Bidding yrance and Germany to Not Arouse the Dormant English Spirit—Duagers of Socialism in Germany.

Paris, Oct. 2 — Jules Valles, the celebrated communard, in an article published in the Le Matin Francaise, bids Germans and Frenchmen to beware of rousing the dormant spirit of Englishmen. He says that although England has no immense standing army, in the event of war, soldiers would spring from the ground. The whole militia and volunteers, in fact every man able to use a rifle, would rally around the "Union Jack." Jack."

He warms Garmany of the presence in that country of Socialism, which is an ever menseing danger, and at whose bidding regiments may lay down their arms. The article concludes; "Beware lest this silent race, whose voice is raised only amid the cannon, don their red coats to ociebrate La Feteau Sang."
