CHARLES KINGSLEY'S LAST POEM.

"Are you ready for your steeplechase, Lorraine, Lorraine, Lorree?
Barum, Barum, Barum, Barum, Barum, Barum, Baree.
You're booked to ride your capping race to-day at Coulterlee.
You're booked to ride, Vindictive for all the world to see,
To keep him straight, and keep him first, and win the race for me.

She clasped her new born baby, poor Lorraine, Lorraine, Lorree,
"I cannot ride Vindictive, as any man might see,
And I will not ride Vindictive, with this baby on my knee;
He's killed a boy, he's killed a man, and why must he kill me?"

"Unless you ride Vindictive, Lorraine, Lorraine, Lorree,
Unless you ride Vindictive to-day at Coulterlee,
And land him safe across the brook, and win the blank for me,
It's you may keep your baby, for you'll get no keep from me."

"That husbands could be cruel," said Lorraine, Lorraine, Lorree,
"That husbands could be cruel I have known for seasons three;
But, oh! to ride Vindictive while a baby cries for me,
And be killed across a fence at last for all the world to see?"

She mastered young Vindictive—oh! the gallant bass was she,
And kept him straight and won the race as near as near could be;
But he killed her at the brook against a pollard willow tree,
Oh! he killed her at the brook, the brute, for all the world to see,
And no one but the baby cried for poor Lorraine Lorree.

ON THE WING AND IN A PIE.

What Befel a Young Pigeon on Its Long Flight Toward Home.

A marked wing of a blue homing pigeon was sent from Walnut Cove, N. C., to Colonel C. R. Jones, of the Charlotte (N. C.) Observer, who forwarded it to New York city to the race secretary of the Federation for identification. On the first flight feather was "Reg. No. 259," and on the third feather was "Charlotte, N. C., 46, 520 miles, September, 1884." These showed the bird to be the property of Mr. J. G. Opitz, of Brooklyn, and the blue that won first prize in the Hudson club's race from Havre de Grace, Md., 157 miles; second from Lynchburg, Va., 357 miles, and the missing one of the trio sent for public record from Charlotte, N. C., 520 miles.

Up to last year young birds had never been sent for liberating beyond 358 miles, and this was considered an extreme test. Old Belgian fanciers declaimed against it, asserting that 200 miles was all a young bird was capable of doing, and should one succeed in covering a greater distance it would be found to have ruined its constitution and would be worthless forever after. To test this opinion these three youngsters, owned one each by S. Van Morse, T. F. Goldman and J. G. Opitz, were sent to Charlotte, N. C., for liberating, under Federation rules. The last previous journey was from Lynchburg, 357 miles, making the jump over strange country 162 miles, thirty more than the distance from Steubenville to Columbus, the usual risk for old trained birds.

The start was September 24, when the Opitz light blue went out of sight at once. Mr. Goldman's Little Fritz remained until next day, and Mr. Van Morse's Jay Gould was fed upon the roof for several days later still. The first to return was Little Fritz, October 10, and long as the bird had tarried by the way he came home plump as a partridge and in perfect plumage and had the honor of being the first youngster with public record from over 300 miles. Jay Gould arrived at home eleven days later, and was never in better condition or feather.

"The Opitz blue," although first to leave Charlotte, was the last to be reported. It was shot at Walnut Cove, N. C., and the marks on its wings were not discovered until after its body had been eaten in a pie. Walnut Cove is about eighty-five miles northeast of Charlotte, showing the bird to have taken its course toward home.

ROLLER SKATING.

A Blast Against it from a Metropolitan Journal.

From the N. Y. Tribune.

Roller-skating has become a cheap and popular recreation. Rinks and assembly rooms where it can be practised have multiplied both in New York and Brooklyn. The rates of admission and charges for the use of skates have been reduced, and the sport has been brought within the reach of classes that cannot ordinarily find enjoyment in active exercise. Habits of relaxation and a taste for recreation are to be encouraged in this work-a-day world; and on this account it is to be regretted that the necessity exists for warning the public against the evils of roller skating.

The first objection to this popular amusement is based upon the testimony of physicians. Roller skating has been pronounced a dangerous sport, injurious to health, by some of the most competent of the profession. The exercise has been condemned as too violent even for boys; and the effects of muscular strain and rigidity of movement are represented as especially injurious to young women. These physical results are apparent to the medical profession in New York and Brooklyn, and the warning is too emphatic to be disregarded. The man who allows a daughter with a fragile frame and weak constitution to persist in roller skating is making a serious mistake. He is suffering her to play with her health, and may live to see her pay the penalty in chronic backache and invalidism.

Another drawback to unlimited roller skating will be apparent to any one visiting the assembly rooms where it is practised. The commingling of boys and girls, young men and young women, more or less strangers to each other, in this violent and exciting sport offers alluring opportunities for the vicious. A busy man, who hears his daughters talking effusively about the great frolics they have had in the rinks would better go himself and get a glimpse of the interior and all that goes on.

Skaters on the Increase.

From the N. Y. Times.

It was stated at a preachers' meeting in town the other day that parsons have taken up endgels against skating rinks as allies to the world, the flesh and the devil. Statistics show, however, that the wicked skater is largely on the increase, and I have it from a pretty good authority that not less than 1,000,000 pairs of skates were made and sold last year.

BRANDY.

Brandy as a Medicine.

The following article was voluntarily sent to MR. H. E. SLAYMAKER, Agent for REIGART'S OLD WINE STORE, by a prominent practicing physician of this county, who has extensively used the Brandy referred to in his regular practice. It is commended to the attention of those afflicted with INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

BRANDY AS A MEDICINE.

This now much abused Alcoholic Stimulant was never intended as a beverage, but to be used as a medicine of greater potency in the cure of some of the destructive diseases which sweeps away their annual thousands of victims. With a purely philanthropic motive, we present to the favorable notice of invalids—especially those afflicted with that miserable disease, Dyspepsia, a specific remedy, which is nothing more or less than BRANDY.

The aged, with feeble appetite, and more or less debility, will find this simple medicine, when used properly,

A SOVEREIGN REMEDY

For all their ills and aches. Be it, however, strictly understood that we prescribe and use but one article, and that is sold by our enterprising friend, H. E. SLAYMAKER. This brandy has stood the test for years, and has never failed, as far as our experience extends, and we therefore give it the preference over all other Brandies—no matter with how many has breaking French titles they are christened. One-fourth of the money that is yearly thrown away on various impotent dyspepsia specifics, would suffice to buy all the Brandy to cure any such case or cases. In proof of the curative power of

Regart's Old Brandy,

REIGART'S OLD BRANDY

In cases of Dyspepsia, we can summon numbers of witnesses—one case in particular we will cite:

A hard working farmer had been afflicted with an exhausting Dyspepsia for a number of years; his stomach would reject almost every kind of food; he had spent considerable money—appetite—in fact he was obliged to restrict his diet to crackers and stale bread, and as a beverage he used McGrann's Root Beer. He is a Methodist, and then, as now, preached at times, and in his discourses often declaimed earnestly against all kinds of strong drink. When advised to try

REIGART'S OLD BRANDY

In his case, he looked up with astonishment; but after hearing of his wonderful effects in the cases of some of his near acquaintances, he at last consented to follow our advice. He used the Brandy faithfully and steadily; the first bottle giving him an appetite, and before the second was all taken he was a sound man, with a stomach capable of digesting anything which he chose to eat. He still keeps it and uses a little occasionally; and since he has this medicine, he has been of very little pecuniary benefit to the doctor.—A Practising Physician.
