LADY OF THE WHITE HOUSE.

MRS. MARY M'ELROY, SISTER OF PRESIDENT ARTHUR.

Mrs. Mary McElroy, nee Arthur, the sister of President Arthur, who is honored with the title of "Mistress of the White House," is a resident of Albany, New York, which place has been her home for many years. She is the youngest sister of President Arthur, being one of a family of six children, all, or nearly all, of whom were, like herself, born in New York state. Being the youngest of the family she has always been in some sense a favorite, and although the other sisters have visited the president during his term and have been made welcome at the executive mansion, she has been considered the lady of the house during the social season, and therefore the head of the social world at Washington.

She is in person rather below the medium size, with dark hair and eyes, and an intelligent and rather vivacious manner. In the very severe ordeal of mistress of the executive mansion and leader of society in Washington, she has proved herself equal to the situation. This is the more gratifying to the president and to the friends of the family, because she had heretofore shown herself extremely domestic in her tastes, giving little time to social life and devoting most of her life to her family, which consists of her husband, two daughters and two sons.

Her husband, Mr. McElroy, has been for many years a citizen of Albany, engaged in insurance, and has accumulated considerable wealth. His marriage with Miss Arthur occurred during the period of the civil war, since which time, Albany has been their home. As before intimated they have four children; two daughters, Misses May and Jessie, and two sons, one a young man in college, the other a master of some eight or ten years. The elder daughter, Miss May, spends most of her time at home in the absence of her mother at Washington, the younger, Miss Jessie, is in Washington at school with Miss Nellie Arthur.

Mrs. McElroy spends usually three months of the year, the social season, in Washington, at the White House. She is recognized as the Lady of the House at the president's receptions and dinners, and in this capacity gives receptions at the White House every Saturday afternoon during the season. These are largely attended by the ladies in social life irrespective of the political affiliation of their husbands.

MME. HUGUES ACQUITTED.

The Slayer of M. Morin Defends Herself Before a Paris Court.

The trial of Madame Colvis-Hugues for the murder of her traducer, Private Detective Morin, was opened on Thursday morning at the Paris court of Assizes. The courtroom was crowded to overflowing. Many diplomate and other persons of distinction were present, as well as many ladies. The attempt to secure places produced such a commotion that the judge threatened to clear the courtroom, and said he would certainly do so if any further demonstration occurred.

During the reading of the indictment Mme. Clovis-Hugues seemed to be affected, but she replied in a firm tone to the questions. She admitted that the shooting was premeditated and declared that ever since May 25 she had been resolved to kill her traducer. The investigation as regards the fact leading to the shooting developed nothing new.

Later in her examination Madame Clovis-Hugues declared that she offered Morin to apply for a remission of his sentence if he would retract the calumnies which he had circulated about her. To this offer Morin only returned an insulting reply. In concluding her statement Madame Clovis-Hugues said: "If you believe me guilty, condemn me. If you can understand the moral tortures I have endured, acquit me." These words were uttered in a firm and energetic tone. She appeared to make a favorable impression on the jury. In reply to a remark by the judges that murder was unjustifiable, especially after fifteen months premeditation, she said: "You would not reason so coolly if you had suffered as I have," and the prisoner proceeded to unfold the unremitting and atrocious character of the persecution to which she had been subjected. During this narrative she became very excited.

Mme. Clovis-Hugues has been acquitted, but is condemned to pay $400 damages and the costs of the trial.

GENERAL GRANT'S FUND.

Cyrus W. Field Returns the Money That Had Been Subscribed.

Regarding General Grant's refusal to accept the fund being raised for his benefit by Mr. Cyrus W. Field and others, Mr. Field said that he, as much as any person, was surprised. "But," he continued, "what could I do after receiving that notification from the general? I had only to accept it as meaning exactly what it said. I have not seen General Grant and know nothing more than the public, though I may imagine a thousand things. I could imagine that the general declines by reason of personal hesitancy, and I might imagine that some friend had possibly come forward and taken up Mr. Vanderbilt's claim against him. I cannot imagine that the general would part with all his relics and remembrances. I know I have things in that line that I would not part with for anything."

