WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOV. 5, 1894.

Associate of Tennyson. From the Home Journal.

Lord Tennyson is not often here, is he? said the inquisitive scribe of an old poetman who took the tickets at the opera show, and who occasionally waits at fashionable houses where the poets receive company.

"No, he doesn't often come here in the season. People follow him so."

"What sort of a looking person is his lordship?"

"Lordship! We don't often call him a lord about here. Wasn't made one more than three or four months ago. We call him Mr. Tennyson. A nice old gent he is, only he isn't better clothed than a scarecrow. Wears an old soft felt hat dragged down to his nose, which is a long one, and has a long mustash and beard, with an old coat as is green with age."

"Is he liked in the neighborhood?"

"Yes; he's a kind old gent, and we all like him hereabouts."

"I suppose you are rather proud of having a great poet in the locality?"

"The old man seemed to think the honor not such a tremendous one as it might be. He'd like to see the man who was the author of 'Maud'."

Railway collision in Virginia.

A way freight train on the Virginia Midland railway collided with the east bound Manassas passenger train at Aconoc bridge, eleven miles from Alexandria, Va., Tuesday morning, smashing three passenger trains, and killing Judge James Langston, of Fairfax, and Frank Carlin, the express messenger, were slightly injured. Malcolm Brown, the engineer on the passenger train, and two women men were also injured. A car with physicians has gone to the scene of the accident.

A Uttermost smoker. From the Paris Morning News.

Readers of F. Marion Crawford's novels will remember that some character in each of them is persistently smoking a cigarette. It is said that the novelist himself cultivates the habit. When writing he has a little Roman bowl full of tobacco and a book of cigarette paper at his elbow, and whenever he pauses for thought the time is utilized to manufacture a fresh cigarette. A favorite cat lies at his feet, on which the cigar is inserted. 'T'm F. M. Crawford's cat; whose cat are you?' and two tiny lovebirds in a rustic cage, that was once in Sam Ward's rooms on Clinton place, stand near the window.

Get the best eyes. The Diamond Dyes for family use have no equals. All popular colors easily dyed fast and beautiful. A nice package of dyes, Waik, Richardson & Co., Burlington Vt., samples sent. 32 colors, and book of directions for coloring.

Letter from J. Malcolm Smith, Clerk of Westminster County, New York, for Nine Years.

With PLAIN, N. Y., Nov. 7, 1893. I have for many years been troubled at times with muscular rheumatism and neuralgia pains, and have always found Alcock's Porous Plasters to be quick and efficient in affording relief.

In December last I had an attack of Pleuronia, which left one of my lungs in a weak and extremely sensitive condition, accompanied at times with severe pain. The application of one plaster raised the pain in a short time, and I have worn one almost constantly since, as a protection to the weakened lung.

I have used Alcock's Porous Plasters for myself and family for over twenty-five years, always with speedy and beneficial results, and do not hesitate to recommend them for their mild counter-irritant, cooling and sedative efficiency in relieving soreness of the skin and other pains of a rheumatic or neuralgic nature.

J. MALCOLM SMITH, Clerk of Westminster County, New York.
