HOW HE ESCAPED.

The Strange Story of a Doctor's Personal Experience.

Syracuse, N. F., Herald.

The Herald lays the following statement before its readers with the assurance that it is undoubtedly true in every particular. The writer is a well and widely known citizen and his case is familiar to a large number of our readers.

writer is a well and widely known citisen and his case is familiar to a large number of our readers:

To the Editor of the Herald: Sin: I dislike the notoriety of a newspaper letter over my own signature but in this matter duty compels me. As many are aware I was for years in a feeble condition, many people expecting my death at any time. In 1879, while at Denver, Coi. I was attacked with a mysterious hemorrhage. I lost 20 hs. of feeh in three weeks. I came home unterly broken down. My physicians said some peculiarity of the western climate produced the disorder. I made the journey again a fow months later, howey r, without ill effects, but on my return home I was prostrated with pustumonia. My left lung soon entirely filled, and my legs and body became twice their natural size. I was obliged to sit upright in bed for several weeks in the midst of the severest agony, with my arms over my head. I was in constant fear of sufficialities. When the phounonis absted the hemorrhages returned. My legs were twisted with cramps, my askin was very hot and dry, my blood circulated unevenly, my mouth was parched. I was to omented with the pains of gravel and muous in my fluids, and my back ached excruciatingly.

I did not know what was my especial disoder, but in 18si, a council of five of the best physicians in Syracuse add I could not possibly recover. They advised me to try the virtues of a certain mineral spring. With put ui helplessness i dragged my self o the cars, but was obliged to stop over at Worcester, Mass. There I was again thoroughly examined by fitteen physicians, who concurred that I was incurable. Nevertheless, I continued my 'ourney to the serings, remained there several weeks, but returned home without benefit or hope.

My disorder was for years sapping and mining my constitution before the final at-

'ourney to the serings, remained there several weeks, but returned home without benefit or hope.

My disorder was for years sapping and mining my constitution before the final attack was made. First I not chills and fever then severe and protracted cold, then restlessness at night, nervous irrivability by day constitution to catarri, pain in the chest torpidity of the position to catarri, pain in the chest torpidity of headage and dull sensation in the base of the brain. For five years painful rheumatic pains affected my knee. Stomach and bowel derangements came in their turn, with an occasional fluttering of my heart, and an inability to draw a long breath; quick fatigue followed much conversation; irregularity of appetite ancceeded. First pains of a neuralgic order fitted about my body, and siter a day of hard work, my arms would feel numb. so toften had fears of paralysis. So terrible at times did my back and arms ache that at the closs of work I would lie on my couch for an hour with arms upraised in wain attemnt for relief. After a night of restlessness and hallucinations, I would awake in the morning with such a distressing hesdacts that I could not arise until I had drunk a cup of strong coffee or tea.

The disease which had fastened on me during all these years my physicians said was Bright's disease of the kidneys, pronounced by every medical authority to be incurable Having synhausted all authorized remedies, I dismissed my medical authorized remedies, I dismissed my medical authorized in December.

by every medical atthority to be incurable by every medical attendants and began the use of warner's safe cure in December. Isl. I faithfully persevered for two and one-half years, and it has saved my life and restored my health. when the my life and restored my health. I could not recover. I have taken over 200 bottles, following all diet rates and directions.

I have hitherto refrained from publishing details of my case, because I wished to secure permanent effects before stating results, but as I have been comparatively a well man for the last two years and able to attend to my business daily, wholly through the preparation named, I feel that I ought to spread its merits before the world. If you see fit to publish what I have written I shall be gratified.

Nos. 411 to 417 N. Mulberry St.,

Wm. Wohlsen. A that dely competition at HARTMAN'S YELLOW FRONT CIGAR

rear - Recommending the Extension of the Free Bellvery system.

In his report to the postmaster general upon the operation of his office during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1884, Acting First Assistant Postmaster General James H. Marr says the most esential feature was a steady growth and development. The number of new postoffices established during the fiscal year was greater than for several previous years, and the number discontinued much less than last year, making the increase much larger than was anticipated. The free delivery division has accomplished all that could be expected considering the amount appropriated for the service; yet there still remains several offices which are entitled under the law to its benefits, but to which service cannot be extended until the appropriation for the purpose shall have been increased.