"Shall you retain the subscriptions made until you have seen General Grant?"

"Oh, no! not a dollar. I have already returned every cent subscribed, for I had no right to it after General Grant had said he would not receive it. General Grant did not himself know how much had been subscribed, but there would have been no difficulty in raising the sum. Mr. Vanderbilt told me the property of the general would be worth $160,000 to $170,000."

General Grant declined to be seen Thursday morning. He went out driving and was said to be in much better health.

Shot Dead by His Wife.

Arnold C. Stacy, who lived on the outskirts of Bath, Me., was shot dead Wednesday night during a family quarrel. Stacy was proprietor of the Crystal Mineral springs, purchasing it about three years ago, at which time a residence was erected at considerable expense. He became financially embarrassed about a year ago and the property was transferred to his wife. A few weeks ago the debt was cleared and he wished to become the possessor of the property, but his wife refused to turn it over. At the supper table, so Mrs. Stacy states, her husband renewed his demand, using threatening language. Fearing violence, Mrs. Stacy arose from the table and from a drawer in the pantry adjoining the kitchen took a revolver that was kept by her for defence in his absence, as the house is quite a distance from any residence. She states that he took hold of the barrel, when the weapon was discharged, the bullet entering his head and killing him instantly.

HEART AND FEET.

She listened for his footsteps,
Although his feet were large;
In fact, she'd oft compared them
To Captain Billy's barge.

And yet she listened for him,
This precious maiden sweet;
She knew his heart was larger,
Even larger than his feet.

—From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

THE NEW MOON.

You may call me superstitious;
And who is not, just a mite?
But I feel a thrill of gladness
When I see the new moon on my right.
Just over my right shoulder,
Shining so gay and grand,
And saying, "I bring glad tidings,
Of good fortune close at hand."

The good fortune comes, or comes not;
Ah me, it is oftenest the last.
In this world of many failures,
Ill luck seems never past.
But still Hope seldom fails one,
However black the night,
And I feel a thrill of gladness
When I see the new moon on my right.

Crabs and Snakes in a Man's Stomach.

Stanley Day, a machinist, is employed in the shops of the Delaware, Lackawana & Western railroad company at Hollisterville, Luzerne county. For about nine months he has been doctored by some of the best physicians for pains in his stomach and side. They could afford him no relief. The pains increased and the patient grew thin and deadly pale. He said he thought he could "feel reptiles running around his stomach and they seemed to be eating him." He bought and took some vermifuge, and to the surprise of the physicians he was soon after relieved of thirteen crabs, of the water species, and a milk snake seventeen inches long. Day says the pains have left him and that he feels much better. He thinks he swallowed the reptiles last May while attending a picnic, by drinking from a well in the dark.

CURE OF ASTHMA AND SPINAL WEAKNESS.
239 WEST 22ND STREET,
NEW YORK, May 17, 1883.
Though it may be irregular for a physician to give a certificate in favor of a proprietary medicine, still, in the cause of humanity, I venture to say a word in favor of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS, which I esteem the most remarkable external remedy of this century.
I have known these Plasters to cure Spinal Weakness where the patient had been confined for months to his bed. A blacksmith of my acquaintance was severely injured in the back by the kick of a horse; four ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS quickly relieved him of excruciating agony and cured him in a week. Another patient, suffering with Neuralgia of the Heart, was completely cured in four hours.
In Asthma, I know of a case where they were worn for three months and fully restored to health. In another case where a patient had Sporadic Cholera, nothing relieved him until he put on three ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS; in twelve hours all pains in his chest and stomach disappeared. I know that these Plasters, applied on the pit of the stomach, are a sovereign remedy for Dyspepsia and Constipation.
Finally, if persons once use ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS they will never use any other; they are so pleasant, quick and painless—nature's balmy assistant.

MEDICAL.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.

A HOME DRUGGIST

TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."
River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

Encourage those who spend their cash,
Right here at home; do not be rash!
And you'd be rash to go abroad
To buy your goods on other sod!

Should you not know the place to go,
Upon my word I think I'll show
That best is that place in the town
That always makes the prices down!
Of whom I write 'tis very plain,
Now keep first letters—they'll explain!
