AROUND THE TABLE.

FROM GRAVE TO GAY, FROM LIVELY TO SEVERE.

Items of Interest for the Family Circle, Gathered From All Parts of the World—The Facts and Fancies of Life.

A Boston paper which offered prizes aggregating $3,000 for original stories, received nearly 7,000 contributions in response.

Girls in Eastern Kentucky are frequently married in the age of twelve years, and boys enter into the marital relationship oftentimes before their beards begin to grow, or before they have any income to support themselves and families.

Money won't make the mare go. Fat man (who is something of a hurry)—"I'll give you five dollars to get me to the station in three minutes. Cabman (with provoking coolness)—"Well, sort, you might corrupt me, but you can't bribe that horse."

Early domestic trials—Young wife (in great trepidation—to her brother)—"Tommy, I'm going to give the cook warning. Just listen at this corner, and as soon as you hear me say, 'Cook, I give you a month's warning from to-day,' mind you call me, and say I'm wanted immediately."

"Husband," said Mrs. Smith the other night, raising her eyes significantly upon the seven-year-old pride of the family, "I'm afraid you will have to correct Johnny; he has been a bad boy this afternoon." Husband, glancing over his paper—"What has he been doing?" He took his Shawbuck rooster over to Mrs. Johnson and Tom Jones got out his black Spanish and they let the poor creatures fight for more than an hour." Husband, straightening up—"Which whipped?"

The Bavarian court singer Siehr, otherwise a great favorite of his most eccentric majesty, having been suddenly called away to the deathbed of his only child, absented himself from Munich without special leave, although not without previous notice to the high chamberlain. On his return, after the funeral of his child, to Munich, the artist found by way of consolation a letter of dismissal from his majesty the king.

"If you don't keep out of this yard you'll catch it," said a woman to a boy in West Lynn. "All right," answered the gamin. "I wouldn't have come in if I'd known your folks had it."

An obstinate, indignant old gentleman, to some lady who had been jabbering at the top of her voice—"This talking is abominable. Nobody can hear a word." Young lady—"That's just what I was telling Miss Smith, here. Those actors keep up such a jabbering on the stage that one can't hear a word they speak."

A writer in a French medical journal proposes that cities be supplied with fresh country air. A large guild in the country is to be surrounded with a high wall and planted with lofty trees to absorb the dust, and a large portion of the field is to be conveyed through pipes to every city house.

Emperor William of Germany has a superstition against washing dirty linen in public, and never lingers in any royal personage whose dislocation causes a scandal. To-morrow, say nothing; time will put everything to rights." This is his invariable answer when one member of his family comes to complain of another.

A native chief in Fiji presented himself for baptism. "How many wives have you?" said the missionary. "Seven," said the chief. "Oh, that won't do; you can't baptize you till you have got rid of six of them." Next day came the chief once again, saying: "Me can't get rid of them; me can't baptize you now. You must wait a little." "What have you done with the others?" said the missionary. "Oh," said the cannibal, "Me's eaten every one of 'em."

The Congregational preachers of Chicago have sent to the mayor a vigorous protest against the open and shameless theatrical advertisements which the ministers assert to be seen in all parts of the city. Immodest and indecent pictures, they declare, are displayed in show windows, on fences, on ash and bill boards, appealing to the lowest passions of all classes.

A fashionable lady in New York has set an excellent example by sending out invitations to a german between the hours of 8:30 and 12 p. m. A great deal has been said, and with excellent reason, against the absurd custom of balls that have been already going on in a city where the dinner hour is rarely later than seven, it is a pitiful aping of foreign customs to open the balls at half-past ten or eleven. The health of young people is seriously injured, and their usefulness, if not their morals, is decidedly interfered with by this lamentable inroad upon time.

A distinguished ex-Confederate officer, a great friend of his most eccentric majesty, Jefferson Davis, and the hero of a great deal of fun in the wild and gilded youth, Mr. Jefferson Davis Bradley, is a wealthy business man. He married the other day a prominent society belle, who is a devoted Roman Catholic. Upon growing to speaking of his marriage, the other day, to friends, he remarked: "I have got religion and perdition. I am now going to a Romanism."

The Fortune of a Songster.

Patti makes a great deal of money, and she prides a great deal. At the rate she lives it must cost her something like a hundred thousand dollars a year. She has a retinue of people and a large suit of apartments at the Windsor hotel—private table, of course—and her own chef, whom she brings with her. When she has a castle in Wales to keep up, and that is an enormous tax upon her income. Even when she does not live there she has to keep a dozen people taking care of the house, and as many more on the place. The castle itself is as large as a small hotel. It has forty-five furnished rooms besides other rooms that are not furnished. It is a whim of Patti to keep up this place, and she has enough money to indulge herself in expensive whims.

