THE LUTHERAN CONFERENCE.

CONCLUSION OF A YERY INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE SESSION.

my School Work-Free Interchange tion-Adjournment Sine Die of Conference - Thanks Given.

Tuesday Afternoon.—The entire afternoon session was taken up in the discussion of the two questions "The Work of the Holy Spirit in Quickening Believers," and "The Work of the Holy Spirit in Converting Sinners." The first question was opened and ably discussed by Rev. J. Peter, of Manheim, and further clucidated by Rev. C. M. Aurand, of Manters.

further elucidated by Rev. C. M. Aurand, of Maytown.

The second question was opened by Rev. W. P. Evans, of Columbia, who in the absence of Rev. H. A. Letterman, of Dauphin. was followed by Rev. H. D. Holloway, of Middletown. A general discussion of both questions ensued in which Revs. Whetstone, of Lancaster, Cook and Studebaker, of Harrisburg, Reimensnyder and Stall, of Lancaster, Evans, of Columbia, and one or two others participated. The discussion was spirited and edifying.

Tuesday Evening.—There was an audience of several hundred present in the evening to hear a sermon on "Christian benevolence" by Rev. A. H. Studebaker, of Harrisburg. The service was opened with the singing of a hymn, and this was followed by the reading of the Sth chapter of Paul's second epistle to the Corinthians by Rev. H. S. Cook. Rev. J. H. Lesher, of Hummelstown, led in prayer, and after further singing President Eckert introduced Rev. Studebaker.

As the basis of his remarks. Rev. Studeba-

As the basis of his remarks Rev. Studeba-As the basis of his remarks Rev. Students her called the attention of his auditors to the chapter of the Scriptures just read. It teaches that liberality in giving towards the support of the church is one of the Christian graces, and only those who possess this grace can fully realize the truth of the text "It is more blessed to give than to receive." If the grace of liberality abounded among Christians, the minister instead of having to beg his people to give for the support of the church, would find them begging him to receive their contributions as Paul found the Macedonians, "How that in a trial of great affliction, the abundance of their joy, and their deep poverty abounded into the riches of their liberality;" praying with much entreaty that he receive they feel it a duty to give cannot realize they feel it a duty to give cannot realize the pleasure of those who give for the love of giving. The grace of liberality may be obtained through consecration and prayer, and the acquisition of this grace should be prayed for as devoutly as any other of the Christian graces. In congregations where it ker called the attention of his auditors to the and the acquisition of this grace should be prayed for as devoutly as any other of the Christian graces. In congregations where it is lacking, the mere taking up a collection chills the worshippers and they feign to fear that the important matters of religion are being interfered with in the mere desire to get money. Christians who are so ready to retrench their contributions to the Lord should remember that the Lord has many means of retrenching on them—war, restimeans of retrenching on them—war, pesti-lence, famine, the locust and the grass-hop-per are some of the scourges He uses to re-mind man of his dependence on Him.

The reverend orator was rather severe on three classes of people to be found in all con-gregations; first, the rich who give liberally to be seen of men, but not according to the abundance of their means; and secondly, abundance of their means; and secondly, those who give nothing on the plea of poverty, though they could give by the practice of self-denial; and thirdly, a class of rich and poor alike, who seem to have all the religion knocked out of them the moment a collection is talked of. The grace of liberality may be developed by exercise as surely as muscle may be thus developed, and the preacher held it to be the duty of every one to lay by daily for the uses of the church a certain sun, in accordance as God has prespected him. daily for the uses of the church a certain sun, in accordance as God has prospered him. There are many who give but little during their lives and who provide liberally for the church in their wills. Some of these are canonized, whereas the amount of their posthumous gift is scarcely enough to pay the interest on what during life they owed to the Lord.

