If Crystems day on Thursday be, A windy winter se shalle yee. Of windes and weders all wrecked. And harde tempest, strong and thycke. The somer shall be goed and drye. Cornys and bestes shall multyplye: That yere ys good londes to tyline. And kynges, and prynces shall dye by skylle. What chylde that day borne bee. He shalle have happe right well to the, Of dedes he shalle good and stabylle, Of speche and tongo wyse and reasonabylle. Who se that day any thette abowte, He shalle shente withowith downs. He shalle shente withowith downs. And if sekones on that day betyde, llyt shall sone fro the glyde.

—Harlieian MS., Fifteenth Century.

It was Margaret Fuller who said, when her own baby Angelo crowed his delight over the few showy toys of their Italian Christmas, that there was nothing in life she regretted so much as having always forgotten to give little children this pleasure. All the sunny greenery and magic of Christmas is a possession that childhood has a right in ; a pleasure that is the more precious because is common to all. A birthdry-come to think of it-is rather a solfish colobration but Christmas day is the great leveller, when joy is a quality rather than a quantity; a protty "catching" thing in the air ; a contagion of cheeriness and good wishes expressed

And so the holiday sweers all into its reach You may have begun with a concession of a sard merely or a cake, a trifle of handiwork snot to be an all-round Christmas at all-oh no! But insensibly you are caught trying to remainber how This and the Other One had a fancy for something. What was it? Or this dainty thing that looks like *** it is made on purpose, and she must have it! Or did he not suspect all this time that your eye was on the capital idea? It will be a morey if he has not roof it for himself before the, such an has not roof it for himself before the, such an has not got it for himself before this, such an mevitably useful thing.

And so the pretty foreasts and wrinkling of brows, and the lead-pencil lists and the infinite calculations, all are parts of the seainfinite calculations, all are parts of the season. Camels and kangaroes, what are they to the loaded down purchasers that meet you on every corner. It may not be a rich Christmas—the preparations may have set in late—but all the same it will he—all the samethers will be delight of the sort that comes but once a year. If it is only the gathering of dear heads about the table—less plentiful the dishes, but how blessed that the chairs at less have their full contingent; it is only the the dishes, but how blessed that the chairs at least have their full contingent; it is only the chairs after all, that we need care about on this holiday and not the cloth. Or if there is an empty place and silones when one dear name is called, think how the absent one rejoices in the children's pleasure—how he would command that the day be cheerful still—for their sakes. And so the mystery rounds itself—for their sakes—the children first; and next,—all whose helplessness gives them the nearest place to the Joyous young heirs of the time. heirs of the time.

THE KIND OF THINGS TO BUT.

most varied taste and to exhaust the largest purse. There are to vs and dolls and mechanical animals in excess of all the desires of every child in Lancaster. Novelties keep pace with the times. Among building blocks are the Brooklyn bridge, the elevated roads and the Washington monument. There are the familiar Noah's arks, Punch and Judy, the great wagons labelled "Go West," the large monkey that regularly re-appears playing on monkey that regularly re-appears playing on a violin, chattering an accompaniment with his wonderfully flexible upper lip, and count-less harlequin musical boxes. There is a significant saving bank for too credulous little men; a fat man with a long sharp nose-semes to the door, puts the deposit in his pocket, and gives a shrewd and cunning nod-as he disappears inside. Life-like ponics covered with real skin are of life size; also goats with magnificent heards and red har-ness.

There are new games for boys that baffle wiser heads, fand grocery stores with unlimited supplies. The wooly tribe are represented in numberless sheep and pugs that bas and bark, and small-sized jolly St. Nicholas is everywhere seen presiding over the display, dressed in a robe glittering with frost, trimmed with fore and holly berries. frest, trimmed with furs and holly berries. Large-sized camels carry each a magnificent Arab in gay attire and tinkling bells. Beautiful rosy wax angels with blondscurling hair and great blue eves with crowns and wings of gold blow golden horns, and with one extended hand ofter a bunch of lilies-of-the-valley. These are suspended from a helght by almost invisible elastic strings attached to the back of the waist.

