AN AUTRESS' BUDY INCINERATED. The Second Cremation at the Lancaster Crematerium Winter a Work,

The body of Miss Laura G. Claucy, the young Baltimore actress, who died recently in that city and whose remains have since her death been in the vanit of a Baltimore cometery, was cremated at the Lancaster orematorium at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Her remains arrived on the train from York at 12:55 p. m.

Miss Laura G. Clancy was one of the sisters of a family well known in dramatic She was at one time a member of Frank Mayo's company and as such ap-peared here in "Davy Crockett." She peared here in "Davy Crockett." She also supported Mary Anderson. Her sister Venie, now also deceased, has appeared here as Gabriel in "Evangeline." Miss Laura, who was 21 years of age, had been in delicate health for a long time and failed to attain on a visit to a sister in Nordhoff, Cal., last summer the restoration for which here summer the restoration for which her friends had hoped. Foreseeing the end she came on to Baltimere in the fall to visit a friend Mrs. Leinbach, and during her illness there spoke freely of her impending death. She expressed a desire to have her body cremated, and waited with anxious interest the completion of the Laucaster cramatorium ; the frequently said to her friend that she would die about that time and hoped to be ready for the dedicatory services here. In this she was disappointed, but her wishes have been respected to the letter by her relatives and friends, who accompany her remains to

Mr. and Mrs. H. Leinbach, Mr. J. N. Gardner, a business man of Baltimore and a representative of the Baltimore Ameri can, who was an acquaintance of deceased, came to Lancaster with Miss Clancy's remains. She had died at Mr. Leinbach's on November 10th, and the body was encased in a coffin. It was taken upon a hearse to the crematorium, the friends accompanying it. The furnace had been heated up to the requisite temperature and the simple necessary preparations had all been made. The only ceremony was performed by Mr. Gardner, who read the poem "I Still Live," written by A. W. Sprague, over the remains be they were consigned to the retort.

Mr. Gardner, who is an ardent believer in the refined process of cremation, says b has been giving at ention to the subject for two years; and, besides the services which he performs for deceased and her friends in coming here, has an object in investigating methods of cremation, to satisfy him-self and others that it is as practicable as it is sensible and humane in theory.

It is the intention of deceased's relatives to remain in the city until the ashes are ready to be removed. They will then be divided and placed into two urns, one to be buried in Baltimore and the other on the golden shores of the Pacific. The management of the crematorium expects at an early day to be able to satisfy the demand for urus to deposit the ashes of the incinerated. An appropriate and artistic design is in preparation.

Owing to the condition of the atmos phere the necessary temperature was not reached uctil about 4:30 p. m. to day, and the incincration was not begun until that

The Way They Do 14.

There is a great deal of complaint in this city over the patchy and irregular way in which street work is done under the present administration. One promi-nent citizen, who showed us his receipt for $357 93 city tax paid this year, and who happens to be a Democrat, complains that in consequence of a neighbor's gutter being raised an elevation of his was rendered necessary. A year ago half of it was raised by th municipal authorities after several months effort to have it done. Since then the balance of the gutter has been filled with dirt and debris. On Tuesday last the city employes began the work of finishing the gutter; kept at it on Tuesday and Wednes day and then left off before it was done the street meanwhile being obstructed with debris. This morning the same gentleman discovered that the street hands were at work on the premises or Postoffice Clerk Wm. M. Oster, while his gutter is still unfinished. He is naturally curious to know if a Demogratic taxpayer has any rights that a Republican street commis-sioner is bound to respect. The Methodist Centennary.

The Methodist Episcopai church was hundred years ago. In commemoration of the event, provision was recently made that in the churches there should be a thanks-offering made for some religious ducational or charitable purpose.

At the Duke street church, this city, the celebration took place on Sunday morning and the thanks-offering was assessed at $4,000 to be applied to the liquidation of a debt of $3 500 on the parsonage, and the balance to go into the preachers' aid society for the use of superannuated preachers. There was no preaching during the service, the entire session being taken up in re-ceiving offerings, and in prayer and singing. The congregation was a very large and jubitant one, and before the meeting closed not only was the $4 000 subscribed, but the subscriptions had raised up to $4,300; Everybody was happy and not a few

Everybody was happy and not a lew present were willing to open the books and double their subscriptions.

In the evening a congratulatory sermon was preached by the pastor J. J. Satchen.

The mayor disposed of eleven cases yes-terday and this morning. Ton were lodgers and were discharged, and one, a drunk, paid costs.

The police reported twelve gasoline lamps as not burning on Saturday and Sunday nights. All the electric lights were reported as burning.

This evening the electric lights will not be supplied to the company desirbe lit, the employes of the company desir-ing to clean the boilers. They have not been cleaned and overhauled since the works started last December.