The speaker held that the great need of the church of the present and future is money. The spread of the gospel requires it, the Christian people are able to provide it; the missionaries from all lands are calling for help and our answer to them is "we have not the means to help you. At the conclusion of Rev. Studebaker's discourse, Rev. W. A. Whetstone was introduced and spoke at some length of the sacri-fices—the gifts—required by the Lord under the old dispensation from the time of Abel to the coming of Christ, who, under the new dispensation, gave Himself to save sinners, while His disciples gave up everything to further His kingdom. The duty of sacrificing something, of giving to the Lord is a duty enjoined at the beginning and continued through all time; and Christians can no more shirk this duty than they can the faith and the prayers enjoined on them. The gift ay be great or little according to the circumness of the giver. God judges not by what we give, but what we keep. The speaker ventured the assertion that there is not a congregation in this or other cities that does not spend more money in the skating rinks than for the cause of home or foreign missions. old disper

Discussing Important Questions Wednesday Morning .- After devotional exercises, led by Rev. J. Fishburn, of Millersburg, the question of "How to get scholars into the Sunday school?" was discussed by Rev. M. P. Hocker, of Steelton. His points were: 1st. To have the pastor deeply inter-ested in the work; 2d. A superintendent affable, attractive and earnest; 3d. Teachers efficient, punctual and willing to work out-side the school as well as inside; 4th. Church members having the interest of the school at members having the interest of the school at heart; 5th. Missionary work among non-at-tending children; 6th. Comfortable and at-tractive school rooms; and 7th. Good school supplies of books, charts, pictures, etc. Rev. C. Reimensnyder followed with a general endorsement of Rev. Hocker's propo-sition. He added that there were in the United States 7,000,000 children who did not attend the Sunday schools. Ministers, superintendents and teachers should go out among the homes of these children and superintendents and teachers should go out among the homes of these children and gather them in. Another means is the agita-tion of Sunday school work in the com-munity, and holding out inducements for parents to attend the schools. Rev. Reimen-snyder related several instances in which fourishing schools had been built up by these means in communities where before there were no schools. there were no schools.

there were no schools.

Mr. Reehling, a layman, followed with his experience in building up schools by the aid of good music and district conventions.

Rev. Holloway said that he did most of his church work through committees, each of which had certain defined duties to perform.

The Sunday school committee was expected to go out among the people, especially those to go out among the people, especially those whose childre: not attend the Sunday school, and ascertan. ireircumstances, and if they need aid to purchase clothing for their children to assist them.

"How to keep scholars in the Sunday school?" was next discussed. Rev. J. H. Leeser said the subject was so closely connected with the preceding one that many of the same arguments used would apply to both questions. Much depends on the condition of the school; on the superintendent, teachers and school surroundings. If these be attractive and inviting there is no trouble in keeping the scholars. It is with the Sunday school as it is with our homes; some are so delightful that children do not want to be anywhere else and some so unpleasant so delightful that children do not want to be anywhere else and some so unpleasant that they would rather be anywhere else. He favored good music, a number of instruments—organs, horns, flute, etc., when they can be had. Presents to the pupils had a good effect. Above all the superintendent should be affable and wise. The teachers should be apt to teach gentle, kind and impartial. They should be familiar with the lessons for this purpose, preparing themselves before hand. The difficulty of getting good teachers shows the necessity of reducing the number of classes in the school and increasing the size of the classes.

It was resolved to put a strong amateur nine in the field next season. Wm. The heavy fall of snow last night, on top of that which previously covered the ground, makes it very necessary for the comfort of pedestrians and the safety of property that the snow should be removed from the sidewalks, and that the gutters, sewers and ciner water-courses should be kept open. A city ordinance requires the occupants of houses, shops, stables and public buildings and the owners of vacant lots to remove the snow from the sidewalks within five work in hours after it shall have fallen, and to open the gutters so that it may have free passage in case of a thaw. The fine for violating the ordinance is from $1 to $10 for each offense.

The judges decided upon Mr. Hugentogler the winner after a tie was made by Harry Dodge, Wells and Hugentogler.

Serious Leaks.

Several of the fire plugs around town are in a very demoralized condition. The one at Lime and Orange streets was thought to be leaking yesterday and workmen spent all the afternoon, part of the night, and all of today in the effort to find the leak, without success. It has been found that the pipe supplying the pave wash at this corner was leaking, and the plug is intact. The water in the main was turned off for a time, occasioning a lack of water in that section of the city. The leak has not yet been discovered.

A Hawk's Lunch Yesterday afternoon a very large chicken hawk swooped down upon the poultry yard of D. W. Meisse, grocer, of North Queen street, caught a pigeon and promptly chewed off his head. When Mr. Meisse saw the hawk he was sitting on the fence calmly lunching off the pigeon. Before a gun could be procured the cruel hawk had made his owner.
