A Peculiar Tendency. The tendency of the times seems to be toward the killing of crazy people. A number have been destroyed by fire lately in asylums in different parts of the country.

The burning of timber box insane asylums is becoming as common as the flights of cashiers to Canada. The students of Harvard university have joined the ranks of the dynamiters.

Justice Bradley, it is said, has signified his desire to retire from the supreme bench of the United States, in order to give President Arthur a chance to appoint his successor.

There is a lawyer in Chicago, Charles M. Hardy, whose originality in the way of charging fees, entitles him to more than passing notice. A client, Phillip W. Quinlan, sued him for $27 for services rendered.

The Republics who own the legislature at Harrisburg and who shape in private the decrees which it is expected to affirm in public, are reported to be engaged in profound study how to partition the state in their apportionment schemes so as to cheat the Democrats out of their rights.

Mr. Chris Magee, who is supposed to have the House end of the Legislature in his breeches' pocket, is depended upon to carve up the Western end of the state to suit himself and his party friends.

When Mr. Magee tries to deprive the 22,000 Democrats of Allegheny county of a single member of the legislature, he takes the chances of making several districts so close that his party may lose them all.

serious proceeding to get drunk. The license should be graded according to the number of drinks intended to be taken during the time it is to be run, so much per tippie.

The young gentleman's crude idea may perhaps be worked down into a very fine check for drunkards by experiment. He suggests as a modification of it, that the liquor vender be made accountable for the handling of the bell punch, which brings car conductors up now with a round turn.

The legislature if it takes to the idea, might submit it to the Philadelphia street car railroad superintendents for their opinion of its efficacy, and employ them to take the rural authorities how to manage the matter, if they advise that the tickets and bell punches will put the liquor dealers and drinkers in as tight a place as they do the car drivers and riders.

The country is very sick of the Illinois senatorial struggle. Justice Bradley, it is said, has signified his desire to retire from the supreme bench of the United States.

HERE AND THERE.

Mr. Pendleton, who is the author of the civil service act, some time ago called upon President Arthur and requested that in the appointment of a postmaster to a little office in Ohio—vacated recently so as to get a Republican started on a four-year commission—before March Fourth and to fill them with Republicans.

"Tom" Marshall, the Pittsburg lawyer and politician, has always been an intemperate of the old dynasty, and away back in 1868, when the elder Cameron aspired to the presidency, Horace Greely stopped off in Pittsburg on his way to the Chicago convention and conferred with Marshall on the subject of the presidential nomination.

"The little lady," Mrs. Marshall, to whom her husband was chivalrously and devotedly attached, was, by the way, the daughter of "Rocky" Patterson, elected sheriff of Allegheny county in 1868, on the Democratic ticket, in a political revolution due mainly to the phenomenal feature of Marshall's activity in exposing the cause of the Democracy.

Mr. Cleveland—recently elected president of the whole United States—once told the story of his being drafted and sending a substitute to the army. He spoke without reserve about it for he is a frank man, all allow who have interviewed him since he became a martyr to the cause of the country's politics.

There have been a number of more or less correct stories printed recently about the military collection of the late General Sherman, which is said to be worth $1,000,000.

Dr. McX. Stauffer, the eminent civil engineer, son of the late J. Stauffer, and now editor of the Engineering News, New York, has a wonderful collection of autographs, including original notes only of every prominent member of all the cabinets from Washington to Buchanan's. Strange to say it is more difficult to get complete letters from the latter than the earlier cabinet officers.

Discipline in a Southern Colored School.

A correspondent of the Chicago Free Press gives the following interesting account of discipline in a colored school in Charleston, S. C.: "When I strike this bell," said Superintendent Doty, of the Morris street colored school, "the room recess is over, and every one of our 1,400 boys and girls is instantly bound to follow me in silence, saying whatever attitude he may happen to be in at the time of the bell stroke. You may be interested to watch the effect."

Considerable property was shown at Clifton, S. L., on Thursday when it became known that two attempts were made to burn the cow stables of Max Light, in that village and the agent of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals had Mr. M. Light arrested on account of the filthy and neglected condition of his cows, the milk from which he sold at his store on Hester street, New York.

A Baltimore woman has a sensation in the recent wedding of Miss Emily Banks, daughter of Mr. Morgan D. Banks, and Mr. Frank H. Larned, Jr., son of Major Larned, of the United States army.

The Pittsburg Democratic Banquet. The Democratic banquet at the Monongahela house, Pittsburg, on Thursday night to rejoice over the victory of last November was attended by over 200 persons, among whom were the most prominent local Democrats.
