A HUMANTIO OBIGAGO STORY. Mandama How a roung Mock

Prom the Chieses free-free.

A rought little story reached the cars of a reporter of the The Inter Ocean yearing. It touches on sickness, pills and live. A certain charming young lady living in one of the southern suburbs was taken acricualy ill a few weeks ago. Her parents, who are quite wealthy, employed the best medical talent obtainable, but the sorthy disciples of medicines who examined her pronounced her case incurable, and said that she was beyond human aid. The parents were in despair. By some accident the father heard of a young doctor who had but recently located in the village and whose list of patients was not at all large, but who had ever gives satisfaction when called upon. He was asked to see the sick girl. He called, looked at the patient steadily, then turned to the anxious parents and said, firmly and decisively:

"I can save your daughter !"
"Do you think so ?" was the excited

'I know so !" was the positive answer. "Save my daughter and name your price for your services," exclaimed the loving father.
"Then I must have entire charge of the

As the other doctors had given no en conragement whatever for her recovery the case was readily placed in the young physician's hands. He went to work, patiently, earnestly; took entire charge of his fair patient; watched over her day and night. In a week she began to improve; two weeks found her out of dauger; three weeks she could sit up, and at the end of four weeks she was well and could take long drives with her devoted doctor. He had indeed redeemed his pledge—had saved

One day, after the complete recovery the young lady was positively assured, the father called the young doctor into his library. Taking him by the hand he said: ng man, you have saved by daughter. I told you if you did so you would be com-pensated at whatever price you chose to fix your services. I am now ready to carry out my part of the agreement, as you have so nobly done your work."
"Do you really wish to pay me my own price?" asked the young doctor anxiously.

"Then I ask you to give your daughter to me in marriage," was the unexpected

The old gentlemen was naturally a little nished at the nature of the answer. He hesitated a moment, then touched a bell. A servant answered. "Tell Hattie to step here," was the command. "In a minute the daughter entered the room. The father and the young doctor stood facing one another.

"Hattie," said the old gentleman, "do you feel that you have fully recovered?"

"I am as well as ever, father." "Do you imagine what your doctor wishes in compensation for his services in saving your life?" was the sternly put

"No," said the girl anxiously, "but I am sure he deserves anything reason-

"But I consider his charge extortion ato," was the emphatic rejoinder.
"What is it father? I feel sure that Doctor - would not be unreasonable."

"Not unreasonable! why, Hattie, he asks that I consent to his making you his What have you to say to that?' Hattie blushed violently for a minute; her little foot played with the rug on the floor; then looking archly, first at her father and next to the young doctor, who had meautime uttered no word, she said "You say, father, when I was sick all the other doctors gave me up and assured

"Yes, my daughter." "And Doctor —— took my case under those circumstances, told you he would save me, and nursed me back to health "Yes."

"Then, father; it strikes me that if I was an auditing committee and had to pass upon this bill, I'd argue that the one who brought me back to my health from apparent death would be pretty safe for me to be intrusted to when health was fully regained. I would check his bill O K., and say nothing about extertionate The wedding will be duly celebrated in a very short time.

LETTER FROM SENATOR H. C. RELSON BENATE CHAMBER. ALBANY, S. Y., April 4, 1888. On the 27th of February, 1883, I was taken with a violent pain in the region of the kidneys I suffered such agony that I could rdly stand up. As soon as possible I applied two Alto ck's l'orous Plasters, one over each kidney, and laid down. In an hour, to my suprise and delight, the pain had vanished and I was well. I wore the plasters for a day or two as a precaution and then removed them. I have been using ALLOCK's Poscus PLASTERS in my family for the last ten years, and have always found them the quickest and best perial remedy for coids, strains, kinks, and best parial remedy for coids, strains, kinks, and best placed believe they are the best plaster in the world.
