TUTICURA REMEDIRS.

CUTICURA:

A POSITIVE CURE FOR EVERY FORM OF BLOOD DISEASE, FROM PIMPLES

I have had the Psoriasis for nine months About five months ago I applied to a doctor near Boaton, who helped me, but unfortunately I had to leave, but continued taking the medicine for nearly three months, but the disease did not leave. I saw Mr. Carpenter's letter to the Philadelphia Record, and his case perfectly described mine. I tried the Curicura Remodels using two bottles Brackland Curicura Soar in proportion, and call myself completely cured.

In legislating upon a subject of so muc importance to the medical profession, the public good should be consulted. But we doubt whether the public good would be secured by an enactment which would bind the physicians of the dissenting schools hand and foot, and consign them to the tender mercies of their allopathic

Public good would be assured by an enactment which would secure the highest standard of attainments to the different medical colleges, and yet which would not give to any one school the power of crushing the other on account of its being numerically weaker, or of not being in the regular line of succession.

Unless we are prepared to take the narrow and arbitrary grounds of declaring to the people that they shall be doctored according to the theory of one school, we shall not venture by class legislation to put all other schools at the mercy of those who excel in numerical strength only.
We are not ready to do that, and the people do not favor it. The tendency of the nineteenth century is toward mental inlependence, personal right, and constitu-ional liberty.

The time was when only one system with the time was when the time wa The time was when only one system was legally sanctioned; now others enjoy legalized rights duly constituted under the authority of the law, and who now desir no monopoly, seek no protective statutes but demand an open field and fair play. Education will do much toward elevating and ennobling the medical profession, but proscription and class legislation will not do much in the work of preventing quaskery.

While all admit that a thorough knowl while all admit that a thorough knowl edge of anatomy, physiology, pathology, botany, toxicology, surgery, chemistry, hygiene, &c., are prerequisites, indispensible, still acknowledge of materia medica and the material agents employed in the treatment of disease and the bearing of the law upon which they are to be administrated constitute the part of the law upon which they are to be administered, constitute the part of his qualifications most vitally important in actual practice, and here his qualifications could or would not be known because few allopathic physicians are capable of makprobably none on the homopathic materia medica Another reason stated in this bill for the necessity of its creation is that there are too many physicians for the needs of closely settled districts. So by limiting the number of physicians there would be a better chance for obtaining a livelihood, and charging the dear people what they please, thus ignoring the generally con-ceded fact that competition is one of the great incentives to perfection in any calling. In doing this they tacitly concede their inability to compete on their own merits for public patronage, standing alone, as they do, in asking for legislative statutes which discriminate in their favor exclusively. In opposing this bill we would not be understood as upholding quackery or disparaging erudition, and no one would take exceptions to such laws as will protect its citizens against mistakes will protect its citizens against mistakes of incompetent practitioners, or such as would punish physicians and surgeons for malpractice. But we are contending for principle, for that heritage of inalienable right bequeathed to us by our sires of '76.

H. YEAGLEY. Our esteemed acresspondent misapprehends the position of this journal with regard to such legislation. While it is entirely true, as held by the INTELLIGENCER, that "any precautions that have for their object the protection of the public from incompetent practitioners must be hailed with joy," it is not so plain that the legislation favored by the local medical society will accomplish any such result. In fact, it will be found that legislation will not make good doctors any more than it will furnish good preachers, good lawyers, good dentists or suppress quacks in any of these professions. There are men who have the healing art in all the schools, and pretenders and impostors and bunglers and butchers masquerade under each of their several names. The colleges turn out practitioners of very uneven merit, and with widely varying knowledge of medicine and conceptions of professional honor and etiquette. We find about as much jealousy, distrust and animadversion of each other among the adherents of the same school as exist between disciples of different faiths in medicines.

It is hard to see how a board to be ap pointed by the governor, and to include representatives from the two leading schools would remedy this. It would be an extraordinary power to confer upon nine men the right to determine who should practice medicine in Pennsylvania; and what assurance is there that, as our correspondent suggests, the allopathic majority would not ignore and outvote the nomeopathic minority; or both combine to crush out the aspiring women doctors ; or that the Jefferson and University schools would not engage in unseemly strife to control the board and each to get the advantage for its graduates?

Or, if the doctors are to be examined, why not have this board analyze the vast quantities of patent medicine nostrums which are sold and with which so many people profess to heal themselves? And what about the magnetizers and powwowers in whose works so many have such implicit faith? The logic of such legislation as is proposed would be the creation of an authority with such extraordinary powers as to be an anomaly under our system of government. The truth is that the whole proposition is impractica-ble and absurd, and of a part with a great public advantage.

