Byears, and while being one of its oldest conductors, was also one of its most efficient. He served in the late rebellion with credit, and at the time of his death was a member in good standing in Gen. Welsh Post No. 118, G. A. R. which will attend his funeral in a body. He leaves a wife and five children. His remains will be interred from his late residence, on Front street between Union and Perry, on Wednesday 2 p. m. in Mount Bethel cometery.

James Maloney, extra brakeman on P. R. R. engine, No. 232, in attempting to pass from the tank of the engine to the first car of his train, fell and had his right arm run over. He was brought to Columbia, his residence being at Second and Perry streets, and Dr. Craig amputated the injured member three inches below.

The Columbia lodge of Brotherhood of Railroad Brakemen, have applied for a charter, and it is expected here this week. At yesterday's meeting several new members were enrolled.

A TRANSACTION IN BABBITS. A. C. Kelley, of York county, brought to Columbia on Saturday a number of rabbits for sale. Two of the bountes he disposed of to Chas. Grove, liquor dealer, on Walnut street, and consented to skin them for his purchaser. His wagon and rabbits stood on the street in front of the this oil store, while he was dressing the rabbits. Ben Duck entered a few moments later with four rabbits, which he wanted to sell with four rabbits, which he wanted to sell to Mr. Grove. That gentleman informed him that the animals did not belong to him, but to Kelley. Duck differed, when Al. entered the store. He recognized the rabbits as his, but to make sure went to his wagon and counted its contents. Four rabbits were missing. He then claimed Duck's, who wanted to fight for them. Fading he could be accommodated left, went to 'Squire Young's and ored complaint against Kelley for stealing his rabbits. At the hearing Paul Read said he had given Duck four rabbits to sell, but was not sure of the ones in question were the same he gave Duck. The matter was settled by Kelley paying $4 09. Duck got the rabbits. PERSONAL.

RESTORATION OF VOICE.

A Sudden Return of a Young Lady's Lost Vocal Powers. What must be regarded as a very remarkable restoration of voice took place at the Catholic academy of the Sacred Heart, corner of East Orange and Ann streets, on Monday last, the 8th instant. The facts of the case, which have just come to light, are substantially as follows:

Miss Mary McDonough, the daughter of Dr. Charles McDonough, of No. 153 North Tenth street, Reading, entered the academy a year or two ago. While not so robust as many of her companions, she was very playful of disposition and was possessed of a volce of singular and birdlike sweetness. The sisters of the institution expected great things of her and her like sweetness. The sisters of the institu-tion expected great things of her and her voice was most assiduously cultivated. In February of this year, during a very cold period, the young ladies of the institution, accompanied by the sisters, took a long sleigh ride. Three days afterward Miss McDonough's voice entirely left her. The directors of the institution felt no particu-lar slarm, believing it to be one of the lar alarm, believing it to be one of the temporary results of the cold. But as day succeeded day and week followed week, with no change for the better, her father, who is a physician, was summoned and he applied a number of remedies with no

The parents were now thoroughly alarmed and when the distribution exercises took place in June, a prominent Philadelphia physician accompanied her father to this city, but had finally to leave acknowledging that the case baffled his skill. Masses had been said for the restriction of the restrictio acknowledging that the case baffled his skill. Masses had been said for the restoration of the girl's voice and prayers were numerous for her intention during her affliction. During the whole of the time Miss Mary attended to her regular class duties, reciting in a very faint whisper which the teacher could only catch by placing her ear near the young girl's mouth. In June last a novena, or nine days prayer for a particular intention, was held for the young lady in which all the pupils and sisters joined. Prayers were also offered for her on August 15, the feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin, while the young lady was at her home in Reading.

Much wonder was expressed when in October her father souther again to school. She was prayed for on the feast of the Holy Rosary, on the first Sunday of October, and in these prayers her relatives and friends and religious in Reading joined.

Still no change was noted.

In the meautime Miss Mary had not given up hope. As she now says she different the sunday of the public way of the public way believed that her voice would be restored on the feast of the Immaculate Conception, her prayers to the Virgin having been most earnest and persistent. On the morning of that feast day last Monday, she in company with the other pupils attended the 5 o'clock mass, receiving communion. After prayer breakfast was had about 7 o'clock and then Mary with two little girls, Katle Howlett and Katle Owen, went into the yard to play.

The authorities of the institution and the young lady herself, firmly regard it as a miraole wrought by the efficacy of prayer, and even the skeptically inclined find it difficult to explain the cure by natural means. The young lady is in her fifteenth

A PHYSICIAN'S EXPLANATION. The physician, who attended the young lady prior to her father taking charge of the case was Dr. D. R. McCormick, of this city. In an interview he told a reporter that the aphonia, or loss of voice, was not due to congestion of the larynx, was not due to congestion of the larynx, but was what is known as mock laryngitis, or nervous aphonia, sud was a symptom of a hysteric constitution. Watson's practice describes such cases: "the voice being lost on a sudden and returning as suddenly." This is the medical explanation of the occurrence.

FOUR THOUSAND MEN DISCHARGED.

Telegraphers Organizing in Boston, CHICAGO.Dec. 15.—Neal McGaehn, from CHICAGO. Dec. 15.—Neal McGaeho, from the Hocking Valley, is here soliciting aid among the working people for the striking miners. Among others he addressed a body of Internationalists yesterday, and although his remarks were of a very moderate character, at their conclusion the body passed resolutions as the sense of the meeting "that working people should arm themselves in order to successfully resist capitalists, and that the employment of all means to that end is not only justifiable but necessary."
