthusiastic, and, by reason of its great size, much confusion existed, at times roudering it difficult for the greater portion of the audience to hear what was said.

Very pressing invitations have been received by Governor Cleveland to appear in the west, in Pennsylvania and in other parts of the country, but he has refused to accept any of them. He believes that his place is at his post of public duty, and he will not follow Mr. Blaine in swinging around the circle. He took no part in effecting his nomination for the presidency. and he will take no part in the conduct of the contest for his election.

Speaker Carlisle says: "There are 153 electoral votes in the South, and Mr. Cleveland will positively seemre every one of them, no matter how much talk there s about West Virginia, North Carolina, or Florida, or Louisiana being in doubt. Then he will just as certainly carry New York with its 36 votes, New Jersey with 9 and Indiana with 15, making 213 votes, 12 more than are really required, and then we feel very sanguine of carrying Connec-ticut, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin Colorado, Nevada, Oregon and California, so that Mr. Blaine will fall very short of getting enough votes for ancross?" enough votes for success.

A Woman Caught in Male Disgotse, Saturday morning there arrived in Cin innati, Ohio, an individual apparently S years of age. He seemed irresolute after alighting from the car, and was at once besieged by the hackmen who sar-round the depot. He did not want a cariage, but said he would like to get a cheap licket to Chicago. One of the hackmen took charge of him, and instead of assisting, turned him over to Policeman Gorian, with the remark : "This young man is a woman." After this nothing remained but to escort the distinguished lady to the police station, whereupon, being ques-tioned, she acknowledged her sex and was locked up. She stated that her name was her parents near Hamilton, O. Her father is a miller, but there is a heavy mortgage on his house. The cause she assigned for leaving was her mother's harshness and her sister's hatred. She positively denies that any man is mixed up in the affair. Miss Flickinger is well connected, having several sisters in Middletown and Cincinnati. She is tall and well formed, with fair complexion, blue eyes and golden brown hair. She will probably be until word is received from her father.

Strange End of an Outcast Woman. A few years ago a woman with a fletitions name died in Augusta, Georgia. She first appeared in that city thirty years ago and was the possessor of about $75 .-000. She was joined there by a man with whom she lived for several years. He became a noted gambler and drew upon the woman's funds to pursue his hazardous calling. She died, refusing to divulge her name, and the court appointed an administrator who found that she had left about $10,000. A search begun for the the heirs was retarded by the absence of any clas to the woman's real name Papers found among the effects revealed the fact that she belonged to a Philadel phia family, evidently people of wealth and influence, but beyond this nothing could be ascertained. The administrator advertised freely in the papers of Philadelphia, but no answer was returned and the property has been escheated to the state of Georgia and will go into the educational fund.

The village of Toms River stirred by the supposed murder of James Wainwright, a laboring man living out in the country about three miles from that place. On Monday last he left his home to go to Toms River to cut grass for B F. Aumack. He failed to return home, but it was not until the following Thursday that his family grew apprehensive of him. A search was then made, and his hat covered with blood was found near a fence about 300 yards from his home. Blood stains were also discovered on the bushes in several places in the vicinity. Nothing has been heard of the whereabouts of the

HENRY WARD BRECHER.

Hopes and Believes Cleveland Will be Elected and Gives tils Beasons. Evidently instigated by partisans of Mr. Blaine, a vonthful acquaintance of Henry Ward Beecher has addressed to him a letter making the following inquiry :

Can you advise young men to vote for Grover Cleveland? If the greatest and most elequent of Christian ministers favors the election of a conceded libertine, pray tell me what is to be expected from young men who find that such acts are not to be visited with reprobation from those to whom we have looked for years for counsel in morals and religion. It seems to me that no great Christian minister has ever so palpably held the destinies of good morals and religion in his hands as you do at this moment. To this young inquirer, and through him to his instigators Mr. Beecher has returned the following emphatic and convincing reply : PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Sept. 16, 1884 .- My Dear Sir: When you are older and have had a larger experience of public affairs and political othics you will regard the letter sent to me with far different eyes than you do now.