Besides the money that Patti earns, she has $200,000 that can never be touched; at least the principal cannot be touched; she has the use of the income, of course. But this she does not lay much stress upon. The income of $200,000 is a small item to a person who makes as much money as she does. Christine Nilsson is really wealthier than Patti, because she has more laid up and better invested than is Patti's money. The castle in Wales, which represents a little fortune, is an expense rather than an income. All the money that Christine Nilsson has in real estate brings her in a good round interest. Then Nilsson is thrifty. She spends very little money compared to Patti. It is hard to say which is the wiser—the one who spends as she goes or the one who lays up her money. Patti will always have that $200,000 to fall back on, so she saves little of her earnings. There is no one to come after her except Nicolini's children, and to these she is very liberal now.

An Oyster Whips a Duck.

A rough-and-tumble combat between a wild duck and an oyster occurred at Corpus Christi the other day. The duck was a large and full-grown one that had recently come from the North to enjoy the Southern winter climate. It was of the diving species, which inhabit the bays till the spring, when they return North. When the oyster feels it opens its shell while till the full oyster is plainly visible. A sight of such a morsal was too much for the duck. He made a headlong plunge, inserting his bill between the oyster's open shell. Like a flash, and with the power of a vise, the shell closed on the duck's beak. Then came the struggle for life. The oyster, which was quite a large one, was dragged from its bed, with three smaller ones clinging to it, the cluster being heavy enough to keep the duck's head under water. In this way the duck drowned. Its buoyancy was sufficent to float with the oysters, and thus drifted near the dock, where it was captured. When taken out of the water the animal heat had not left the duck. The oyster still clung to the duck's beak.

Not Exactly "Old Falernian."

A comical scene has just occurred at Aix-le-Gibonnier, in France, where a Roman cemetery was recently discovered. One of the graves turned out to be that of the Perfect Lucius Amerius, according to the very legible inscription on the tombstone. In the grave itself a large-sized flask, filled about two-thirds with a reddish-looking thick fluid, was found, but no trace of other remains. The local savans gravely assumed the liquid in question to be Falernian wine in a somewhat condensed state, and decided, in honorem Horatii, to tastes of it at a symposium. After having handed round the precious fluid in exquisitely chased diminutive glasses, the guests were disagreeably surprised by the arrival of a telegram informing them that they had just drunk of a distillation prepared from the body of the defunct Roman perfect.

How to Address the Pope.

A secret, important to those who wish to address the pope, and also make sure that their letters actually reach him, has just been divulged. In order to attain their object, they must inclose their petition in three certain envelopes, one placed within the other, each one to be sealed and duly addressed. It appears that the court chamberlain is only at liberty to open the first two envelopes, but under pain of excommunication not the third, which he must hand over to his holiness in person.

THE OLD HOMESTEAD.

'Twas when the sunset flushes
Gilded the dear old home,
When twilight's solemn hushes
Rade holy memories come,
We lingered, fondly turning
Toward the spot we loved so well,
With sad and tender yearning,
To say our last farewell

No more for us the garden
And love wreathed rooms to roam
The stranger there is warden—
No, no, 'tis not his home!
It hath no memories bringing
For him joy kin to pain;
For him no echoes ringing
Shall bring the loved again

Sweet home! dear home! o'erflowing
With priceless memories!
Not life in all its going
Shall bring more bleat than these
A dear bright picture ever,
As then, when sunset fell,
Youth gilded, then forever
We'll love; sweet home, farewell!

—From the Boston Transcript.

A GREAT ESTABLISHMENT.

How it Has Been Developed From a Small Beginning in 1875.

In the fall of 1875 Messrs. Williamson & Foster, of Nos. 32, 34, 36 and 38, East King street, Dealers in Clothing, Boots, Shoes and Gent's Furnishing Goods, started their now immense business in Centre Square, in a very small way, and from that time onward to the present day they have been steadily growing with the wants of their customers until now they occupy two large buildings, three stories high, and have them filled with various kinds of goods for men's wear and a man or a boy can be fitted from the sole of the foot to the crown of the head, in anything to wear, both for style and comfort, he may ask for. One good feature about their way of doing business is they have ONLY ONE PRICE, and all goods are marked in plain figures, so that the smallest boy, as well as his parents, can buy at the same prices, which makes a very pleasant way to trade; and when goods do not prove satisfactory and are returned to the House everything is made right with the customer.

The Clothing Department occupies all of the second and third floors in one building and all the second floor in the other building, divided into departments, one for fine clothing, one for extra large sizes, one for boys and one for children's clothing. The greatest care is taken in the selection of these goods and everything is examined before going upon the sale tables. At no time in the history of the house has the variety been so great and the stock so large of Ready Made Clothing as now. The make up and trimmings are better than ever.

People who are particular about having clothing that fits well should see some of the goods that I saw today, and the manager of that department, Mr. S. S. Martin, prides himself upon making just such selections when buying the stock.

