HEAD THAT OUTWEIGHS THE BODY Tertibly Deformen Mineteen-Tear-Old Teunessee Girl-The Long Fast of a Feminine New Yorker,

A remarkable case of hydrocephalus was discovered a few days ago near Chickamauga, Tenn. Nineteen years ago there was born to the wife of Armour Dobbins a lovely girl baby. When the child had reached the age of three months an unnatural growth of the head began to develop, which continued until it was two years of age, when it had assumed develop, which continued until it was two years of age, when it had assumed alarning proportions. The general health of the child was good, though at the age of two years the growth ceased, having attained the remarkable dimensions of 31<sub>1</sub> inches around the forchead and 27 inches access the orown of its head from ear to ear. The face of this remarkable being is no larger than that of an ordinary person while the head looks as large as a waterbucket. The length of the body now, i straightened, would not be over three feet and about the dimensions of a well de-veloped two year-old child. The whole body is horribly deformed, the hips being drawn back until they nearly reach the shoulders, the bending of the spine draw-ing back the lower extremities There is but little flesh on the legs, the thighs not being over three inches in circumference

The arns are but little larger than pipe stems, and are also nearly devoid of flesh. The body will not weigh as much as the head, the whole not weighing over forty pounds. The features are frightful to ook upon, being terribly out of shape, the teeth projecting far beyond the lips. The bair is flaxen about two feet long, very coarse, and lies in wild profusion around the head of the unfortunate being. For seventeen years, since its present growth, the girl has never been able to move her body, but can move her hands and feet, having little strength, however, in these limbs. At times she shows some ntelligence and can make her wants known to her mother. At times she tries to talk, her voice resembling that of a parrot. One peculiarity is that while lying in bed, owing to the extraordinary protuberance of the eyes, she can follow the movements of any one in the room, being able to se all passing at the head of her bed. He health is good, except that she is subject to occasional fits or spasms. She sleeps well, but her devoted mother remain constantly with her.

Hydrocephalus is caused by the accumu lation of water in the interstices of the brain and head. Many physicians here consider this the most remarkable case known to medical science. While the dis ease is common in medical practice, cases are rarely cured, except in infants. Death cenerally ensues in a few years at farthest. When this case began to develop, the best medical talent of the vicinity was obtained but nothing be done, and the parents took their child to Fort Smith, Ark., the physicians there stating that to tap and draw th water from the head would cause instant death.

KATE SMULZEY'S LONG PAST.

inking into a Deep Sleep on the 263d Day and Her Death Bourly Expected.

The residents of Fort Plain, N. Y , have nquired anxiously all day regarding the condition of Kate Smulzey, who alleges taking of any liquids. One psculiarity of the case is that she only desires to sleep from one to two hours out of the twenty four. Wednesday night she sank into a deep sleep and failed, and the physicia a bed. Don't you remember how the beroice of "She Stops to Conquer" bags her game-I mean wins a hu band-by letting him view her at such housework? My advice to girls, in cases where a desir-able young man happens to be a guest in the house, is not to disdain all connection with household affairs, with the idea of impressing him with your too goodness for that kind of thing, but instead to find some excuse for becoming chambermaids, some excuse for becoming dnambermaids, so that the visitors may see you transform a tousled bed into a snowy, slick and entrancing one. If the job be done defuly it is sure to be potent in its effect on the fellow who beholds it. But there are things which are dangerous for a girl to do at home in the presence of her admirer. Going upstairs is one of her admirer. Going upstairs is one of them. It is easy enough to descend with sprightly grace, but I defy any living being in skirts to ascend without awkward-ness. In the current play at Daly theatre two of the acts have for a scene an in-terior in which a broad staircase leads directly back from the rear. The charac-ters go up and down prompted timeters go up and down uncounted times. The women are personating fine ladies and wear the most fashionable of dresses. On the stage level they are objects of esti-mable regard; but the instant they begin to mount those dreadful stairs they be-come camels, elephants, anything that walks grotesquely with the hind legs. They wabble from side to side, they strain every gusset and seam in their clothes they threaten to burst their corset strings their joints seem to refuse all customary action, and the outlines presented by their backs bear no semblance to their normal shapeliness. It is clear to my mind that nature never intended that women should go up up-stairs, for I don't believe an angel, if feminine, could mount the golden stair other than absurdly.

"My wife has been a severe sufferer with indigestion, and kidney and liver troubles. I feared it would terminate in Bright's Disesse, as there were the symptom. She commenced using Husr's [Ridney and Liver] Respon-and found by the use of only one bottle she had been relieved."-R.S. B. Armstrong, Au-burn, N.Y. u201wdcod&w