Who told you and by what authority do you state that Cleveland is a libertine notorious libertine? Do you regard slander as a part of morality? That story is Not a particle of evidence has slander. been adduced to prove that Cleveland is now an immoral man. That he fell in one instance, twelve years ago, he frankly admits. All the stories of continued dissipation have been searched and traced to the grogshop and the brothel. Not a single witness has even pretended that he knew anything personally, and only hearsay evidence has been bruited by men who ought to be ashamed to offer their ears as against Hostetter, charging him with rais sewers to dens of infamy to suffer their longues to commit adultery with notorious

As regards the sin of Cleveland in the Halpin case, when divested of the exaggerations, so far from being an encouragement to sin, it will be a vivid example and warning to ambitious young men to avoid evil and to maintain social Cleveland has already suffered los mortification and damage for the commialready suffered loss, sion of grisvous sin, and to-day it stands in his path with a rod of chastiser if he falls to gain the highest place in this government it will be by reason of that very transgression. That he will be elected I both hope and believe, but the chief danger to his ambition to-day springs from that sin of twelve years ago. Is there no warning in that? no voice to young men If I believed Cleveland to be a libertine I would drop him instantly. I do not believe it I regard him as a grossly slandered man for political burposes, and that abuse, instead of deterring me from supporting him, appeals very strongly to my generosity and chivalry. That he is a prudent man, honestly and earnestly desir ing to administrate every trust faithfully and loyally, I have no doubt. My message to every young man is, beware of his mistake of yea wage and imitate his virtues of day. HENRY WARD BEECHER During the Plymouth church service

Sunday evening, to an inquiry concerning the authenticity of this letter, Mr. Beecher replied emphatically :-"Yes, sir, I wrote it, and I stand by every word of it."

THE SKATING RINK OPENED.

Brilliant Scene in Which Not Less Than The Lancaster skating rink was formally opened Saturday evening. The spectacle was a most brilliant one. The large buildog, a complete description of which appeared in these columns a few days ago, was brilliantly illuminated with electric lights and decorated with hundreds of flags, banners and Chinese lanterns, and the girders supporting the roof were wrapped in red, white and blue muslin. Not less than 1,000 persons were present, the platforms and galleries being packed, while nearly 400 skaters were on the floor The sport was not only greatly enjoyed by those who indulged in it, but also by the lookers on. The skaters were of all ages and both sexes, and many of them glided over the smooth floor with rare grace. The City cornet band was in attendance and played a number of fine waltzes and schottisches, while the happy skaters kept base hit, but he was kept there by the sharp fielding of the Ironsides. When he closed, the floor was again crowded with Lancaster skaters, and the sport was kept up until 10 o'clock, when the rink was closed. Mr. Stowell has certainly scored an immense success, and there is no doubt he will be well repaid for his heavy outlay in building and equipping the Lancaster skating rink.

Prof. Norris will give an exhibition of this week, and the City band will also be in attendance every evening.

noon last. The Quarryville band was in attendance during the afternoon and even ing and discoursed most excellent music At four o'clock the meeting was called to order in the church, and l'enningtou Moore, esq., was selected as chairman. The exercises were opened with music by the choir, consisting of Misses Swisher, Soule and Hogg and Messrs, Hogg and Soule. A prayer was then offered up by Rev. J. B. Soule, the pastor, after which P. G., W. A. Wilson, of Lancaster ledge No. 67, delivered an interesting and eloquent address on the princi ples of the order. After another selection by the choir in which the magnificent voice of the paster was the prominent feature, the meeting adjourned to the grove. Towards evening the youth and beauty of the neighborhood passed in until there was hardly standing room in the grove All that one could desire was to be had except alcoholic beverages which were regidly excluded. The festival was a great success. In the course of the evening Simon Swisher, e.q., on behalf of the lady managers of the festival, presented the speaker of the day with a large lady cake richly iced and adorned with the emblems of Odd Fellowship. Mr. Wilson made an appropriate reply, thanking them for their kindness. At a late hour the festival closed with an auction of the remaining delicacies which realized a very handsome

This morning at 10 o'clock, Alderman Barr heard the civil suit of Justice Evans, of Columbia, vs. the county of Lancaster, to recover $4.50 fees claimed for returns to quarter sessions court. The 'squire was not represented by counsel and the county commissioners by county Solicitor Pry and E. K. Martin. The 'squire presented his brief rolating the acts of Assembly under which he claimed the amount of h bill. The county's attorney claimed that he was not entitled to the fees charged because the fee bill says, "for recognizance and return to court, 50 cents," and that amount he has been paid on all these cases. They further presented as an offset, bills or $269.90. which they claimed illegally drawn by the justice on September 27, 1878, and November 8, 1878. bills were made up of cases of drunken ness and disorderly conduct, in which the parties were committed to the borough lockup, for which they alleged that the county was not responsible, the act of Assembly requiring their commitment to the county prison to make the county liable. The alderman reserved his decision until Wednesday.