Washington, Dec. 1.—The galleries of the House were filled with spectators this morning, to view the opening proceedings. Numerous floral designs ornamented the desks of favorite members. The members indulged in the usual greetings, exchanging congratulations on re-election or condolence on defeat. The Republicans made good-natured replies to the equally good-natured replies to the equally good natured chaffing of the Democrats on the result of the presidential contest, and no bitterness has been manifested on either side. Promptly at noon the speaker called the house to order and the chaplain opened the session with prayer. The roll disclosed the presence of 222 members. A committee was appointed to wait upon the president, in conjunction with a similar committee from the Senate, and inform him that Congress is ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make. The presidents message opens by re-ferring to the recent presidential election and says it is a matter of congratulation that notwithstanding the intense fervor of the campaign, the public peace has suffered no disturbance, thus signally demonstrating the strength and wisdom of our political institutions. The president then refers to the electoral distute eight years ago, and says it is of the greatest importance that this question be solved before conflicting claims to the presidency shall again distract the country. Our relations with all foreign powers continue CHILLS and FEVER and NEURALGIA.

By rapid and thorough assimilation with the blood, it reaches every part of the system, purifies and enriches the blood, strengthens the muscles and nerves, and tones and invigorates the system:

The true interpretation of the recent treaty with China, permitting the restriction of Chinese immigration, is likely to be again the subject of debate. It may be questioned whether the statute passed at the last session does not violate the treaty rights of certain Chinese who left here with return certificates, valid under the old law and who now seem to be debarred from relanding for lack of the certificates required by the new. Pursuant to the advice of the Senate at An unfailing remedy for diseases of the Liver and Kidneys.

BROWN CHEMICAL CO. the last session, the president has recog-nized the flag of the international association of the Congo, and appointed a commercial agent for the Congo basin. The importance of the rich prospective trade of that valley leads to the general conviction that it should opened to all nations on equal terms, and the United States now has delegates in attendance at the international conference on that subject now sitting in Berlin. In referring to other foreign affairs the presi dent says that with France the traditional cordial relation continue and suggests that Congress take action in recognizing the spirit which has compelled her to give us the statue of "Liberty Enlightening the

After a reference to the international relations with Spain, the president alludes to a treaty that will bring about closer commercial relations with the Spanish West Indies. He speaks approvingly of the effort to increase commerce with the Central and South American states. He recommends that the scope of our neutrality laws be so enlarged as to cover all patent acts of hostility committed in our territory against a friendly nation. Since our statutes were framed molern ingenuity has supplied means for organization of hostilities without open resort to filibus-tering (parties. This question concerns our national honor. Our naturalization laws also need revision, being in some points ambigious or obsolete. The legis-tion of last session has produced some embarassment in the diplomatic service and the president trusts Congress will make provision for all the needs of the service. A community of 60,000,000 should be adequately represented abroad. The total ordinary receipts for the last fiscal year were $348 519,869, and the expenditures $290,916,478, leaving a surplus of $57,603,396. As compared with the preceding fiscal year there was not decrease of over $21,000,000 in expenditures. The aggregate receipts were about $54,000,000 less than those of the year previous. The falling off in the revenue from customs, made up nearly $20,000,000 of this deficiency, and about $23,000,000 of the remainder. mainder was due to the diminished re ceipts from internal taxation.

In reviewing Secretary McCulloch's re port the president concurs in recommend-ing the immediate suspension of the coinage of silver dollars and the issuance of silver certifiates and says he hopes the secretary's suggestions re-spect the withdrawal from circu-lation of one and two dollar notes will receive approval. Some provision should be made for the surrender of the trade dollars to the government at a slight advance over their bullion value. The president then renews his recommendation that all excise taxes, except those relating to distilled spirits be abolished. He suggests that measures be taken to increase our foreign trade by the appointment of a commission. He recommends that American shipping be cared for by liberal payments for mail transportation. He believes, regarding national banks, that they may be allowed a larger circulation and safety. He congratulates the country for the freedom from Indian outbreaks.

He urges strongly therestoration of the navy and repeats his recommendation of last year that the single rate postage on drep letters be reduced to one cent wherever two cents now required by law, and approves the recommendation of the postmaster general that the unit of waight master general that the unit of weight in the rating of first-class matter be one ounce instead of a half once. A special stamp for exceptional dispatch is suggested. He advises the enactment of statutes respecting the legal complications over lapsed grants to railroad companies, and the effectual funding of the debt of the several Pacific railroads. He recommends the most radical constitutional measures to stamp out polygamy.

He declares that the policy of increasing our foreign trade is most complex.

The cetablashment of a consular service on a salaried footing is suggested. As darrying marine is spoken of favorably is also an uniform currency for the countries of America. The remendations on the trade with these of America. are quite lengthy.