A specimen of this is the medical registration act of 1881, the enforcement of which in this locality, atter being unsuc-EDS INTELLIGENCER—A short editorial appeared in your paper a few days slose, apparently commending the action of the Lancaster County Medical society, in relation to establishing a board of medical examiners, with state jurisdiction, for the purpose of examining all persons who desire to enter upon the practice of medicine in Pennsylvania.

If the object in creating this board is to combine in the spirit of conciliation for the honorable purpose of elevating their professional standard, and of giving improved character to the medical profession and stability to medical colleges, with unity of purpose and action in that direction, then their motive is good. But the plan proposed for its accomplishment cannot be regarded with favor by any unprejudiced mind. This proposed law provides that the examining board shall consist of nine persons, seven of which the plan proposed for its accomplishment cannot be regarded with favor by any unprejudiced mind. This proposed law provides that the examining board shall consist of nine persons, seven of which the plan proposed for the accomplishment cannot be regarded with favor by any unprejudiced mind. This proposed law provides that the examining board shall consist of nine persons, seven of which the plan proposed for the accomplishment cannot be regarded with favor by any unprejudiced mind. This proposed law provides that the examining board shall consist of nine persons, seven of which the plan proposed for the believe the plan proposed for the believe the plan proposed for t before the faculty of one of the medical colleges or universities of this commonwealth for inspection; and the faculty, being satisfied as to the qualifications of the applicant and the genuineness of the diploms, shall direct the dean of the faculty to endorse the same, after which such person shall be allowed to register as required by section two of this act."

In Bauer's case he appears to have made an effort to comply with this regulation ; he applied to the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. Dr. Tyson, acting secretary of the faculty, talked with Dr. Bauer, looked at his diploma, and gave him a certificate, printed in blank and filled in by the secretary, with the name, nativity, residence, medical degree with date and name of institution conferring it, places of continuous practice and addressed it to the prothonotary of Columbia county, adding, "I have ex- Culty, Guilty, Guilty,

Thereupon the Columbia county prohonotary registered him, but the registry was stricken off by the court, on motion on the ground that the regulations of the act were not strictly complied with, in that the university secretary had issued a Black Diamond Cough Syru certificate to Bauer and had not "endorsed" the diploma. The registration being thus technically declared void, Dr. Bauer became liable to punishment for practicing medicine for gain without having registered, and was prosecuted, tried and convicted, and now awaits sentence The penalty prescribed in the act is a fine of one hundred dollars and imprisonment in the county jail for a term not exceeding one year-either or both, at the discretion of the court. Such a law as this-without regard to the merits of Bauer's case-can very easily be made an instrument of persecution and tyranny by men'and associations who are the worst of quacks; and no more of such legislation should be risked,—Eps. In-TELLIGENCER 1

Bulwer Lytton's Bridge. WHERE IT TOUCHES THE SHORES AND THE GREAT COLUMNS IN MID-STREAM.

WHERE IT TOUCHES THE SHORES AND THE GREAT COLUMNS IN MIDSTREAM.

"What a beautiful bridge between old age and childhood is religion. How intuitively the child begins with prayer and worship on entering life, and how intuitively, on quitting life, the old man turns back to prayer and worship, putting himself again side by side with the infant," remarks E. Bulwer Lytton in his "Strange Story."

Tes, but between its distant abutments the bridge of life has many high and awful arches, through which the wild waters dash and rowin wrath and desolation. Prayer and worship alone do not sustain these. Hatper's solid rocks must lie unshaken beneath, and human art and skill must rear and solidily the structure overhead, God's will is best exemplified in the laws He has made for the creatures whom he has placed under their control. Seither the child's trustful "Our Father," nor the old man's "Forget me not in the midst of mins infirmities," will alter this by the weight of a single grain.

Science and art dist—then faith and prayer—is the order of Heaven itself. Divinity heals through its agains, and those agents are the discoveries of man; not the vague announcements of prophets or seers. Is life a burden to you? Does time drag? Is your power to cope with life's problem and duties weakened? You are not well. Four blood is sluggish and tainted, perhaps; or some important organ is coppid or overworsed. This fact may have taken the form of dyspepsia, rheumatism, gout, maiaria, pains in the stomach, chronic headsche, or any of a dozen other life.
