A TRUE GERTLEMAN,

From the Youth's Companion.

A few years ago a young man fashionably dressed took his seat at the table of the Girsrd house, Philadelphia. There was an air of self-consulous superiority in the youth, which attracted general attention. He read the menu with smothered diaguest, gave his order with a tone of lofty condescension, and when his neighbor civilly handed him the pepper box, stared at him for his presumption as though he had isodered him an insult. In short, a person of the blood could not have regarded a mob of serfs with more arrogant famfeur than did this lad the respectable travelers about him.

Reuteur than did this lad the respectable travelers about him.

Presently a tall powerfully built old man entered the room, and seated himself at one of the larger tables. He was plainly dressed, his language was markedly simple, he entered into conversation with his neighbor, who happened to be a poor tradesman, and occasionally during the dinner exchanged ideas with a little lady of five summers who sat beside him. The colored servants spoke to him as an old friend. "How is your rheumatism, John?" he said to one, and remembering that another had lately lost his son.

his son.
"Who is that old-fashioned gentleman?" asked a curious traveler of the man?" asked a curious traveler of the "Oh, that is Judge Jere Black, the greatest jurist in the country!" was the enthusiastic reply.

"And the young aristocrat? He surely is somebody of note."

"He is a drummer who sells fancy soaps."

Judge Jeremiah Black, who has recently died, was noted and feared in public life for the massive force of his intellect. "Every blow kills!" said a listener to one of his arguments. On the other side, an old farmer and neighbor wrote of him, "We shall never have snother man as pure, kindly and simple among us."

The boys who will make up our next generation could find much to study in the massive nature of this old man with his powerful brair, his simple, direct, manner, powerful brair, his simple, direct, manner, and with unfaltering, childlike faith in God. With his last breath he took his aged wife by the hand, saying, "Lord take care of Mary," so died.

Appreciated His Character.

The prime movers in the railroad war which resulted in the Nickel Plate road, were General Samuel Thomas, Calvin S. were General Samuel Thomas, Calvin S. Brice, and ex Governor Charles Foster, all Ohioans at the time. In one of their meetings General Thomas, with blunt directness, said: "After all, gentlemen, we are only a lot of burglars breaking into old Vanderbilt's safe." After the sale of the road to the Vanderbilt interest, and the transfer of his millions to their neededs the partners in the Nickel their pockets, the partners in the Nickel Plate enterprise ordered a special designed Plate enterprise ordered a special designed scarf pin, which was presented to Gen. Thomas. The ornament was a miniature gold safe, in front of the broken door of which lay an entire kit of burglar's tools, jimmy, dark lantern and all. The bullseye of the lantern was formed by a four carat diamond. The cost of the pin was about $1,000. about $1,000.

I had carelessly exposed myself and sus tained a very severe and tight cold on my chest and in my throat. I procured Alloock's Porous Plasters and applied one on the chest, well up on the throat, and relief came readily the soreness of my chest was removed, and my vocal organs were kept clear the entire past winter, enabling me to fulfill public engage ments in different parts of this country. No more may be said than that Allcock's Porous Plasters, if applied by affected vocalists, will greatly assist their vocal rendition in public.

LARCASTER, Pa., Sept. 18, 1994.

I desire to make known to my friends and customers, and the public in general, that I have removed from 32 North Queen street to 121 North Queen street in 12 North Queen sortment of English, Frencu and German Movelties, together with a large inse of Domestic Fabrics. Composed as my new stock is, of new goods and new styles, I feel sacured that in soliciting a continuance of your patronage, you will have an opportunity of making relections from a stock unequalled in its variety and adapted to the present demand, which is for good values, gentlemanly styles and effects, and exquisite fit. Nothing but the very best of workmanship; and prices to suit everybody. Please invor me with your orders.

Yours very truly, D. R. WINTERS.