The number of postoffices established during the year was 3,414, an increase of 161 over the preceding year. The number discontinued was 1,260, a decrease of 361, making the net increase 522. The whole number of postoffices on June 80, 1883, was 50,017; the number filled by presidential appointment was 2,323, and the number filled by the postmasters general was 47,694. A total of 11,958 appointments of postmasters was made during the year. The net increase in the general was 47,694. A total of 11,958 ap pointments of postmasters was made during the year. The net increase in the whole number of postoffices during the year was 2,154; much larger than any increase for several years. The greatest was 1,070, in the frontier Southern states, and Indian Territory. The greatest increase in any of the states and territories was 156 in Texas. The number of money order offices at the close of the fiscal year was 6,248 an increase of 386 over the previous year. The largest increase in any was 6 248 an increase of 356 over the pre-vious year. The largest increase in any state was 80 in New York.

Of the free delivery service the report says: "Long experience has shown that this system of delivery is more acceptable to the people than the old mode of office delivery; that it is more accurate and thorough; that it roduces the number of dead letters; that it stimulates mail and local correspondence and increases the postage on local matter; that it saves time and money to the people and yields a larger surplus of postage on local matter alone, above its cost, notwithstanding this class of matter for which it gets credit is only about 25 per cent, of the matter handled by the carriers. In view of these facts I do not hesitate to advise that the law governing the establishment of this system be so changed as to authorof this system be so changed as to authorize its extension to places of 10,000 inhabitants, provided the postal revolue for the preceding fiscal year at such places amounted to $10,000; also, that in case of several postoffices in the same city or place, the revolues from all the offices may be aggregated and taken as a standard entitling such places to this system, provided it has the required population. I provided it has the required population. I would also call attention to a class of owns in the more densely settled portions of the country, within short distances o one another, each with its separate post-office, which cannot be reached by the law as it now stands, having in the aggregate the required population and revenue, but none of which singly reaches the require-ments of the law, viz., 20,000 population and $20,000 postal revenue. The law should be so changed as to allow of the aggrega-tion of the population and postal revenues of these towns, and when they meet the In vite the special attention of Ladies to the requirements of population and revenue this system should be extended. This could easily be done by establishing the service at the most important and central and discontinuing the others or substituting branches of the central offices. The result would be diminution in the number of offices and a more intelligent, economical, and satisfactory system."

A Political Reminispence.

From the Boston Fost.
"Rutherford," said Mrs. Hayes, as she "Rutherford," said Mrs. Hayes, as she watched that gentleman allowly mixing the meal for the chickens which were peeping about him waiting to be fed, "Rutherford, they say that that man Cleveland is really elected." "So I've heard," answered Mr. Hayes as he filled the dough dish and listened to the plaintive peep of a little chick evidently coming down with pip; "but they'll probably be able in some way to count him out. You know we counted out Tilden eight years ago. Now that was a curious affair. You see," he continue contemplatively, as he knocked over with his spoon an adventurous chick that was climbing into the dough dish, "when they counted out Til—" "Mr. Hayes," cried Lucy with a frown, "will you look after those chickens and then count out the eggs for market?" And as the ex-occupant of the White House went back to his work and began to get the eggs ready for market he thought of the good old times of 1876 and absently counted out eight eggs into a space that only held seven.

The Industrial Sugmation Explained.

The Inquetrial Stagnation Explained. From Financial Article in the N. Y. Times.

The farmer was getting such low prices for his products, that there was no margin left for the railroads to make anything on carrying them. Having sold enough to meet their more pressing wants, the farming classes were looking up the remainder in the hope of getting better prices later; and in the meantime, they were buying as little as possible, because they were sulling so little. New enterprises were at a standatili, and there was a general disposition to shave everything down to the closest limits. The effect on the margade from Financial Article in the N. Y. Times.

THE POSTOFFICE REPORT.

SOME STATISTICS OF INTEREST.

A Met Increase of $154 Postemers to One Year-Recommending the Extension of the Free Bellivery System.

In his report to the postmaster general appeals to the courts to stop it; but in the west, the railroads are and have been for weeks past, carrying passengers 400 and 500 miles for one dollar; and there are no signs of an end to the strife yet apparent. That would seem to be a good case for the courts, but we hear nothing about appeals to them. The facilities of production and certainly of transportation seems to have temporarily outstripped population; production is in excess of consumption, and until the relations of both get down nearer to an equality, there is little hope for an improvement in railroad business. These are the opinion of one of our prominent railroad men; a gentleman whose interests, if he has any in the stock market, are all on the buil side. When men in his position, and of such wide and varied experience have to confess the situation to be this, it seems safe to say that we are in the Osborne, steam fitter, and H. Winter, saloon keeper Osborne's loss is estimated at $25,000. Winter's loss is not stated. The railroad offices were damaged by water about $2,000. The intense heat broke the heavy plate glass windows in powers, Durkee & Co.'s wholesale dry goods store across the street. The loss is estimated at $5,000. The total loss on Wann's building and contents is stated at $75,000.