For Wives, Daughters, Sisters and Sweethearts. The present enthusiasm for the antique ex-tends in no small degree to silver ornaments, tac-similes of coins and other objects. A bracelet of oxidized silver reproduces all the tends in no small degree to silver ornaments, tac-simites of coins and other objects. A bracelet of oxidized sliver reproduces all the stains and dark tints of age. The square indented coin has a medallion centre, with a leaping animal looking back, and a little crescent and legend in Greek; another has a profile head crowned with a diadem or crown in five volutes. These design in repouzze are duplicated on the other coins of the bracelet. The fastening is like a bolt of iron. Another reproduced curio in dark stained oxidized silver is a bracelet of chain armor with pendante of Roman or archaic Greek coins with symbolic designs in repouzze of lions, griffins, stags, a hippocampus, a star and crescent. On other ancient coins are a scythian helmet, a conical cap, and a head adorned with a diadem. Still other designs are a mask of hideous character and coiled snakes. These are in some specimens incised as well as in relief and demascend with silver dimly shining from the dark dull alloy. Modern subjects in the way of hair-pins for the bonnet-rest are finished with nugget balls. The two long shell teeth of another style it completed with a silver claw holding a oall of nugget silver. There are others of black enamel or silver set with Rhine pebbles; sword hilts of satin-finished silver open-worked and a fringe of small balls. These useful pins are also decorated with ornaments of block, square, crook, voluted, helmet and quiver shape sin nugget, oxidized and satin-silver. Garters of satin embroidered silk, fluffy with fringe and lace, and plushedged satin, form an important feature in articles de luxe, with clasps of square nugget silver set with garnets and Rhine stones. From other beams the jolly face of the man in the moon on silver; owis in a crescent; five little sparrows on a hawthern bough; floral decoration in gold on satin silver, and some nugget clasps are set with sunken glittering pyrites and tigers' eyes. The taste for natural history leads to a menagerie in which tarnitulas, huge spiders, the graceful on slender bars and worn as pendants or lace on slender bars and worn as pendants or lace pins. Charming carrings are seen in enamel; a set of daisless of palest cream-color enamel on silver with golden hearts; silver crescents on which are finely engraved profile faces with oxidized flowing hair; crabs, spiders, wasps, painfully natural, of hammerod silver, are set with sunken garnets.

The New Orleans Free Lunch. From a Letter to Boston Globe

A special institution of New Orlean, which

A special institution of New Orlean, which strangers soldom discover until they have been here a week or so, is what are styled "free lunches," Other cities give those tunches, it is true, but none have ever compared with New Orleans, unless it is San Francisco. Before the war the bar-rooms, or, as they were then styled, "exchanges," were really the commercial exchanges," were really the commercial exchanges, as they did not go home to dinner, the saloon men found it conveient to have a little warm lunch for their patrons. This soon grew into a regular institution, and the lunches set became equal to the finest to be obtained at any restaurant in the city. One of the saloons a short time ago used to advertise a bill of fare of boiled redfish, shrimp salad, wild turkey, Galt house, sausages, ham and beef, Saratoga potatoes, rice, bread and butter, and innumerable side dishes. The lunches served to-day are as good as you or get in any eating-house for 50 to 75 cents, including some dozen dishes, always soups of gumbo, a fine roast of beef, vegetables, salads and bread. You get your lunch free, but pay for a drink the ordinary price of 10 or 15 cents. If you can get a good lunch route and find the day upon which each saloon sets its best table, you will be able to fare exceliently and can postpone your dinner to the New Orleans hour of 6 and make it serve for supper also.

**ASIGNED ESTATE OF JOSEPH HERcand in the result of the ward wife, of Lancaster county, Ps. Joseph Herzeg, and wife, of Lancaster county, Ps. Joseph Lezzeg notice to all persons in best table, you will be able to fare exceliently and can postpone your dinner to the New Orleans hour of 6 and make it serve for supper also.

Never Desired Recreation.

Never Desired Recreation.