NO STICK IN THEIRS."

PROBIBITION COUNTY CONVENTION Mr. Blame Severely Denounced for Bodglag the Problem Amendment - A

County Commutee Appointed. A county convention of the friends of Prohibition met in the second story of Fulton hall, at 10 o'clock this morning. Although the attendance was not so large as was expected there was present a fair representation of many of the best nown temperance workers in the coun-

The convention was called to order by James Black, esq., of this city, who read the call issued for the convention, by the county committee.

Joseph H. Brosius, of Sadsbury, was president of the convention by acolamation. Rev. Joseph Turner, of the Little Britain Presbyterian church, led the convention in prayer, after which Clarence B. Hershey, of Mount Joy, was chosen acc retary.

James Black, esq., then addressed the convention at length, claiming that no true Prohibitionist could vote for either the Democratic or Republican candidates for president. The Democratic platform in words opposes what it choses to call sumptuary laws. The Republican platform better, and Blaine the Republican candidate after working to secure the Prohibition vote of Maine for the Republican State ticket deliberately dodged voting on the Prohibition amendment, for fear of fancy skating at 9 o'clock every evening harting his chances with the liquor interest To show the strength of Prohibition and the weakness of Blaine, even in his own state, Mr. Black said that the Prohibition amendment which Blaine dodged was carried by 60,000 majority while Blaine's ticket even with the assistance given it by the Temperance party eccured only 20,000 majority. Mr. Black called upon every friend of Probibition to vote for St. John and Daniels, the only candidates who can be trusted on this most important issue, that concerts our homes, and our happiness here and hereafter. Mr. Black next addressed himself to the discussion of county affairs, and declared that there were not on both the county tickets nominated half a dozen r m whom Pro-hibitionis a could vote for.

addressed the convention He said it was every man's duty to vote at primary or ab general elections, and when the old parties failed to nominate suitable candi dates the people should nominate others We must have a ticket we can conscientionsly support. We should not stop to inquire whether or not we can elect it We should do what is right and trust to God for results.

Rev. Wm. Powick, of the West Mission M. E. church of this city, was the next speaker. He said he had always been heoretically a temperance man, but not practically a Prohibitionist. Now and sence forth he should vote for Prohibitionists only. He had eartfully considered the question and could not conscientiously do otherwise. At first he was mortifled to hear that Blaine had dodged the vote on the Prohibition amendment in Maine, but now he was rather glad of it. In dodging he has been consistent with him self and his party which for years has been cheating the temperance people empty promises they have failed to fulfill. He concluded by saying he would see his old party sink to the bottom of the sea before he would vote for a candidate that gave his support to, or tasted, touched or handled the accursed drink, Rev. F. M. Brady, of Colerain, was the next speaker. He recounted repeated instances of double-dealing to which the Republican managers had resorted for the purpose of hoodwinking temperance voters, He said the time has now come when the Prohibitionists must cut loose from the old parties and rely upon their own strength. Rev. J. B. Soule, of the Colerain Baptist shurch, said he had been brought up as a Democrat, but cut loose from the Demo cratic party in 1854, because of its bad record on the slavery question, and he there remained a slave in the United States. He kept that yow, and now makes another: that he will not henceforth vote for any candidate of any party who is not opposed to rum-drinking and the rum

Dr. J. A. Martin, of Strasburg, pledged himself to stand by the candidates of the Prohibition party.

George N. LeFevre, of Strasburg, was sorry that there were two kinds of tem peracce people—those who merely tacked temperance and those who voted temperance. The former really favor Prohibition, but don't want "to throw their votes ourt in nine cases, returned to the August | away," and therefore vote for one of the old party tickets. He showed the fallacy of the position of these people, and arged that the only way to bring about a tem porance reform is to ent loose from the old parties and strike new for Prohibition.

> the other speakers had said, adding that there was only one true temperature principle, and that was Prohibition. Mr. Jamison related some instances of the horrors of the rum traffic, and the beneticence which follows a reform from the vice of drunkenness. Geo. LeFevre moved that a committee