On the first floor we find the Hat department, full and complete with everything new and desirable with Hats, Caps, Ladies Furs, Robes and Blankets of various kinds under the management of Mr. John A. Lee, who has served the public with head gear for many years, and knows the wants of his customers and how to please them.

The Boots and Shoe department is full of everything complete to make a man happy and keep him in good humor.

See the fall settlement elsewhere. Mr. William Wall, is manager there, and it is he who puts the fine display in their show windows, which is the envy of all window dressers.

Their Shoe department occupies all the first floor of one building, and is stacked to the ceiling with all kinds of goods. Their trade there has been continually growing as people become better acquainted with the kind of goods kept there. They contend that a good shoe is the cheapest in the long run and we think it is. By all means, when you are looking for anything in Men's or Boys' wear, Ladies shoes included, pay a visit to this establishment and you will be served in a proper way.

The Man Who Talks Much.

We must frankly admit to you who make a living with your tongue, that certainly must have a strong voice to engage your listeners. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for sore throat, colds, and hoarseness is unexcelled. Use and admire. For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen street.

"Fire Him Out."

This is a common remark when coughs and colds result in public discomfort by their unseemly noise. Prospective hostilities cease when with Boschee's German Syrup you engage your listeners. For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen street.

Let Truth Prevail.

Let the facts be known. Let us understand that a fool, or an idiot, or a cachronic or any eruption or blemish of the skin is sure to wear away and disappear when Boschee's Blood Bitters are employed. This wonderful medicine acts directly upon the circulation and the reason for its use as a therapeutic adjuvant. For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen street.

In Hop Poroous Plasters the virtues of fresh Hops are combined with strengthening and stimulating balsams and the cures of Weak Back, Pain in the side, Rheumatism, and Neuralgia or Pain in the Chest are simply marvellous, far being more efficacious and thorough than any ointment or liquid remedies. You'll say so after using.

First Revived and then Cured.

Was troubled for a year with torpid liver and indigestion and after trying everything imaginable used Burdock Blood Bitters. Two bottles revived me and three completed my cure. J. S. Williamson, Rochester, N. Y. For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen street.

An Explanation.

Nonsense must go with everything but life in the statement that Thomas' Eclectric Oil will cure a sprain, a bruise, a bite, or an ache, and is also an active and pronounced cure for neuralgia and rheumatism. For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen street.

Its Equal Yet to Hear From.

The movements of a muscle's blind legs are very variable and uncertain, but Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil takes but one course—it heals and cures. Its equal for asthma, diphtheria, catarrh, cold and sore throat has never yet been said. For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen street.

"There Was a Little Girl."

Yes; and when the roses faded from her cheeks and she became listless and languid and pale, they gave her Brown's Iron Bitters. It built her up in health and made her ruddy and strong. Mrs. Weigel, 23 Ferry street, Pittsburg, Pa., writes that her sister, aged 13, took several bottles of Brown's Iron Bitters for nervousness and dyspepsia, and was greatly relieved.

MEDICAL.

CUTICURA REMEDIES.

CUTICURA.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR EVERY FORM OF BLOOD DISEASE, FROM PIMPLES TO SCROFULA.

I have had the Psoriasis for nine months. About five months ago I applied to a doctor near Boston, who helped me, but unfortunately I had to leave, but continued taking the medicine for nearly three months, but the disease did not leave. I saw Mr. Carpenter's letter to the Philadelphia Record, and his case perfectly described mine. I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES, using two bottles RESOLVENT and CUTICURA SOAP in proportion, and call myself completely cured.

CURED—NOT A SIGN OF ITS REAPPEARANCE.

Your CUTICURA has done a wonderful cure for me more than two years ago. Not a sign of its reappearance since. It cured me of a very bad Eczema which had troubled me for more than twenty years. I shall always speak well of CUTICURA. I sell a great deal of it.
FRANK C. SWAN, Druggist.
HAVERHILL, MASS.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Barber's Itch, etc., etc. In fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

REMOVAL AND OPENING.

LANCASTER, PA., Sept. 10, 1884.

I desire to make known to my friends and customers, and the public in general, that I have removed from NO. 28 NORTH QUEEN STREET, to NO. 12 NORTH QUEEN STREET, formerly occupied by the firm of Sinaling & Bausman, where I have opened with a large assortment of English, French and German Novelties, together with a large Line of Domestic Fabrics. Composed as my New Stock is, of New Goods and New Styles, I feel assured that in soliciting a continuance of your patronage, you will have an opportunity of making selections from a stock unequaled in its variety and adapted to the present demand, which is for good values, gentlemanly styles and effects, and exquisite fit. Nothing but the very best of workmanship; and prices to suit everybody. Please favor me with your orders. Yours Very Truly,

D. R. WINTERS.

J. K. SMALING.