Daniel Webster, when he pronounced his eulogium in the Senate on John C. Calhoun, said, half wonderingly and half admiringly, "He had no recreation—never seemed to feel the necessity of amusements." So it was with Gov. Anthony, says the Washington correspondent of the Providence Journal. He never, while here as a Senator, went on fishing or shooting parties; he never kept or drove fast horses, or attended the Jockey club races; and although he was a member of the Metropolitan club, he was never to be seen at its card tables or in its billiard rooms or bowling alley.

Occasionally he would, while waiting to go out to dine, take a pack of cards and occupy a few leisure moments in a game of soltaire, but I don't believe that he understood the first principles of poker or euchre, those favorite games of many congressmen.

those favorite games of many congressmen ---

Coquettish Adelaide Nellson When Adelaide Neilson was in this country she had a habit of coquettishly flattering every man who played Romeo to her Julief. She used to give each of them an album with She used to give each of them an album with the inscription that he was the best Romeo she had ever known. When these actors met in summer "on the Rialto," near the Union Square theatre, they began to blow about Neilson's opinion of each other, and when albums were produced the effect was magi-cal. The word album was not used by "lead-ing men" for a long time afterward.

BALLADE OF CHRISTMAS GROSTS

Between the moonlight and the fire, In winter evenings long ago, What ghosts I raised at yout desire To make your leaping blood run slow: How old, how grave, how who we grow! When Christmas ghost can make us chill save those who troop in mournful row, The ghosts we all can raise at will?

The leasts can talk in barn and byre On Christmas-eve, old legends known. As one by one the years retire. We men fall slient then, I trow uch sights has memory to show. Such voices from the distance thrill

Ab me! they come with Christmas enow The ghosts we all can rise at will

O children of the village choir, Your earols on the midnight throw? Oh, bright across the mist and mire Ye raddy hearths of Christmas glow? Beat back the shades, beat down the woe Renew the strength of moral will; Be welcome, all, to come or go, The ghosts we all can raise at will Friend sursum eards, soon or slow We part, like guests who ve Joyed their fill Forget them not, nor mourn them so, The ghosts we all can raise at will Andrew Lang, in Harper's Magazine.

The Man Who Talks Much. We want to say a word to you who make a living with your tongue. You certainly must have a clear, strong voice to engage your listeners. Dr. Thomas Estectric Oil for sore throat, colds, and hearseness is unexcelled. Use and admire. For sale by H. H. Cochmu, drugglat, 137 and 139 North Queen street.

This is a common remark when roughs and rowdys insult public decency by their unseemly ways. Dyspensia is a horrid bore. Fire it out with Burdock Blood Billers. You can do it. For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen street.

Let Truth Prevail. tiblects of Use and Ornament for Men. Women And Children.

Our townspeople will find in the stores and shops of Lancaster articles to use and ornaments in quantity and variety to satisfy the most varied taste and to exhaust the largest Queen street.

In Hop Porous Plasters the virtues of Fresh Hops are combined with strengthening and stimulating balsams, and its cures of Weak Back, Pain in the Side, Kheumatian, and Neuralgia or Pain in the Chest are simply marvelious, it being more officacious and thorough than any liniment or liquid remedies. You'll say so after using First Revived and then Cured.

Was troubled for a year with torpid liver and indigestion, and after trying everything imaginable used Burdock Blood Bitters. The first bottle revived me and the second eured menticely J. S. Williamson, Rochester, N. Y. For sale by H. R. Cochran, drugglet, 137 and 139 North Queen street.

An Explanation.

No one medicine will cure averything, but it is an incontestible fact that Thomas' Kelestric Oil will cure a sprain, a bruise, a bite, or an ache, and is also an active and pronounced cure for neurilgia and rheumatism. For sale by H. B. Cochren, druggist, 177 and 179 North Queen street. Its Equal Yet to Hear From

The movements of a mule's hind legs are very variable and uncertain, but Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil takes but one course—it banks and cures, its equal for asthma, diphtheris, estarrh, cold and sore threat has never yet been sold.
